Rusk Bids For Quick Selection

Dag's Successor To Be Temporary

NEW YORK (AP) — Secretary of State Dean Rusk called on the United Nations General Assembly today to name "an outstanding world leader" to take over the powers of U.N. secretary-general temporarily.

In a statement prepared for a speech he is making here later today, Rusk declared, "Events cannot permit drift and indecision in the leadership of the United Nations."

Must Fill Void Now

He declared that the 99-nation General Assembly "must move rapidly to fill the void" created by the death of Dag Hammarskjold.

Rusk's statement was released about two hours in advance of its formal delivery at a luncheon meeting of the Foreign Press Association.

The move was obviously aimed at trying to stir up a powerful drive in the United Nations Assembly to override Soviet opposition to the appointment of a new U.N. chief executive.

Two Discuss Leadership

Rusk and Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko discussed the U.N. leadership crisis in a 4½-hour meeting Thursday afternoon. Most of their time, however, was spent on the Berlin crisis.

It appeared following their talks that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev must decide in a week or so whether he is willing

Study on Homes For Aged Opens

Council Also Acts to Gain Federal Help of $94,350 for Urban Renewal

A special committee to study need of housing for the city's aged was named at Thursday night's meeting of the Common Council which also legislated to gain a federal sum of $94,350 for local urban renewal.

Alderman-at-Large Harold L. Kaye named aldermen Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward; John P. Heitzman (D) 12th Ward, and Clark W. Myers (R) Second Ward, as the committee, after the reading of a letter from Mayor Edwin F. Radel, who proposed the study by his administration and the committee.

Stresses Need for Study

Requests made to his office along with results of some surveys, the mayor noted, point to the need for continued study. Work in this direction, he noted, is being done by the Kingston Housing Authority through cooperation of church groups, social agencies and others. A report on this is expected to be made in the near future, he said.

"From the population studies and census figures, recently compiled by the federal government," he said, "it is indicated that communities such as ours, should give deep and serious consideration to caring for the housing needs of our senior citizens," It would be the council committee's function, he said, to aid in determining what steps should be taken.

Must Comply Further

In his letter dealing with urban renewal, the mayor noted that previous action was sufficient to record the council's intention of carrying on with urban renewal, but it was since found that compliance with a special form is required.

The resolution adopted makes the city's formal bid for $94,350, to be used in advancing Project 1 in the Rondout area, to be known as "Broadway East." The sum will be used for detail planning.

Alderman James K. Ryan (D) 10th Ward, council majority leader, announced that arrangements have been proposed for bidding on review of accounts in city departments. A New York firm has been checking city accounts for the past several years, and it was recently proposed that local firms be given opportunity to submit bids. Ryan proposed that the deadline date should be no later than Dec. 1.

Against Assessing Ones Built

Report Adopted On Precautions

Kingston joined a national minority in moving for community fallout shelters when its Common Council Thursday night approved recommendations of a special committee.

The aldermen seek full information on installation of a generating plant, radio units, stocking of foods, use of available water and other data required for the building of shelter facilities in a downtown system of limestone caves.

They also seek legislation that would free privately built shelters from assessment, proposed mandatory building of shelters in new public buildings, including schools, and reqrested a study that could lead to use of an additional cave system adjacent to that now being considered.

Sentiment of Committee

The committee, headed by Alderman Donald M. Hastings (D) Third Ward, in a preamble to its report, said it felt that "mass fallout shelters are feasible in the City of Kingston at a lower cost than individual family fallout shelters, and should be developed at this time with at least the bare essentials." Serving on the committee also are Edward J. Schrowang (R) First Ward, and Lawrence E. Woerner (D) Fourth Ward.

"To the few skeptics," said the preamble, "who you hear recite, 'What's the use?' it should be pointed out that creation is not our divine power, nor is it our divine power to desert life without an effort."

Last night's action, the committee noted, was intended only to permit it to proceed with "some format in the protection of our population." It also felt that its action would in no way interfere with what the city might be entitled to in federal aid.

Would Show Interest

Rather, it said, "it will show that Kingston is interested in protecting its citizens and doing something about it. There should be every effort made in these plans so that such projcts would not become a financial burden to the citizens, but if we members of the Common Council can provide the bare essentials for existance during a nuclear attack, we are accomplishing nothing special or spectacular—only our obligations and responsibilities."

The committee advised that its action should not discourage the private building of family-unit shelters.

Would Equip Police

Included in its four-phase report was proposed use of anti-radiation suits "such as pictured on the cover of the Sept. 15 issue of Life Magazine." These would be supplied to the police and others who would be required to be active in the open within the range of fallout.

The report proposed that the generating plant, could be either gasoline or diesel. It would provide fresh air, heat, lights and water pressure in the event of damage to outside electric power.

Benjamin on Project

A study of such requirements, it noted, "is now under way through the aid of Joseph Benjamin, resident manager of the Central Hudson Gas & Electric Corp." A sketch with the report gave general information on a 50,000 watt type of generator.

A radio transmitter and receiver units, would be of a size capable of maintaining contact with Conelrad along with other units in the city and county. Both radio and generator units, the committee felt, might be gained by the matching of state or federal funds.

Stockpiling of foods, said the report, is high on the priority list of the nation's new Civil Defense Organization. The committee said it will deal with Charles Arnold, deputy director of civil defense, and possibly with hospital dieticians in gaining advice, and it proposed getting bids on canned foods, survival biscuits, vitamins and vitamin C concentrates. It proposed seeking bids from some of the nation's larger packing companies.

The committee said that after conferring with Harry F. Edinger, the county health department's director of environmental

Soviet Ready to Talk, But—

Nikita Ties German Treaty to World Peace

MOSCOW (AP) — Premier Khrushchev said today the Soviet Union is ready to negotiate any time, any place to insure peace. But he told Prime Minister Nehru of India, in a letter, the talks which the so-called nonaligned nations proposed between him and President Kennedy should be part of a wider scheme devoted to drawing up a German peace treaty.

The Soviet premier tied the question of a German peace teaty and the situation in West Berlin to universal and complete disarmament. He said these two questions are linked and must be solved simultaneously.

Reply to Conference

Khrushchev was replying to a letter the recent Belgrade, Yugoslavia, conference of 25 nonaligned nations sent him Sept. 5. It asked specifically for a meeting of the Soviet premier and the U.S. President. It was delivered here by Nehru and President Kwame Nkrumah of Ghana.

Khrushchev's letter, as reported by the Soviet news agency Tass, said "the threat of war has never perhaps been as great in the postwar period as it is now." He blamed the Western powers who, he said, are "intensifying military preparations in every way." The Soviet Union, he said, has therefore been compelled to take measures to strengthen its security.

His answer to the plea for negotiations was the same as he gave in a speech here during Nehru's visit.

Sees Nuclear Catastrophe

BERLIN (AP) — Premier Khrushchev said today war over Germany would "inevitably lead to a nuclear world catastrophe."

His words came in a message to the opening session of the Communist-dominated World Trade Federation meeting. Two hundred delegates from 40 countries are taking part in the East Berlin meeting "for a German peace treaty and the peaceful solution of the Berlin problem."

Khrushchev reiterated his proposals for solution of the German problem—signing of a peace treaty with both parts of Germany and turning West Berlin into a free city.

300 Workers Back On Electrol Jobs After 1-Day Halt

Production was resumed today at Electrol Incorporated, Grand Street, following a labor dispute which resulted in a company announcement Thursday that the plant would be closed until further notice.

Some 300 persons, more than 260 of them members of the International Association of Machinists, Local 1562, returned to their jobs at 8 a. m. today following a Thursday afternoon conference between labor and management.

To Meet Next Week

A company spokesman said today that production problems brought about by a wildcat strike in several departments of the plant created an economic and production condition which forced the company to suspend operations. However, following a meeting between management and labor it was agreed all employes would return to work today.

He added that the differences which resulted in the shutdown would be resolved in meetings next week.

Over Grievance Claim

Anthony Casciaro, president of IAM Local 1562, told The Freeman the dispute stemmed from a grievance claim by seven members of the drilling department. He said the company declined to permit all seven involved to leave their jobs and attend a

Storm Heads Out To Sea, Skipped Mainland Strike

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Weather Bureau Thursday night reported she was traveling northeasterly into the Atlantic with a center wind velocity of less than 70 miles per hour.

The Canadian maritime provinces, alerted for any big blow, were told to expect winds of only 40 m.p.h. and a fair amount of rainfall.

Esther inflicted much less damage than expected, and no deaths directly attributable to the storm were reported.

An alert along the entire Eastern Seaboard aided considerably.

Most of the damage was caused by high winds which blew down trees and power lines, by high coastal tides, and by flooding due to heavy rainfall.

New England, remembering the devastating hurricane of 1938, girded for heavy damage. But Esther veered to sea when it appeared she would make her first landfall at Cape Cod.

Among the Cape Codders evacuated were President Kennedy's two children, Caroline, 3, and John Jr., 9 months. They were taken from Hyannis Port, Mass., to Otis Air Force Base.

Fallout Count Is Highest in State Since Red Tests

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — The radioactive fallout count in New York State Thursday was the highest since Russia resumed testing nuclear weapons Sept. 1.

The count was 39, the State Health Department reported. The department regards a sustained reading of 100 or more as dangerous to humans.

The previous high this year was 33 last Sunday. Before Russia resumed testing, the normal count in the state was .05, the department said.

Law Forbids State Responsibility Now

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, of Woodstock, today said he has been informed that the Washington Avenue viaduct project will be on the state public works department's 1962 construction program.

The city, pending razing of the nearly half-century-old railroad overpass, has asked the state to take full responsibility for it, but Wilson said he also learned that this cannot be done.

The assemblyman said he was told by J. Burch McMorran, state public works superintendent, that a state law provides that no thoroughfare may be deemed part of the state highway system until actual construction or improvements are begun.

Final plans, McMorran told Wilson, are expected to be finished by next spring, and bids will be called for soon after that.

Alderman John P. Heitzman (D) 12th Ward, said at the Sept. 5 Common Council meeting that he had talked with Mayor Edwin F. Radel, on the state responsibility proposal and he asked that a letter be sent to McMorran. One was sent soon after the council meeting, but no reply has been reported by the mayor, to date.

M. Nicholas Sinacora, district state engineer at Poughkeepsie, recently said plans were not ready for public hearing, but he hoped they would before the end of the year.

Razing of the viaduct has been ordered by the Public Service Commission. The project entails replacement of the narrow Esopus Creek bridge, reconstruction of a section of Washington Avenue and of Route 28 for a short distance just west of the bridge.

May Be Timed With Berlin Crisis

See Reds Opening New Viet Nam Offense Soon

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some military authorities today forecast a drive by Communist North Viet Nam to grab part of anti-Communist South Viet Nam, possibly by using regular forces instead of guerrilla infiltrators.

Such an offensive, they said, could come in November and December, after the rainy season ends in that part of the world.

Grave U. S. Challenge

A move of this sort could present the United States with a grave challenge about the time the Berlin crisis might be coming to a head. Such twin threats thousands of miles apart would put considerable strain on U.S. military resources.

"One thing is fairly clear," said one military expert on Southeast Asia. "The North Vietnamese want some kind of an enclave to play with politically."

By this, he indicated a belief that the North Vietnamese Reds may be anxious to occupy a slice of South Viet Nam, as a base for creating a puppet "government" to rival the pro-Western regime of President Ngo Dinh Diem.

Rely on Guerrillas

Up to now, the Communists have relied chiefly on hit-and-run guerrilla bands in the years-long offensive. Sometimes they have managed through terror tactics to dominate regions of South Viet Nam, but never to take them over entirely. The Communists rarely have challenged the American-trained South Vietnamese Army in full dress battle.

The Kennedy administration has undertaken a big increase in U.S. military aid to South Viet Nam, pointed in part at building up that country's army, providing better arms and other equipment.

Officials disclosed Thursday the United States is stepping up the flow of communications gear and other help to South Viet Nam, which is coping with a rash of Communist raids.

One reason for thinking there may be a push by regular type Communist Vietnamese, military sources said, is that the anti-Communist South Vietnamese are "getting better at killing off the guerrillas."

These sources estimated the North Vietnamese forces at well over 350,000 men. The South Vietnamese army will reach about 170,000 by November and the aim is to boost this to 200,000.

Military authorities familiar with the terrain and background of the long fighting in Southeast Asia said Communist North Vietnamese apparently are coming into South Viet Nam by way of neighboring Laos.

Air Force Calls For Big Part in Guarding Space

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Air Force said today that interplanetary space is a military medium—one in which the Air Force must have a dominating role.

Gen. B. A. Schriever, chief of the systems command, said the first space weapon—the intercontinental ballistic missile—inevitably will be followed "more quickly than some people realize," by new weapons potentialty more destructive.

"For this reason the aerospace force of tomorrow must be able to operate in space and to detect and counter any threat in that arena," Schriever said.

Gen. William F. McKee, chief of the logistics command, disclosed that that agency already is planning air materiel depots to be stationed in space and on other planets "where needed and when prudent."

The space plans of the two major commands were disclosed in papers prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Air Force Association.

Stress Great Financial Cost to Public

2 Business Leaders Call Government Growing Giant That Upsets Society

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Two New York State business leaders described government today as a rapidly growing giant upsetting the balance of society, almost to the point of no return.

Schools, business and government have been turned into custodians of the populace, they said.

Ellis M. Trefethen, manager of community relations for the General Electric Co., said "government, is like crab grass. Unless you fight it, it keeps on spreading."

The two leaders made their remarks in addresses prepared for delivery at the 47th annual, three-day meeting of Associated Industries. Gov. Rockefeller addresses the state's business leaders tonight.

Trefethen and Shaw charged local, state and federal governments with undertaking more and more responsibility at a great financial cost to the public while threatening the existence of democracy.

But despite Shaw's stand, the directors of Associated Industries yesterday endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize creation of a job-development authority.

The state's credit would be used to support $50-million worth of authority loans for rehabilitation of industrial and manufacturing plants.

The amendment is one of seven to be voted upon by the electorate in November.

Trefethen charged that government expenditures had sent taxes skyrocketing and were not likely to go down "if President Kennedy's program is implemented by federal legislation."

The General Electric executive listed these Kennedy proposals as "of the crab grass variety":

Federal aid to depressed areas, federal aid to education, the omnibus housing bill, medical aid to the aged, the omnibus farming bill, federal aid to combat water pollution, and federal aid to assist mass transportation.

"No matter what their original size," Trefethen said, "they tend to grow as years go by."

Trefethen urged business leaders to become better informed, communicate with employes and support candidates for public office "who feel the same way you do about government costs."

Shaw said the public seemed to be losing sight of the fact that the primary function of business was "to operate at a profit."

He said:

"...Many people believe that the sole function of industry is to take care of its employes, on the job as well as off the job, and to provide for their families..."

Shaw said there was a trend toward a custodial society.

"Our public schools," he said, "originally established to educate, now have an added function to provide for the custody of young people until they are ready to move into industry, when the cus-

Wanted to Make Big Splash

Realtor Admits $670,000 Art Theft in Los Angeles

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Palm Springs real estate salesman who police say admitted he took paintings valued at $670,000 "so I could draw attention to myself and make a big splash," succeeded.

Edward Henry Ashdown, 29, of Costa Mesa, Calif., led police Thursday night to a bus depot and rented garage where officers found the four art works stolen Sept. 10 from the Bel-Air mansion of industrialist David Bright.

Ashdown, arrested late Wednesday, first denied taking the two Picassos, a Modigliani and an Afro. But when the district attorney's office issued a complaint charging him with suspicion of robbery and grand theft, police said he admitted the crime.

Ashdown said he had no intention of selling the paintings.

In the Hollywood bus depot police found Modigliani's "The Chocolitier" rolled up in a suitcase stored in a luggage rack.

Picasso's "The Portrait of Sebastian" and "Looking Through The Window," and an Afro abstract were rolled together in a plastic garment bag and hung in the closet of a West Los Angeles garage Ashdown said he rented as a storage spot.

Dr. Richard Brown of the Los Angeles County Art Museum, who verified the authenticity of the paintings, said the "Portrait of Sebastian" had flaked somewhat because it had been rolled too tightly.

Ashdown told police he "cased" the Bright mansion when he visited as the guest of Bright's mother-in-law, Lottie Newmire.

A gunman knocked at the Bright door the night of the robbery and pulled a pistol from a bouquet of gladioli when the maid answered. She was forced into a closet by the thief before he made off with the paintings.

Though the paintings were insured for $246,165, a spokesman for Bright set their market value at $670,000.

Gen. B. A. Schriever, chief of the systems command, said the first space weapon—the intercontinental ballistic missile—inevitably will be followed "more quickly than some people realize," by new weapons potentially more destructive.

"For this reason the aerospace force of tomorrow must be able to operate in space and to detect and counter any threat in that arena," Schriever said.

Gen. William F. McKee, chief of the logistics command, disclosed that that agency already is planning air materiel depots to be stationed in space and on other planets "where needed and when prudent."

The space plans of the two major commands were disclosed in papers prepared for delivery to the annual convention of the Air Force Association.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The Boston Weather Bureau Thursday night reported she was traveling northeasterly into the Atlantic with a center wind velocity of less than 70 miles per hour.

The Canadian maritime provinces, alerted for any big blow, were told to expect winds of only 40 m.p.h. and a fair amount of rainfall.

Esther inflicted much less damage than expected, and no deaths directly attributable to the storm were reported.

An alert along the entire Eastern Seaboard aided considerably.

Most of the damage was caused by high winds which blew down trees and power lines, by high coastal tides, and by flooding due to heavy rainfall.

New England, remembering the devastating hurricane of 1938, girded for heavy damage. But Esther veered to sea when it appeared she would make her first landfall at Cape Cod.

Among the Cape Codders evacuated were President Kennedy's two children, Caroline, 3, and John Jr., 9 months. They were taken from Hyannis Port, Mass., to Otis Air Force Base.

Law Forbids State Responsibility Now

Assemblyman Kenneth L. Wilson, of Woodstock, today said he has been informed that the Washington Avenue viaduct project will be on the state public works department's 1962 construction program.

The city, pending razing of the nearly half-century-old railroad overpass, has asked the state to take full responsibility for it, but Wilson said he also learned that this cannot be done.

The assemblyman said he was told by J. Burch McMorran, state public works superintendent, that a state law provides that no thoroughfare may be deemed part of the state highway system until actual construction or improvements are begun.

Final plans, McMorran told Wilson, are expected to be finished by next spring, and bids will be called for soon after that.

Alderman John P. Heitzman (D) 12th Ward, said at the Sept. 5 Common Council meeting that he had talked with Mayor Edwin F. Radel, on the state responsibility proposal and he asked that a letter be sent to McMorran. One was sent soon after the council meeting, but no reply has been reported by the mayor, to date.

M. Nicholas Sinacora, district state engineer at Poughkeepsie, recently said plans were not ready for public hearing, but he hoped they would before the end of the year.

Razing of the viaduct has been ordered by the Public Service Commission. The project entails replacement of the narrow Esopus Creek bridge, reconstruction of a section of Washington Avenue and of Route 28 for a short distance just west of the bridge.

Stress Great Financial Cost to Public

2 Business Leaders Call Government Growing Giant That Upsets Society

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — Two New York State business leaders described government today as a rapidly growing giant upsetting the balance of society, almost to the point of no return.

Schools, business and government have been turned into custodians of the populace, they said.

Ellis M. Trefethen, manager of community relations for the General Electric Co., said "government, is like crab grass. Unless you fight it, it keeps on spreading."

The two leaders made their remarks in addresses prepared for delivery at the 47th annual, three-day meeting of Associated Industries. Gov. Rockefeller addresses the state's business leaders tonight.

Trefethen and Shaw charged local, state and federal governments with undertaking more and more responsibility at a great financial cost to the public while threatening the existence of democracy.

But despite Shaw's stand, the directors of Associated Industries yesterday endorsed a proposed constitutional amendment that would authorize creation of a job-development authority.

The state's credit would be used to support $50-million worth of authority loans for rehabilitation of industrial and manufacturing plants.

The amendment is one of seven to be voted upon by the electorate in November.

Trefethen charged that government expenditures had sent taxes skyrocketing and were not likely to go down "if President Kennedy's program is implemented by federal legislation."

The General Electric executive listed these Kennedy proposals as "of the crab grass variety":

Federal aid to depressed areas, federal aid to education, the omnibus housing bill, medical aid to the aged, the omnibus farming bill, federal aid to combat water pollution, and federal aid to assist mass transportation.

"No matter what their original size," Trefethen said, "they tend to grow as years go by."

Trefethen urged business leaders to become better informed, communicate with employes and support candidates for public office "who feel the same way you do about government costs."

Shaw said the public seemed to be losing sight of the fact that the primary function of business was "to operate at a profit."

He said:

"...Many people believe that the sole function of industry is to take care of its employes, on the job as well as off the job, and to provide for their families..."

Shaw said there was a trend toward a custodial society.

"Our public schools," he said, "originally established to educate, now have an added function to provide for the custody of young people until they are ready to move into industry, when the cus-

Wanted to Make Big Splash

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A Palm Springs real estate salesman who police say admitted he took paintings valued at $670,000 "so I could draw attention to myself and make a big splash," succeeded.

Edward Henry Ashdown, 29, of Costa Mesa, Calif., led police Thursday night to a bus depot and rented garage where officers found the four art works stolen Sept. 10 from the Bel-Air mansion of industrialist David Bright.

Ashdown, arrested late Wednesday, first denied taking the two Picassos, a Modigliani and an Afro. But when the district attorney's office issued a complaint charging him with suspicion of robbery and grand theft, police said he admitted the crime.

Ashdown said he had no intention of selling the paintings.

Picasso's "The Portrait of Sebastian" and "Looking Through The Window," and an Afro abstract were rolled together in a plastic garment bag and hung in the closet of a West Los Angeles garage Ashdown said he rented as a storage spot.

Dr. Richard Brown of the Los Angeles County Art Museum, who verified the authenticity of the paintings, said the "Portrait of Sebastian" had flaked somewhat because it had been rolled too tightly.

Ashdown told police he "cased" the Bright mansion when he visited as the guest of Bright's mother-in-law, Lottie Newmire.

A gunman knocked at the Bright door the night of the robbery and pulled a pistol from a bouquet of gladioli when the maid answered. She was forced into a closet by the thief before he made off with the paintings.

Though the paintings were insured for $246,165, a spokesman for Bright set their market value at $670,000.

300 Workers Back On Electrol Jobs After 1-Day Halt

Production was resumed today at Electrol Incorporated, Grand Street, following a labor dispute which resulted in a company announcement Thursday that the plant would be closed until further notice.

Some 300 persons, more than 260 of them members of the International Association of Machinists, Local 1562, returned to their jobs at 8 a. m. today following a Thursday afternoon conference between labor and management.

To Meet Next Week

A company spokesman said today that production problems brought about by a wildcat strike in several departments of the plant created an economic and production condition which forced the company to suspend operations. However, following a meeting between management and labor it was agreed all employes would return to work today.

He added that the differences which resulted in the shutdown would be resolved in meetings next week.

Over Grievance Claim

Anthony Casciaro, president of IAM Local 1562, told The Freeman the dispute stemmed from a grievance claim by seven members of the drilling department. He said the company declined to permit all seven involved to leave their jobs and attend a

Society Seeks New Officers

The annual meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society on Saturday, Sept. 23, at the Woodstock Methodist Church hall on Tinker Street is faced with the problem of filling several officer vacancies. The meeting is scheduled at 3 p. m.

Among the resignations are those of Adf Evers, president; Mrs. Margaret Kenyon, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Frederick P. Platt and Harold Manierre, trustees.

Edgar C. Leaycraft has been serving as acting president.

The trustees have accepted the resignations with regret as all the members concerned have devoted long hours of work to the society.

Suggest Merger

A merger of the Woodstock Historical Society with the Ulster County Historical Society has been suggested. The reasons advanced for such a step are: the recent resignations of officers and trustees, the lack of active participation by the members, and the lack of a central headquarters for the society. Such a merger would provide a place for the records and documents of the Woodstock society and relieve the membership of all responsibility for running the society.

On the other hand, with active membership support, the Woodstock Historical Society can be kept a going organization. Five of the nine trustees are anxious to continue the work so ably started by Dr. Schutze in 1930. They have appointed E. C. Leaycraft as acting president. New candidates for trustee have been found and plans are going forward to revive and reactivate the Woodstock Historical Society.

All members of the society are urged to attend this important meeting to vote on the question of continuing as an independent organization. In addition, anyone interested in joining the society can contact the acting President, E. C. Leaycraft, in Woodstock.

H. Schimmerling About Careers

Ambitious students who want to become professional musicians seldom reach the goal they want. Many do not know their limitations. Ambition is a healthy quality; but ambition without considering one's limitations leads to frustration and disappointment.

Young singers dream of becoming a star of the Metropolitan Opera or a concert soloist in Carnegie Hall. When they eventually get a position as a member of a professional chorus and not more, they blame everyone but themselves. Pianists dream of becoming another Rubinstein; but when they are supposed to accompany a violinist or to coach a singer—few of them, anyway, know how to do this—they feel that Fate is cruel which forced them to do "inferior type of work below their dignity."

This is the old story of the frustrated would-be-star. Of course, there is nothing wrong with such jobs as being a member of a chorus, a fine church singer, an accompanist, a coach, etc. We would have more good professionals in types of jobs as mentioned above and less disappointment and frustration if facts, that is realizing one's limitations in talent and training and curricula properly adapted to the intended branch of future professional activity, would be taken into consideration at the earliest possible moment.

Instrumental or vocal soloists on the concert platform, operatic singers, accompanists, coaches, members of an orchestra, band or chorus, conductors, composers, music teachers, show business (TV, radio and others) are frequently mentioned as professions in music. But it is an amazing fact that one profession is utterly neglected as far as education and preparation for this life is concerned. One hardly hears anything about it when discussing the professional possibilities of a music student; the job of an editor and arranger.

Some Comes Easy

This writer has made some of his "easiest and best money" fast if compared with the struggle for achivements in other fields. Never mind, dear readers, there is nothing wrong with arranging a folksong for voice and piano or for mixed chorus, to re-arrange a mixed chorus for male or female voices, to make piano reductions from an orchestra score, to orchestrate a piano setting, to transcribe a symphonic score for band music, to extract parts from a score. Even transposing and copying from a manuscript on "master sheets" can earn good money. Editors and arrangers employed by music publishing houses are usually well paid. If you are self-employed you can earn still more.

To make $200 a week you don't even have to rush back and forth between your home and an office. A writing desk, a piano, talent and good training is sufficient. For ambitious and gifted musicians and money earners, $300 a week (or more) is not just only a pipe dream. Certain jobs, paid by a fee of $50 or 100 could be done perhaps in a day, by skilled musicians in a couple of hours or so.

It is absurd that these professional activities are not considered by music students or their advisers. It is regrettable that students in the upper grades of high schools and colleges are not told about and have no possibility to be prepared for that work, that even special music schools show little interest for it. As a private teacher I always felt it my duty to mention the possibilities outlined above when consulted by parents of students or students themselves who intend to make music their profession; and this in the case when I felt that they did not have the minimum requirements for the job of a performer they dreamt of.

To avoid any misunderstanding: the above said has nothing to do with students who do NOT wish to be professional musicians; who only wish to enjoy music; who wish to make music part of their cultural life; who wish to participate in the rich heritage that music has to offer; who wish to absorb the refinement which music can give to our soul. For this purpose, everyone should be encouraged to "consume music every day as part of one's daily bread for soul and mind" . . . H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Expert Praises Crafts Exhibit

The 1961 Exhibition of Craft at the Kleinert Gallery of the Woodstock Guild presents a very new look. An impartial jury of three has awarded money prizes for "Best in Show" and "Best Student Work" which went, respectively, to Lisa Kramer for her beautiful block-print and Ray Kenyon for his silver work. Both were good choices.

Honorable mention went to seven other exhibitors. Special mention should be made of the coffee-tables and bench by Hansen which show a fine feeling for the material, and a high degree of craftsmanship. In other media, the Frey's textiles must be seen, the silver-ware of Matzdorf, and the jewelry of Mason. The 'sandpiper' rug of Drake is noteworthy, as is the stone fish of Wrolsen.

The hanging committee headed by Don Jennings is to be congratulated on the new and dynamic presentation they went to so much pains to give Woodstock.—JOHN McCLELLAN.

'Deep Is Hunger' Sunday Sermon Theme At Shady Methodist

Rally Day will be observed at the regular Sunday evening church service at the Methodist Church of Sady, beginning at 7:30 p. m. on September 24.

The Rev. H. Chase Page, pastor, will deliver a sermon on the topic "Deep Is Hunger," and will also offer a children's sermon in defference to Rally Day.

The usual Coffee and Fellowship Hour will be held directly following the service in the church hall, with the entire congregation and visitors invited to attend.

Sunday school is held every Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m., with Arthur MacDaniel, superintendent, in charge. Classes are provided for all ages and visitors are always welcome.

It was reported by a member of the church that the public auction held last Saturday for the benefit of the window repair fund, "was a decided success, with enough being realized to repair the stained glass window in the church." Victor Van Wagenen, auctioneer of Hig Falls, was in charge of the event. The contract for the repair of the church windows has been awarded, with work scheduled to begin soon.

Ave Reports to Nehru

Name World . . .

Still for Troika

On the U.N. front of the East-West cold war, Gromyko told Rusk he intends to insist on the appointment of a three-ma ndirectorate to take over Hammarskjold's duties. He is absolutely opposed to any kind of any temporary arrangement, diplomats said.

Thus, while the Berlin crisis carries a greater danger of war, the U.N. dispute presents a more immediate and critical Soviet challenge to the United States and the leadership role it seeks to play in the United Nations.

"It is unfortunately clear," Rusk said, "that an immediate agreement cannot be expected on the naming of a permanent secretary-general. The United States therefore believes that action must be taken now to assure that the functions of office of the secretary-general are performed effectively and fully while agreement is sought on the appointment of a new secretary-general.

"An outstanding world leader should be named immediately to perform the functions of the office of the secretary-general for a temporary period, during which efforts to elect a permanent secretary-general should proceed in accordance with Article 97 of the charter."

Won't Yield to Threats

Rusk told Gromyko the United States, Britain, France and West Germany want a peaceful solution of the Berlin issue but that they will never yield to Soviet threats or bargain away their basic rights in the disputed city. Gromyko gave no sign of willingness to modify the Soviet position, but did agree to meet Rusk again next week.

The interval between sessions gives both men time to report to their respective chiefs—President Kennedy and Khrushchev. Rusk is expected also to inform Allied governments. While there is no time limit on the talks, Western diplomats say Khrushchev's decision on a basis for East-West negotiation should be made known in a week or so.

Rusk has an opportunity today to explain publicly the stand of the United States and its Allies as developed in a Western foreign ministers conference at Washington a week ago. He will address a luncheon meeting of the Foreign Press Association with a question and answer session to follow.

Meet 4½ Hours

The U. S. and Soviet foreign policy chiefs met in Rusk's skyscraper suite in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel for 4½ hours Thursday. The session was the first in a series initiated by Rusk to find out whether a basis for East-Wet negotiations is possible.

Half a dozen aides and advisers of each attended the luncheon, including Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, the top U. S. and Soviet delegates to the United Nations.

Around the blue-clothed dining table the conferees talked over the problems of peace in Laos, where Red military successes earlier this year forced the U.S.-supported Laotian government and the Western powers to seek a solution in neutrality for the Asian kingdom.

They also discussed the leadership crisis in the United Nations following the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Rusk told Gromyko a big majority of the U.N.'s 99 members oppose the Soviet Union's plan to replace Hammarskjold with a three-man board. The U.N. secretariat must have a single director in order to function, Rusk argued. Gromyko stuck firmly to Khrushchev's proposal.

Farmwife Is Held On Kidnap Charge

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP)—Margie Craft, 35, a farmwife and the mother of two sons, was held today on a charge of kidnaping a 7-year-old boy and demanding $15,000 for his release.

The boy, Tom Hoff, was released unharmed two hours after he was taken from a Dowagiac school on a ruse Thursday. Two hours later Mrs. Craft was arrested as she approached the release scene.

Sheriff Richard Dool said Mrs. Craft admitted the kidnaping and said she carried it out in hopes of raising funds to pay doctor bills of her cancer-ridden husband Karl, and "get him off the farm" where they live outside Decatur, Mich.

Surtax Proposal at Onteora Is Defeated by 697-602 Vote

Town of Olive and Shandaken voters combined Thursday to defeat, 697 to 602, an Onteora Central Schools District referendum which would have directed the entire school district to absorb bonded indebtedness now being paid as surtaxes by two districts within the centralization.

The vote in the combined Olive-Marbletown district was 408 to 30 against and Shandaken defeated the proposal by a vote of 140 to 41.

The town of Woodstock supported the referendum, 404 to 84, and it carried in West Hurley, 127 to 65. The variance in the Woodstock and West Hurley vote is attributed to the fact that some areas in those townships are not now affected by surtaxes.

The total vote of 1,299 fell far below the record shattering turnout of 2,695 for the million dollar bond issue on April 10 and the 1,442 vote for the budget and trustees at the annual meeting on May 4.

If carried, the referendum would have pro-rated throughout the district bonded indebtedness amounting to $257,000 in former Common School District No. 2 of Woodstock and $51,600 in former Union Free School District No. 5 at Hurley. These debts for building construction were incurred prior to the time the districts were absorbed by Onteora in a hotly contested vote.

Because of misunderstanding of the registration regulation in the Onteora district, more than 100 persons were disqualified from voting, it was reported.

Gasoline Drops 1.9 Cents Here, Not 'War' Slash

Gasoline in the greater Kingston area dropped 1.9 cents per gallon today and most stations in the city and surrounding communities were selling regular gasoline for 26.9 and 27.9 cents.

The cut, one veteran Kingston dealer reported, came when the major gasoline companies lowered their prices 1.9 cents per gallon and has nothing to do with the so-called gasoline price war in the Highland area along Route 9W. Gasoline there is selling from 22.9 to 28.9 per gallon for regular. High test varies.

However, in Port Ewen a spokesman for several stations told The Freeman today there has been no price cutting among the major stations, their prices, he explained, still remain at 29.9 cents a gallon.

Stations on Route 28 north of Kingston are selling for 26.9 and 27.9 cents, while most stations in the city and the Town of Ulster are listing their prices at 26.9. Two stations on the East Chester Street by-pass having a little war of their own are listed today at 23.9 and 24.9 cents a gallon.

Judge Schurman, Key in Driving Walker Out, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Retired Judge Jacob Gould Schurman, who had a big hand in driving the late Mayor James J. Walker from office in 1932, died Thursday at the age of 67 after a heart attack.

In 1930, Schurman volunteered as an assistant counsel in the first investigation of the City Magistrates Courts, which was headed by the late former Judge Samuel Seabury.

A year later, after the courts were cleaned up, Schurman became chief assistant in the continuing investigation of the New York County (Manhattan) district attorney's office. Seabury assigned him to look into various aspects of corruption connected with Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

Schurman was credited with a major role in exposing wrongdoing in the Walker administration.

Walker resigned when threatened with ouster by the late Franklin D. Roosevelt, then governor of New York.

Schurman, born in Ithaca, N.Y., was named for his father, who served as president of Cornell University at Ithaca. The father, who died in 1942, headed the first Philippines Island Commission and was minister to Greece, Montenegro, China and Germany.

The younger Schurman served as an infantry captain in the United States Army in World War I. He was a graduate of Cornell and received a law degree from Harvard in 1922.

He served as a trustee of Cornell University.

Society Seeks New Officers

The annual meeting of the Woodstock Historical Society on Saturday, Sept. 23, at the Woodstock Methodist Church hall on Tinker Street is faced with the problem of filling several officer vacancies. The meeting is scheduled at 3 p. m.

Among the resignations are those of Adf Evers, president; Mrs. Margaret Kenyon, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. Frederick P. Platt and Harold Manierre, trustees.

Edgar C. Leaycraft has been serving as acting president.

The trustees have accepted the resignations with regret as all the members concerned have devoted long hours of work to the society.

Suggest Merger

A merger of the Woodstock Historical Society with the Ulster County Historical Society has been suggested. The reasons advanced for such a step are: the recent resignations of officers and trustees, the lack of active participation by the members, and the lack of a central headquarters for the society. Such a merger would provide a place for the records and documents of the Woodstock society and relieve the membership of all responsibility for running the society.

On the other hand, with active membership support, the Woodstock Historical Society can be kept a going organization. Five of the nine trustees are anxious to continue the work so ably started by Dr. Schutze in 1930. They have appointed E. C. Leaycraft as acting president. New candidates for trustee have been found and plans are going forward to revive and reactivate the Woodstock Historical Society.

All members of the society are urged to attend this important meeting to vote on the question of continuing as an independent organization. In addition, anyone interested in joining the society can contact the acting President, E. C. Leaycraft, in Woodstock.

H. Schimmerling About Careers

Ambitious students who want to become professional musicians seldom reach the goal they want. Many do not know their limitations. Ambition is a healthy quality; but ambition without considering one's limitations leads to frustration and disappointment.

Young singers dream of becoming a star of the Metropolitan Opera or a concert soloist in Carnegie Hall. When they eventually get a position as a member of a professional chorus and not more, they blame everyone but themselves. Pianists dream of becoming another Rubinstein; but when they are supposed to accompany a violinist or to coach a singer—few of them, anyway, know how to do this—they feel that Fate is cruel which forced them to do "inferior type of work below their dignity."

This is the old story of the frustrated would-be-star. Of course, there is nothing wrong with such jobs as being a member of a chorus, a fine church singer, an accompanist, a coach, etc. We would have more good professionals in types of jobs as mentioned above and less disappointment and frustration if facts, that is realizing one's limitations in talent and training and curricula properly adapted to the intended branch of future professional activity, would be taken into consideration at the earliest possible moment.

Instrumental or vocal soloists on the concert platform, operatic singers, accompanists, coaches, members of an orchestra, band or chorus, conductors, composers, music teachers, show business (TV, radio and others) are frequently mentioned as professions in music. But it is an amazing fact that one profession is utterly neglected as far as education and preparation for this life is concerned. One hardly hears anything about it when discussing the professional possibilities of a music student; the job of an editor and arranger.

Some Comes Easy

This writer has made some of his "easiest and best money" fast if compared with the struggle for achivements in other fields. Never mind, dear readers, there is nothing wrong with arranging a folksong for voice and piano or for mixed chorus, to re-arrange a mixed chorus for male or female voices, to make piano reductions from an orchestra score, to orchestrate a piano setting, to transcribe a symphonic score for band music, to extract parts from a score. Even transposing and copying from a manuscript on "master sheets" can earn good money. Editors and arrangers employed by music publishing houses are usually well paid. If you are self-employed you can earn still more.

To make $200 a week you don't even have to rush back and forth between your home and an office. A writing desk, a piano, talent and good training is sufficient. For ambitious and gifted musicians and money earners, $300 a week (or more) is not just only a pipe dream. Certain jobs, paid by a fee of $50 or 100 could be done perhaps in a day, by skilled musicians in a couple of hours or so.

It is absurd that these professional activities are not considered by music students or their advisers. It is regrettable that students in the upper grades of high schools and colleges are not told about and have no possibility to be prepared for that work, that even special music schools show little interest for it. As a private teacher I always felt it my duty to mention the possibilities outlined above when consulted by parents of students or students themselves who intend to make music their profession; and this in the case when I felt that they did not have the minimum requirements for the job of a performer they dreamt of.

To avoid any misunderstanding: the above said has nothing to do with students who do NOT wish to be professional musicians; who only wish to enjoy music; who wish to make music part of their cultural life; who wish to participate in the rich heritage that music has to offer; who wish to absorb the refinement which music can give to our soul. For this purpose, everyone should be encouraged to "consume music every day as part of one's daily bread for soul and mind" . . . H. A. SCHIMMERLING.

Expert Praises Crafts Exhibit

The 1961 Exhibition of Craft at the Kleinert Gallery of the Woodstock Guild presents a very new look. An impartial jury of three has awarded money prizes for "Best in Show" and "Best Student Work" which went, respectively, to Lisa Kramer for her beautiful block-print and Ray Kenyon for his silver work. Both were good choices.

Honorable mention went to seven other exhibitors. Special mention should be made of the coffee-tables and bench by Hansen which show a fine feeling for the material, and a high degree of craftsmanship. In other media, the Frey's textiles must be seen, the silver-ware of Matzdorf, and the jewelry of Mason. The 'sandpiper' rug of Drake is noteworthy, as is the stone fish of Wrolsen.

The hanging committee headed by Don Jennings is to be congratulated on the new and dynamic presentation they went to so much pains to give Woodstock.—JOHN McCLELLAN.

'Deep Is Hunger' Sunday Sermon Theme At Shady Methodist

Rally Day will be observed at the regular Sunday evening church service at the Methodist Church of Sady, beginning at 7:30 p. m. on September 24.

The Rev. H. Chase Page, pastor, will deliver a sermon on the topic "Deep Is Hunger," and will also offer a children's sermon in defference to Rally Day.

The usual Coffee and Fellowship Hour will be held directly following the service in the church hall, with the entire congregation and visitors invited to attend.

Sunday school is held every Sunday morning at 10:30 a. m., with Arthur MacDaniel, superintendent, in charge. Classes are provided for all ages and visitors are always welcome.

It was reported by a member of the church that the public auction held last Saturday for the benefit of the window repair fund, "was a decided success, with enough being realized to repair the stained glass window in the church." Victor Van Wagenen, auctioneer of Hig Falls, was in charge of the event. The contract for the repair of the church windows has been awarded, with work scheduled to begin soon.

Ave Reports to Nehru

Name World . . .

to negotiate on a Berlin compromise or intends to push his demands closer to the brink of war.

Still for Troika

On the U.N. front of the East-West cold war, Gromyko told Rusk he intends to insist on the appointment of a three-ma ndirectorate to take over Hammarskjold's duties. He is absolutely opposed to any kind of any temporary arrangement, diplomats said.

Thus, while the Berlin crisis carries a greater danger of war, the U.N. dispute presents a more immediate and critical Soviet challenge to the United States and the leadership role it seeks to play in the United Nations.

"It is unfortunately clear," Rusk said, "that an immediate agreement cannot be expected on the naming of a permanent secretary-general. The United States therefore believes that action must be taken now to assure that the functions of office of the secretary-general are performed effeetively and fully while agreement is sought on the appointment of a new secretary-general.

"An outstanding world leader should be named immediately to perform the functions of the office of the secretary-general for a temporary period, during which efforts to elect a permanent secretary-general should proceed in accordance with Article 97 of the charter."

Won't Yield to Threats

Rusk told Gromyko the United States, Britain, France and West Germany want a peaceful solution of the Berlin issue but that they will never yield to Soviet threats or bargain away their basic rights in the disputed city. Gromyko gave no sign of willingness to modify the Soviet position, but did agree to meet Rusk again next week.

The interval between sessions gives both men time to report to their respective chiefs—President Kennedy and Khrushchev. Rusk is expected also to inform Allied governments. While there is no time limit on the talks, Western diplomats say Khrushchev's decision on a basis for East-West negotiation should be made known in a week or so.

Rusk has an opportunity today to explain publicly the stand of the United States and its Allies as developed in a Western foreign ministers conference at Washington a week ago. He will address a luncheon meeting of the Foreign Press Association with a question and answer session to follow.

Meet 4½ Hours

The U. S. and Soviet foreign policy chiefs met in Rusk's skyscraper suite in the Waldorf-Astoria hotel for 4½ hours Thursday. The session was the first in a series initiated by Rusk to find out whether a basis for East-Wet negotiations is possible.

Half a dozen aides and advisers of each attended the luncheon, including Ambassador Adlai E. Stevenson and Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin, the top U. S. and Soviet delegates to the United Nations.

Around the blue-clothed dining table the conferees talked over the problems of peace in Laos, where Red military successes earlier this year forced the U.S.-supported Laotian government and the Western powers to seek a solution in neutrality for the Asian kingdom.

They also discussed the leadership crisis in the United Nations following the death of Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold. Rusk told Gromyko a big majority of the U.N.'s 99 members oppose the Soviet Union's plan to replace Hammarskjold with a three-man board. The U.N. secretariat must have a single director in order to function, Rusk argued. Gromyko stuck firmly to Khrushchev's proposal.

Farmwife Is Held On Kidnap Charge

DOWAGIAC, Mich. (AP)—Margie Craft, 35, a farmwife and the mother of two sons, was held today on a charge of kidnaping a 7-year-old boy and demanding $15,000 for his release.

The boy, Tom Hoff, was released unharmed two hours after he was taken from a Dowagiac school on a ruse Thursday. Two hours later Mrs. Craft was arrested as she approached the release scene.

Sheriff Richard Dool said Mrs. Craft admitted the kidnaping and said she carried it out in hopes of raising funds to pay doctor bills of her cancer-ridden husband Karl, and "get him off the farm" where they live outside Decatur, Mich.

Gasoline in the greater Kingston area dropped 1.9 cents per gallon today and most stations in the city and surrounding communities were selling regular gasoline for 26.9 and 27.9 cents.

The cut, one veteran Kingston dealer reported, came when the major gasoline companies lowered their prices 1.9 cents per gallon and has nothing to do with the so-called gasoline price war in the Highland area along Route 9W. Gasoline there is selling from 22.9 to 28.9 per gallon for regular. High test varies.

However, in Port Ewen a spokesman for several stations told The Freeman today there has been no price cutting among the major stations, their prices, he explained, still remain at 29.9 cents a gallon.

Stations on Route 28 north of Kingston are selling for 26.9 and 27.9 cents, while most stations in the city and the Town of Ulster are listing their prices at 26.9. Two stations on the East Chester Street by-pass having a little war of their own are listed today at 23.9 and 24.9 cents a gallon.

Judge Schurman, Key in Driving Walker Out, Dies

NEW YORK (AP) — Retired Judge Jacob Gould Schurman, who had a big hand in driving the late Mayor James J. Walker from office in 1932, died Thursday at the age of 67 after a heart attack.

In 1930, Schurman volunteered as an assistant counsel in the first investigation of the City Magistrates Courts, which was headed by the late former Judge Samuel Seabury.

A year later, after the courts were cleaned up, Schurman became chief assistant in the continuing investigation of the New York County (Manhattan) district attorney's office. Seabury assigned him to look into various aspects of corruption connected with Tammany Hall, the Manhattan Democratic organization.

Schurman was credited with a major role in exposing wrongdoing in the Walker administration.

Schurman, born in Ithaca, N.Y., was named for his father, who served as president of Cornell University at Ithaca. The father, who died in 1942, headed the first Philippines Island Commission and was minister to Greece, Montenegro, China and Germany.

The younger Schurman served as an infantry captain in the United States Army in World War I. He was a graduate of Cornell and received a law degree from Harvard in 1922.

He served as a trustee of Cornell University.

The fines were not immediately paid.

Charged with speeding and fined $10 each were Raymond Venuti, of Esopus, and Janet M. Berg, 23, of 95 Cutler Road, Eddyville. Joseph Richards, of 175 Pearl Street, was finued $5 for a one-way street infraction. John Wolfe, of 58 Fair Street, and Richard H. Surtax Proposal at Onteora Is Defeated by 697-602 Vote

Town of Olive and Shandaken voters combined Thursday to defeat, 697 to 602, an Onteora Central Schools District referendum which would have directed the entire school district to absorb bonded indebtedness now being paid as surtaxes by two districts within the centralization.

The vote in the combined Olive-Marbletown district was 408 to 30 against and Shandaken defeated the proposal by a vote of 140 to 41.

The town of Woodstock supported the referendum, 404 to 84, and it carried in West Hurley, 127 to 65. The variance in the Woodstock and West Hurley vote is attributed to the fact that some areas in those townships are not now affected by surtaxes.

The total vote of 1,299 fell far below the record shattering turnout of 2,695 for the million dollar bond issue on April 10 and the 1,442 vote for the budget and trustees at the annual meeting on May 4.

If carried, the referendum would have pro-rated throughout the district bonded indebtedness amounting to $257,000 in former Common School District No. 2 of Woodstock and $51,600 in former Union Free School District No. 5 at Hurley. These debts for building construction were incurred prior to the time the districts were absorbed by Onteora in a hotly contested vote.

Because of misunderstanding of the registration regulation in the Onteora district, more than 100 persons were disqualified from voting, it was reported.

But U. N. May Feel Plan Only Way to Avoid Chaos

Dag's Replacement May Prove Helpless Unless Approved by Both U.S., Soviet

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with sending a boy on a man's errand is that he doesn't have long pants.

This may be the trouble in the United Nations in picking a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, killed this week in an African plane crash.

Would Be K Victory

If the successor isn't given his full title and full authority, or is chosen in an unauthorized way, he may feel too enfeebled to act when action is needed.

Such a result would be a victory for Premier Khrushchev who has sought to intimidate the secretary-general and even abolish his job.

Yet the U.N. members may feel such a condition—a temporary compromise to postpone an American-Russian showdown — is the only alternative to chaos.

Hammarskjold acted so quickly with U.N. forces during last summer's Congo crisis that he frustrated Russia's attempt to get its hooks into the area.

Khrushchev's reaction was fierce and quick.

First, he wanted Hammarskjold fired. Then he wanted to abolish the job of secretary general and replace it with three secretaries-general.

Took Gall to Propose

This had such a gimmick it took gall to propose. Under this plan any one of the three secretaries could veto anything the others wanted to do.

And one of the three would have to represent the Communist bloc. So, in any crisis created by Moscow, the veto would render the United Nations helpless to act.

Hammarskjold not only refused to bow to Russian pressure by quitting but continued to act with speed and determination whenever he thought necessary.

The United States backed Hammarskjold, opposed Khrushchev's plan for three secretaries-general and insisted there should be only one.

Nothing happened. And nothing was expected to happen until April 1963 when Hammarskjold's term would expire and his job would be open. So the showdown was postponed.

Hammarskjold's death with two years of his unexpired term remaining made a showdown immediate, if Russia wanted it that way.

That they want it was indicated Thursday in New York when Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko spent four hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

When the meeting broke up reporters were given to understand that Russia intends to press for three U. N. secretaries.

Might Involve Compromise

From the moment Hammarskjold was killed there seemed one possible way to postpone a showdown temporarily, provided Russia was willing.

That was to pick someone to serve out Hammarskjold's unexpired term. This might involve a compromise to pacify Russia temporarily, at least.

For instance: The new man, instead of bein given Hammarskjold's full title as secretary-general, might be given a diluted title, like acting secretary, director or something else.

Some U. N. members, particularly Ireland and Norway, got busy, on that idea Thursday. But, of course, there was a problem which had been there all along.

Under the U. N. Charter the 11-nation Security Council must recommend to the 99-nation General Assembly a man for secretary-general.

Then the assembly must approve. But—this but is a beaut—the United States and Russia both sit on the Security Council. And both have a veto.

So either could prevent any recommendation from going to the General Assembly by vetoing anv recommendation. That's right where the chaos could begin.

Treacherous Ground

To get around this, some of the smaller nations are thinking of by-passing the Security Council by having the assembly itself approve a Hammarskjold successor.

This is treacherous ground because there is no provision in the charter for anything like this. The charter says the Security Council recommends to the assembly first and then the assembly approves, if it wants to.

Therefore, anyone chosen this way—even if only temporarily and with such a half-baked title as acting secretary or director, neither of which is provided for in the charter—would be in a kind of sick position from the start.

This would be true, of course, only if Russia opposed but was outvoted in the assembly.

Any Hammarskjold replacement, unless picked with both American and Soviet approval, may find himself a helpless nobody unauthorized to do anything except sign his staff's paychecks.

State Funeral Is September 29 for Hammarskjold

STOCKHOLM (AP) — The body of Dag Hammarskjold is expected to arrive here Sunday aboard a chartered U.N. plane from Rhodesia, the foreign ministry said Thursday night.

There will be a Swedish state funeral Sept. 29, attended by the king and queen of Sweden and representatives of other heads of state.

Money Not in Good Hands

UTICA, N. Y. (AP) — A 20-year-old receptionist is accused of taking $1,600 from the Allstate Insurance Co. office where she worked.

Miss Patricia White is charged with second-degree grand larceny.

Police said discovery of the alleged theft was a byproduct of an investigation into an explosion June 10 that wrecked the building housing the Allstate office. The explosion case has not been solved.

Police said Miss White took the money over a four-to-five-month period from funds she handled as receptionist.

She was committed to the city jail to await arraignment.

Rug City Couple Remain Critical, Hurt in Plunge

The conditions of Joseph Mankiewicz, 42, and his wife Eufenia, 36, of Amsterdam, seriously injured a week ago tonight in a Thruway accident, still remain critical today at Kingston Hospital.

The couple was returning home after taking friends to New Jersey when about one mile south of the Kingston Interchange, Mankiewicz apparently fell asleep at the wheel, state police said, crossed the center mall, both southbound lanes and through a bridge over the New York Central Railroad tracks. The car landed on its top 40 feet below and bounced into an adjoining field.

The couple was taken to the hospital by Fatum's ambulance. It was found that Mankiewicz had suffered multiple skull fractures and head lacerations, abrasions and lacerations of the face, body and legs. Mrs. Mankiewicz received a dislocated hip, abrasions and lacerations of the face, leg and body.

Celebrities Help Cancer Fund by Dice, Roulette

By ROBERT HOLTON

Aboard the Nieuw Amsterdam (AP)—A chap named Eisenhower —Dwight D. Eisenhower — won about $60 shooting crap aboard this luxury vessel early today.

Unconfirmed reports have it that his lady—Mamie—did even better at the roulette tables.

And there were other notables aboard who pitted their skill against lady luck—one governor, a senator, dozens of foreign diplomats and a goodly portion of those whose names appear regularly in the blue book of social lions.

They all did it to fight the cancer which 15 years ago took the life of Damon Runyon—a writer who immortalized the "floating crap game" which had been outdone at last.

The liner left from Hoboken—across the harbor in New Jersey —under sponsorship of the New York City Committee of the American Cancer Society.

"I just bet on some fellow holding the dice whom I had never seen before and by gosh I came up a winner," said the former President.

"I just played and won," said the former First Lady.

New Jersey's Gov. Robert E. Meyner and his wife steered clear of the lavish gambling establishment which went into full operation in one of the saloons of the ship the minute she went beyond the three-mile limit.

The likes of Runyon's seedy characters — Nathan Detroit and Harry the Horse—were evident by their absence.

In their places were such as the Rockefellers, the Drexels, the Frelinghuysens, the Gerrys and the Huttons.

Nobody left the ship with more money than he had when boarding five hours earlier.

Early in the evening, Eisenhower indicated to friends that he would spend the time playing bridge with a willing expert named Robert Goren.

But U. N. May Feel Plan Only Way to Avoid Chaos

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — One of the troubles with sending a boy on a man's errand is that he doesn't have long pants.

This may be the trouble in the United Nations in picking a successor to Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold, killed this week in an African plane crash.

Would Be K Victory

If the successor isn't given his full title and full authority, or is chosen in an unauthorized way, he may feel too enfeebled to act when action is needed.

Such a result would be a victory for Premier Khrushchev who has sought to intimidate the secretary-general and even abolish his job.

Yet the U.N. members may feel such a condition—a temporary compromise to postpone an American-Russian showdown — is the only alternative to chaos.

Hammarskjold acted so quickly with U.N. forces during last summer's Congo crisis that he frustrated Russia's attempt to get its hooks into the area.

Khrushchev's reaction was fierce and quick.

First, he wanted Hammarskjold fired. Then he wanted to abolish the job of secretary general and replace it with three secretaries-general.

Took Gall to Propose

This had such a gimmick it took gall to propose. Under this plan any one of the three secretaries could veto anything the others wanted to do.

And one of the three would have to represent the Communist bloc. So, in any crisis created by Moscow, the veto would render the United Nations helpless to act.

Hammarskjold not only refused to bow to Russian pressure by quitting but continued to act with speed and determination whenever he thought necessary.

The United States backed Hammarskjold, opposed Khrushchev's plan for three secretaries-general and insisted there should be only one.

Nothing happened. And nothing was expected to happen until April 1963 when Hammarskjold's term would expire and his job would be open. So the showdown was postponed.

Hammarskjold's death with two years of his unexpired term remaining made a showdown immediate, if Russia wanted it that way.

That they want it was indicated Thursday in New York when Russian Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko spent four hours with Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

When the meeting broke up reporters were given to understand that Russia intends to press for three U. N. secretaries.

Might Involve Compromise

From the moment Hammarskjold was killed there seemed one possible way to postpone a showdown temporarily, provided Russia was willing.

That was to pick someone to serve out Hammarskjold's unexpired term. This might involve a compromise to pacify Russia temporarily, at least.

For instance: The new man, instead of bein given Hammarskjold's full title as secretary-general, might be given a diluted title, like acting secretary, director or something else.

COOPERATION NEEDED

President Kennedy some months ago designated space communication as a proper field for private business enterprise. This action, consistent with the American tradition of private ownership, was applauded by the business community.

But now bickering among the companies anxious to share in exploitation of the rich mine of communications satellites has caused serious second thoughts in the capital. There is some fear that while American corporate giants are quarreling over who is to share in what, Russia may preempt the field with a government monopoly and thereby gain both a psychological and an economic advantage.

That there exists worldwide demand for an operating satellite system has been indicated by the reaction to American space experiments. Such vehicles would be able to provide many times more telephonic circuits than are now available through use of cable and radio. Users throughout the world would jump at the chance to use these extra circuits whether or not they were operated by a Communist monolith.

Our government would not wish to see this happen, preferring to establish our own government-owned utility if that should be necessary. But private enterprise ought to operate the space communication network. American communication leaders now have the opportunity (and also the imperative) to work out inter-company cooperation necessary to do the job.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says it's not true that the cost of living has doubled in the past decade. It just seems that way.

NO NEWS IS GOOD NEWS

Former Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York is trying to ease Mayor Robert Wagner's path to re-election in New York City this November. He has been pressing Governor Rockefeller to disclose whether he has anything on the mayor.

Last year a state investigating group checked into the mayor's background and performance. The inquiry was secret. But during the recent primary campaign Wagner's adversaries dropped broad hints that his slate wasn't entirely clean.

Naturally Lehman doesn't want such allegations hanging over the mayor. He says he can't believe there is anything to them. He doubts Rockefeller would sit so long on a good story. What he wants is to have the governor confirm that no news is good news.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman says farm income this year will be the best since the Korean War. Some farmers may even make ends meet.

AN EDUCATIONAL FLAW

Those directly concerned with curbing juvenile delinquency find themselves coming back again and again to a vital point—that a failure of education is to be blamed for much lawless conduct. This has the fault of all generalizations, but the basic truth in it ought to be carefully pondered.

In a large Midwestern city there has recently been an outbreak of "naziism" among juvenile gangs. The young law violators have been caught sporting swastika arm bands and auto flags. It is significant that a parole officer declared: "They are unaware of what we regard as the important principles of the American Constitution. Somehow, liberty and freedom are concepts just not dramatic enough to suit them."

A judge pointed up the implication by wondering aloud whether the schools might not be neglecting to teach "the spiritual things that make America great." One answer is that these things certainly are taught, year after year. But are they being taught as effectively as they might be? That is the question that so often comes to mind as one contemplates the reports on juvenile delinquency.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

HERBERT MATTHEWS ON CUBA

Herbert Matthews, an editor of "The New York Times" and its principal correspondent in Cuba, has written an apologia to explain away the various attacks made on him as a result of the Cuban fiasco. Matthews is entitled to his day in court and this book is just that. It is his opportunity to affirm, deny, to explain or explain away various charges.

Toward the end of the book appears this paragraph:

"I consider it almost an honor to be attacked by the Eastland-Dodd Committee, by writers like the columnist George Sokolsky and William Buckley of the National Review, by publications like The American Legion Magazine and the Brooklyn Tablet. If such people did not attack me I would feel that there was something wrong with my work."

What he calls the Eastland-Dodd Committee is the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee. This Committee has been holding Executive Session hearings with regard to Cuba. As for the "National Review," "The American Legion Magazine" and the "Tablet," the official publication of the Brooklyn and Long Island dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church, they will survive Matthews's satisfaction that they were critical of him. As for Bill Buckley and myself, we can well afford to ask Herbert Matthews to state wherein we have been incorrect.

For what I said was that when Earl E. T. Smith was appointed Ambassador to Cuba, he was instructed to accept briefing from Herbert Matthews who was not connected with the State Department but was a "New York Times" reporter. This is what Matthews has to say on the subject:

"The fact that I was supposed to have briefed Earl Smith before he went to Cuba came up somewhat sensationally in 1960, and especially in the Senate Subcommittee hearing which I have already mentioned. Arthur Gardner, who apparently did not approve of his successor, first testified that 'he (meaning me) briefed Earl Smith.'"

As I, not Arthur Gardner, am responsible for first calling attention to the briefing of Smith by Matthews, wherein have I sinned? After citing Smith's testimony before the aforesaid Senate Subcommittee to the effect:

"Mr. Sourwine. Is it true, sir, that you were instructed to get a briefing on your new job as Ambassador to Cuba from Herbert Matthews of The New York Times?

"Mr. Smith. Yes, that is correct.

"Mr. Sourwine. Who gave you these instructions?

"Mr. Smith. Mr. Wieland, Director of the Caribbean Division and Mexico."

There is more to this, but what is significant is that Herbert Matthews admits to the truth of Smith's testimony and if Smith was truthful, I was, for I wrote of this, not in 1960 but in 1959. Matthews says:

"Allowing for a sour note or two, this was accurate testimony. It was correct information and good advice that I gave to Earl Smith, and it was a pity that neither he nor the State Department based their policies on it."

I cannot go into the consequences of the State Department and Earl E. T. Smith not taking Herbert Matthews's advice. I, too, have been a free advice-giver in my years and have also suffered the chagrin of watching men make their own mistakes. Had they chosen to follow my advice, fate might have smiled upon them more benevolently. Herbert Matthews believes:

"Newspapermen are not turned out like Fords on an assembly line — at least, not the top-flight ones. They are unique works of art, not cogs in a machine. When they go, others come along to do just as good or better work, but it will be different work."

It is indeed fortunate that a man has so high an opinion of his craft and himself. Herbert Matthews apparently believes that he is "a unique work of art," which he may be, but that does not at all answer how he happened to make so many costly errors regarding Cuba, ending in such a cruel fiasco. Matthews says:

"It was, and is, a great injustice to two devoted and competent United States officials to blame them, as Gardner, Smith, Senators Eastland and Dodd, ex-Ambassador Hill of Mexico, Ed Pawley, the tycoon, and many columnists have done for the defeat of Batista and the triumph of Castro. I refer to Assistant Secretary of State Roy R. Rubottom and William Wieland, who is mentioned above."

If it is unjust to blame Roy R. Rubottom and William Wieland, why does not the Senate publish their testimony and the testimony concerning them? I have inquired a dozen times for this testimony and have been told that it would one day be published. Who has requested the Senate Subcommittee to refrain from making this evidence public? Is the testimony too awful for publication? Would it embarrass the State Department too much? Perhaps if the record were published, Matthews's various statements might be confirmed, or if not, there might be a serious scandal. Some day, the whole truth with regard to Cuba will be made public. It has not yet been, although the truth is available.

★ The Doctor Says ★

Pain in 'Phantom Limb' Requires Surgeon's Care

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My leg has been amputated above the knee but I still suffer amost continuous pain that seems to be located in the missing portion, Can anything be done to give me relief? Medicines haven't helped.

A—Pain in a "phantom limb" is an occasional complication of amputation. Usually as in your experience this pain is severe, unremitting and unresponsive to pain-killing drugs. You should return to your surgeon who may be able to give you relief by injecting or severing the nerves responsible for your distress.

Q—My granddaughter recently was bitten on her foot by a small red ant. Within a few minutes, she almost passed out. She went limp. Her skin got all red and her face was so swollen you could hardly see her eyes. By the time the doctor came she was somewhat better. I saw the ant myself so there's no doubt about what caused the reaction. Is this a common thing? Can anything be done to prevent a recurrence?

A—What you witnessed was an allergic response to the venom of the red ant. Not many persons exhibit this reaction, so it's not strange that you never heard about it before.

However, it's sufficiently understood to have attracted the attention of the Hollister-Stier Laboratories of 1610 Harrison Street, Oakland, Calif. From them your doctor can obtain a solution for injection, prepared from the whole bodies of red ants.

With this, he may be able to desensitize your grandchild and, if he proceeds with great caution, he may successfully avoid any serious side reaction. Since another bite may produce another even more grave reaction if the child is not desensitized, the course of injections merits your most careful consideration.

Naturally, the more preferable course would be that of eliminating all red ants from the youngster's environment. With many effective ant-killers on the market, it doesn't seem impossible to give full protection to a lively little girl.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In all the excitement over revolutions of just plain riots, the political crises get the major news attention to the exclusion of the suffering of those caught in the shooting.

Raymond T. Schaeffer, assistant to American Red Cross President Alfred M. Gruenther, has just returned from Africa with two reports illustrating the point perfectly.

A veteran of 25 years Red Cross service, Schaeffer has been on loan to the international league of Red Cross societies this year, overseeing relief operations among refugees from Angola in the Congo, and Algerian refugees in Tunisia and Morocco.

IN THE WAKE OF UPRISINGS against the Portuguese in Angola, in which thousands were reported killed last April, 130,000 refugees streamed into the Congo. About two thirds were women.

Carrying on their heads in a cloth-wrapped bundle all their possessions, they were soon scattered across the 500-mile stretch of Congo. They arrived exhausted, without food or money and needing medical attention.

U.N. authorities in the Congo asked international Red Cross to handle. The area was divided into thirds. Congolese Red Cross took one section, Protestant relief another, Catholic Charities the third. Each provided volunteer workers. Eight Red Cross administrators and four doctors supervise the job.

IN A REMARKABLY SHORT TIME a basic ration of 4½ pounds of food per person per week was established — flour, cornmeal, rice, salt, palm oil and fish. The grains are gifts from United States surplus, the fish from Scandinavian countries. The palm oil had to be bought.

The ration is supplemented by native bananas and manyok root, which is ground into flour. For children there is dried milk. A week's ration costs about 50 cents.

One of the worst problems is that native Congolese, seeing the Angolians get free food on ration cards, demanded the same.

They stopped food trucks and tried to seize supplies. This could become serious.

Basic problem is, of course, to get the Angolians to return home. Working with Portuguese Red Cross, seven reception centers have been established in Angola to relocate returnees. Perhaps 10 per cent have gone back. Nobody knows for sure.

For those who stay, the Congolese government will supply a plot of ground. Red Cross will furnish tools and seed for a first crop. Planted before the October rains, it will yield a harvest early next year. Until then, Red Cross will feed them.

The hope is that the problem can be liquidated, but there's no assurance.

THE ALGERIAN REFUGEE PROBLEM, for example, is five years old. There are 300,000 of them now, 170,000 in Tunisia and 130,000 in Morocco. Thy exist on a day-to-day basis in self-made dry stone and grass huts with branch or canvas roofs.

They are concentrated in a 50-mile-wide strip along the Algerian border from the Mediterranean to the Sahara. They do no work. Tunisia and Morocco have unemployment problems of their own, don't want them made worse.

Two and a half years ago U. N. High Commissioner for Refugees asked League of Red Cross Societies to take over and feed the refugees. It now costs over $6 million a year to do the job. About a third is cash, the rest is in wheat, rice, sugar, milk, soap and clothing by the boatload. It comes from 56 countries, including Red Crescent societies in most of the Moslem countries and even Russian and Red Chinese Red Cross.

This supplies a basic ration of 1,500 calories a day for adults, 1,750 for children — a bare subsistence minimum until the fighting stops and they can go home.

If the people who start wars could be forced to undergo the suffering they cause, there might be more peace. But the prospect for the next 10 years or more is that there will be other situations like these all over Africa, and in many other underdeveloped parts of the world.

Transfer of Gen. Walker Held Blow to Troop Morale

By DAVID LAWRENCE

What is more important than the morale of the American Army? If there is a war in which "conventional forces" are to carry the principal burden, what are the troops going to fight for?

No army is worth anything unless it has a fighting spirit—unless it is motivated by a deep feeling as to the righteousness of its cause. This applies both to officers and to men.

Yet we read from the pen of Hanson Baldwin, military expert of "The New York Times," as he writes from Augsburg in West Germany: "From high command to private first class, the army in Europe has been deeply disturbed by the case of Maj. Gen. Edwin A. Walker. Officers of all ranks, particularly the senior ones, deplore the manner in which the case was handled and feel that some fundamental elements of military justice and fair play were violated. . . .

At the direction of the Pentagon, prior plans to transfer Gen. Walker to a corps command in Texas with promotion to lieutenant general were canceled. Since April, Gen. Walker has been filling a colonel's billet as an assistant operations officer on the staff of Gen. Bruce C. Clarke, commander-in-chief, United States Army Europe, with headquarters at Heidelberg."

'Too Much of a Zealot'

Mr. Baldwin goes on to say that the reasons why many officers and men are dismayed "have nothing to do with the materials Gen. Walker used or things he said in his anti-Communist program." Indeed, many officers said the general had become "too much of a single-minded zealot in his fight against communism." But the Army is reported to have been "shocked first, by what it feels is the summary treatment given to a man who is generally regarded as an outstanding leader and soldier."

He made a distinguished record in both World War II and the Korean war, and has been awarded many decorations. Under his leadership, the 24th Infantry Division had come to be judged as one of the two best divisions in the European area, if not in the whole army.

The original press release from the Pentagon, announcing Gen. Walker's relief and transfer, was couched in such extreme terms that, Mr. Baldwin was told, one senior commander refused to publish it. He felt it was an interference with the normal processes of military law and an interference with the chain of command. The wording of the release was subsequently altered.

But the records of the inspector general's investigation—which, like the minutes of a grand jury hearing, are confidential—were made public by the Pentagon. This is unprecedented. Gen. Walker was not even given the right to read first the transcript of the testimony.

The records of such investigations are traditionally for use only in a military court, where evidence is taken under oath and witnesses are subject to cross-examination. Supposing that the testimony of some "liberal" before a grand jury had been improperly disclosed and the individual then publicly censured by some government department or committee of Congress? Doubtless a drive for an "operation abolition" against such a department or agency head would have been promptly initiated.

Sign of Incompetence?

But isn't all this a sign of the utter incompetence of those people in the Kennedy administration who trifle with the morale of officers and troops of the United States Army? Isn't the Pentagon aware that it is ordering thousands of American citizens into the armed forces and is not just running a department to suit the politics or ideologies of different groups which bombard the government whenever anyone wants to speak out against Communist infiltration in the United States?

Thus, the Pentagon now virtually has barred the showing to American troops of the film—titled "Operation Abolition" — which exposed Communist participation in the riotous demonstrations in San Francisco last year against the House Committee on Un-American Activities. This documentary has been the target of many so-called "liberals."

There may, to be sure, have been some unnecessary interpolations that do not belong in the film, but basically it exposes the tactics of Communist subversion inside the United States. It has been used in the program to educate armed forces personnel on the nature and menace of communism. An understanding of why and for what they were fighting had been found lacking among the troops in the Korean war—in which Gen. Walker commanded the artillery of a division — and the indoctrination program has since been developed for morale-building purposes.

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D., South Carolina, has been waging a crusade in the Senate to stop the censorship of speeches by military men who denounce communism. The word has gone out that the Pentagon censors and edits these speeches—somewhat like what is being done in Communist Russia itself.

The South Carolina senator has succeeded in getting the Senate Armed Services Committee to authorize a special study by a subcommittee into the whole problem of the "muzzling" of military personnel who seek to expose communism. It is an inquiry long overdue, but unfortunately the administration itself has not taken the steps it should take to boost the morale of the military forces themselves and inspire them with the feeling that, if they have to fight communism on the battlefield, it is a righteous cause worthy of their maximum sacrifice.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ODESSA, Tex., Sept. 21—This is rough country, even under law, but always until recently "women" were protected by the clumsy chivalry of the old Western stage plays. But the other day in a brief conversation with three local dignitaries I steered the discusson to one of the worst killings that I have ever heard of, and the best excuse for an explanation came from the father of a teen-age high-school girl who said:

"My daughter knows that boy and she likes him, too. Many of the kids like him. My daughter says 'Daddy, you old people just don't understand how we young people think.'"

This boy had gone parking in a car wth a nice teen-age schoolmate and had shot her dead in the back of the head with his shotgun and weighted her body to the bottom of a water hole, with small pigs of lead. He said she had begged him to kill her. He had refused for a while. But she insisted so he did her this favor.

The three prominent citizens were just plumb beat. They said these teenagers these days were like another race in another world. The kids and their parents live in the same houses, they love one another in the virtuous old-timey way of parents and children, but they seem apart. Not all of the Odessa families, mind you. But certainly some. And not only in Odessa, either. The kids are pretty much alike everywhere.

Naturally, there was suspicion of funny business when the body of Elizabeth Williams was dredged out of the tank. But the pathologist officially reported that no such thing had happened. Another boy had seen Elizabeth drive off with Mack Herring that evening and the police went to the high school and took Mack out. He soon cracked. The crime was solved, except as to the motive, in twelve hours after the shooting. Both kids were 17 then.

Mack had to skip summer school because three Eastern magazines gave the story a sensational ride on their covers and the newsstands in Odessa, Midland and Kermit, the county seat of Winkler County, just north of Odessa, were cleaned out in no time. All the gawking and yacking made it impossible for Mack to concentrate in summer school. But he went back for the regular fall term and his plans clearly include college and the normal fulfillment of life. Actually, sentiment indicates no very serious punishment for Mack. He could go to prison, but he probably won't serve long although the charge is murder with malice and that could call for the chair. So, why not let him go and charge it all to the ignorance of the Old Folks of the morals and relationships of the Young People?

After the speculation about mischief between them in which the kids joined with sparkling enthusiasm, the consensus seems to be that Elizabeth taunted him to test his gumption and that he stood the test manfully. Too bad, too, because she was a very nice little girl.

The trial will be held in Winkler a rather decent town in the local oilfield, but only a hoot and a holler from the disgusting mess of Wink.

John Sliney, of the city side of the Odessa American, has covered two crazy kid cases this year. The second exploded in the Comanche plains just eastward of Midland a couple of weeks ago. Mr. Sliney hustled over to Big Spring and interviewed a girl of 13 from Chicago, who had just been grabbed with a weedy male of 32, the father of five children after they had killed their fourth victim on an "Odyssey of Death," as the Odessa American called it, from Edwardsville in southern Illinois. They were on a romantic journey to Arizona to pick cottpn. Every now and then they would get the same idea and pull the car off onto a side road.

Marie Stone is only 13, but physically very precocious. Tall and developed. Dirty, to be sure, for she had had no bath in a week, and dead tired from lack of sleep. She was glad they got caught because otherwise they would have had to keep on killing to rob their victims until they did get caught. They might have killed a hundred.

It is hard to regard Marie as a woman, for her judgment is only 13, mature though her body is. These two murder cases exploded a few miles apart in West Texas, but, is also happens that the Chicago baby comes of poor big-city surroundings whereas Elizabeth and Mack Herring came of Odessa's aristocracy.

If adolscents were to try Marie and Mack here, they might go free, hard as Old Folks would find that to understand. Marie's scrawny, ratty boy friend, Johnny Meyers, figures to go to the chair. A sorry specimen, anyway, messing with a kid of 13.

COOPERATION NEEDED

President Kennedy some months ago designated space communication as a proper field for private business enterprise. This action, consistent with the American tradition of private ownership, was applauded by the business community.

But now bickering among the companies anxious to share in exploitation of the rich mine of communications satellites has caused serious second thoughts in the capital. There is some fear that while American corporate giants are quarreling over who is to share in what, Russia may preempt the field with a government monopoly and thereby gain both a psychological and an economic advantage.

That there exists worldwide demand for an operating satellite system has been indicated by the reaction to American space experiments. Such vehicles would be able to provide many times more telephonic circuits than are now available through use of cable and radio. Users throughout the world would jump at the chance to use these extra circuits whether or not they were operated by a Communist monolith.

Our government would not wish to see this happen, preferring to establish our own government-owned utility if that should be necessary. But private enterprise ought to operate the space communication network. American communication leaders now have the opportunity (and also the imperative) to work out inter-company cooperation necessary to do the job.

The Bureau of Labor Statistics says it's not true that the cost of living has doubled in the past decade. It just seems that way.

NO NEWS IS GOOD NEWS

Former Sen. Herbert Lehman of New York is trying to ease Mayor Robert Wagner's path to re-election in New York City this November. He has been pressing Governor Rockefeller to disclose whether he has anything on the mayor.

Last year a state investigating group checked into the mayor's background and performance. The inquiry was secret. But during the recent primary campaign Wagner's adversaries dropped broad hints that his slate wasn't entirely clean.

Naturally Lehman doesn't want such allegations hanging over the mayor. He says he can't believe there is anything to them. He doubts Rockefeller would sit so long on a good story. What he wants is to have the governor confirm that no news is good news.

Secretary of Agriculture Freeman says farm income this year will be the best since the Korean War. Some farmers may even make ends meet.

AN EDUCATIONAL FLAW

Those directly concerned with curbing juvenile delinquency find themselves coming back again and again to a vital point—that a failure of education is to be blamed for much lawless conduct. This has the fault of all generalizations, but the basic truth in it ought to be carefully pondered.

In a large Midwestern city there has recently been an outbreak of "naziism" among juvenile gangs. The young law violators have been caught sporting swastika arm bands and auto flags. It is significant that a parole officer declared: "They are unaware of what we regard as the important principles of the American Constitution. Somehow, liberty and freedom are concepts just not dramatic enough to suit them."

A judge pointed up the implication by wondering aloud whether the schools might not be neglecting to teach "the spiritual things that make America great." One answer is that these things certainly are taught, year after year. But are they being taught as effectively as they might be? That is the question that so often comes to mind as one contemplates the reports on juvenile delinquency.

'These Days'

HERBERT MATTHEWS ON CUBA

Herbert Matthews, an editor of "The New York Times" and its principal correspondent in Cuba, has written an apologia to explain away the various attacks made on him as a result of the Cuban fiasco. Matthews is entitled to his day in court and this book is just that. It is his opportunity to affirm, deny, to explain or explain away various charges.

Toward the end of the book appears this paragraph:

"I consider it almost an honor to be attacked by the Eastland-Dodd Committee, by writers like the columnist George Sokolsky and William Buckley of the National Review, by publications like The American Legion Magazine and the Brooklyn Tablet. If such people did not attack me I would feel that there was something wrong with my work."

What he calls the Eastland-Dodd Committee is the Senate Internal Security Subcommittee of the Judiciary Committee. This Committee has been holding Executive Session hearings with regard to Cuba. As for the "National Review," "The American Legion Magazine" and the "Tablet," the official publication of the Brooklyn and Long Island dioceses of the Roman Catholic Church, they will survive Matthews's satisfaction that they were critical of him. As for Bill Buckley and myself, we can well afford to ask Herbert Matthews to state wherein we have been incorrect.

For what I said was that when Earl E. T. Smith was appointed Ambassador to Cuba, he was instructed to accept briefing from Herbert Matthews who was not connected with the State Department but was a "New York Times" reporter. This is what Matthews has to say on the subject:

"The fact that I was supposed to have briefed Earl Smith before he went to Cuba came up somewhat sensationally in 1960, and especially in the Senate Subcommittee hearing which I have already mentioned. Arthur Gardner, who apparently did not approve of his successor, first testified that 'he (meaning me) briefed Earl Smith.'"

As I, not Arthur Gardner, am responsible for first calling attention to the briefing of Smith by Matthews, wherein have I sinned? After citing Smith's testimony before the aforesaid Senate Subcommittee to the effect:

"Mr. Sourwine. Is it true, sir, that you were instructed to get a briefing on your new job as Ambassador to Cuba from Herbert Matthews of The New York Times?

"Mr. Smith. Yes, that is correct.

"Mr. Sourwine. Who gave you these instructions?

"Mr. Smith. Mr. Wieland, Director of the Caribbean Division and Mexico."

There is more to this, but what is significant is that Herbert Matthews admits to the truth of Smith's testimony and if Smith was truthful, I was, for I wrote of this, not in 1960 but in 1959. Matthews says:

"Allowing for a sour note or two, this was accurate testimony. It was correct information and good advice that I gave to Earl Smith, and it was a pity that neither he nor the State Department based their policies on it."

I cannot go into the consequences of the State Department and Earl E. T. Smith not taking Herbert Matthews's advice. I, too, have been a free advice-giver in my years and have also suffered the chagrin of watching men make their own mistakes. Had they chosen to follow my advice, fate might have smiled upon them more benevolently. Herbert Matthews believes:

"Newspapermen are not turned out like Fords on an assembly line — at least, not the top-flight ones. They are unique works of art, not cogs in a machine. When they go, others come along to do just as good or better work, but it will be different work."

It is indeed fortunate that a man has so high an opinion of his craft and himself. Herbert Matthews apparently believes that he is "a unique work of art," which he may be, but that does not at all answer how he happened to make so many costly errors regarding Cuba, ending in such a cruel fiasco. Matthews says:

"It was, and is, a great injustice to two devoted and competent United States officials to blame them, as Gardner, Smith, Senators Eastland and Dodd, ex-Ambassador Hill of Mexico, Ed Pawley, the tycoon, and many columnists have done for the defeat of Batista and the triumph of Castro. I refer to Assistant Secretary of State Roy R. Rubottom and William Wieland, who is mentioned above."

If it is unjust to blame Roy R. Rubottom and William Wieland, why does not the Senate publish their testimony and the testimony concerning them? I have inquired a dozen times for this testimony and have been told that it would one day be published. Who has requested the Senate Subcommittee to refrain from making this evidence public? Is the testimony too awful for publication? Would it embarrass the State Department too much? Perhaps if the record were published, Matthews's various statements might be confirmed, or if not, there might be a serious scandal. Some day, the whole truth with regard to Cuba will be made public. It has not yet been, although the truth is available.

Pain in 'Phantom Limb' Requires Surgeon's Care

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

Q—My leg has been amputated above the knee but I still suffer amost continuous pain that seems to be located in the missing portion, Can anything be done to give me relief? Medicines haven't helped.

A—Pain in a "phantom limb" is an occasional complication of amputation. Usually as in your experience this pain is severe, unremitting and unresponsive to pain-killing drugs. You should return to your surgeon who may be able to give you relief by injecting or severing the nerves responsible for your distress.

Q—My granddaughter recently was bitten on her foot by a small red ant. Within a few minutes, she almost passed out. She went limp. Her skin got all red and her face was so swollen you could hardly see her eyes. By the time the doctor came she was somewhat better. I saw the ant myself so there's no doubt about what caused the reaction. Is this a common thing? Can anything be done to prevent a recurrence?

A—What you witnessed was an allergic response to the venom of the red ant. Not many persons exhibit this reaction, so it's not strange that you never heard about it before.

However, it's sufficiently understood to have attracted the attention of the Hollister-Stier Laboratories of 1610 Harrison Street, Oakland, Calif. From them your doctor can obtain a solution for injection, prepared from the whole bodies of red ants.

With this, he may be able to desensitize your grandchild and, if he proceeds with great caution, he may successfully avoid any serious side reaction. Since another bite may produce another even more grave reaction if the child is not desensitized, the course of injections merits your most careful consideration.

Naturally, the more preferable course would be that of eliminating all red ants from the youngster's environment. With many effective ant-killers on the market, it doesn't seem impossible to give full protection to a lively little girl.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — In all the excitement over revolutions of just plain riots, the political crises get the major news attention to the exclusion of the suffering of those caught in the shooting.

Raymond T. Schaeffer, assistant to American Red Cross President Alfred M. Gruenther, has just returned from Africa with two reports illustrating the point perfectly.

A veteran of 25 years Red Cross service, Schaeffer has been on loan to the international league of Red Cross societies this year, overseeing relief operations among refugees from Angola in the Congo, and Algerian refugees in Tunisia and Morocco.

IN THE WAKE OF UPRISINGS against the Portuguese in Angola, in which thousands were reported killed last April, 130,000 refugees streamed into the Congo. About two thirds were women.

Carrying on their heads in a cloth-wrapped bundle all their possessions, they were soon scattered across the 500-mile stretch of Congo. They arrived exhausted, without food or money and needing medical attention.

U.N. authorities in the Congo asked international Red Cross to handle. The area was divided into thirds. Congolese Red Cross took one section, Protestant relief another, Catholic Charities the third. Each provided volunteer workers. Eight Red Cross administrators and four doctors supervise the job.

IN A REMARKABLY SHORT TIME a basic ration of 4½ pounds of food per person per week was established — flour, cornmeal, rice, salt, palm oil and fish. The grains are gifts from United States surplus, the fish from Scandinavian countries. The palm oil had to be bought.

Transfer of Gen. Walker Held Blow to Troop Morale

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

ODESSA, Tex., Sept. 21—This is rough country, even under law, but always until recently "women" were protected by the clumsy chivalry of the old Western stage plays. But the other day in a brief conversation with three local dignitaries I steered the discusson to one of the worst killings that I have ever heard of, and the best excuse for an explanation came from the father of a teen-age high-school girl who said:

"My daughter knows that boy and she likes him, too. Many of the kids like him. My daughter says 'Daddy, you old people just don't understand how we young people think.'"

This boy had gone parking in a car wth a nice teen-age schoolmate and had shot her dead in the back of the head with his shotgun and weighted her body to the bottom of a water hole, with small pigs of lead. He said she had begged him to kill her. He had refused for a while. But she insisted so he did her this favor.

The three prominent citizens were just plumb beat. They said these teenagers these days were like another race in another world. The kids and their parents live in the same houses, they love one another in the virtuous old-timey way of parents and children, but they seem apart. Not all of the Odessa families, mind you. But certainly some. And not only in Odessa, either. The kids are pretty much alike everywhere.

Naturally, there was suspicion of funny business when the body of Elizabeth Williams was dredged out of the tank. But the pathologist officially reported that no such thing had happened. Another boy had seen Elizabeth drive off with Mack Herring that evening and the police went to the high school and took Mack out. He soon cracked. The crime was solved, except as to the motive, in twelve hours after the shooting. Both kids were 17 then.

Mack had to skip summer school because three Eastern magazines gave the story a sensational ride on their covers and the newsstands in Odessa, Midland and Kermit, the county seat of Winkler County, just north of Odessa, were cleaned out in no time. All the gawking and yacking made it impossible for Mack to concentrate in summer school. But he went back for the regular fall term and his plans clearly include college and the normal fulfillment of life. Actually, sentiment indicates no very serious punishment for Mack. He could go to prison, but he probably won't serve long although the charge is murder with malice and that could call for the chair. So, why not let him go and charge it all to the ignorance of the Old Folks of the morals and relationships of the Young People?

After the speculation about mischief between them in which the kids joined with sparkling enthusiasm, the consensus seems to be that Elizabeth taunted him to test his gumption and that he stood the test manfully. Too bad, too, because she was a very nice little girl.

The trial will be held in Winkler a rather decent town in the local oilfield, but only a hoot and a holler from the disgusting mess of Wink.

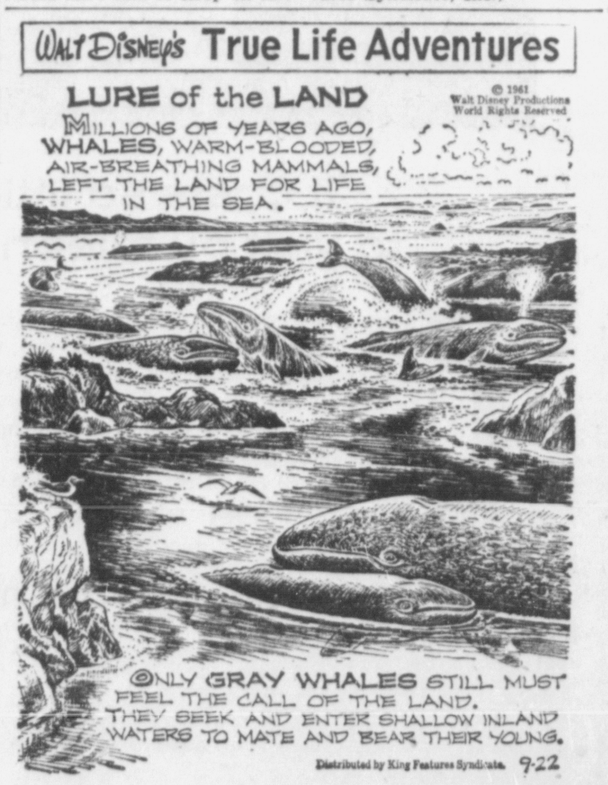

John Sliney, of the city side of the Odessa American, has covered two crazy kid cases this year. The second exploded in the Comanche plains just eastward of Midland a couple of weeks ago. Mr. Sliney hustled over to Big Spring and interviewed a girl of 13 from Chicago, who had just been grabbed with a weedy male of 32, the father of five children after they had killed their fourth victim on an "Odyssey of Death," as the Odessa American called it, from Edwardsville in southern Illinois. They were on a romantic journey to Arizona to pick cotton. Every now and then they would get the same idea and pull the car off onto a side road.

Marie Stone is only 13, but physically very precocious. Tall and developed. Dirty, to be sure, for she had had no bath in a week, and dead tired from lack of sleep. She was glad they got caught because otherwise they would have had to keep on killing to rob their victims until they did get caught. They might have killed a hundred.

It is hard to regard Marie as a woman, for her judgment is only 13, mature though her body is. These two murder cases exploded a few miles apart in West Texas, but, is also happens that the Chicago baby comes of poor big-city surroundings whereas Elizabeth and Mack Herring came of Odessa's aristocracy.

If adolscents were to try Marie and Mack here, they might go free, hard as Old Folks would find that to understand. Marie's scrawny, ratty boy friend, Johnny Meyers, figures to go to the chair. A sorry specimen, anyway, messing with a kid of 13.

Today's Business Mirror

By SAM DAWSON

EDITOR'S NOTE—Many charge it's Uncle Sam's spending sprees, past, present and planned, that made the cost of living painful. In this, last of four articles on inflation, Sam Dawson, AP business news analyst, discusses the effects of monetary policy changes on the value of the dollar, once so much more robust than today.

NEW YORK (AP)—The government's monetary policy is either the hero or the villain in today's drama: "Hold that cost of living line."

It depends on where you're sitting. The role of government spending in inspiring good times or bringing on bad by enfeebling the dollar finds the critics split.

Debate Growing Louder

Their debate is growing louder because of worry lest another rise in the cost of living be set off by measures now being taken and to be taken by industry and labor this fall, coinciding with government monetary programs already voted or projected.

President Kennedy says his spending policy will solve economic problems without inflation because:

1. Treasury deficit spending this fiscal year will encourage economic growth to the level he calls necessary, thus help everyone, and eventually balance the budget again by increasing tax collections.

2. Holding interest rates down and keeping the supply of money and credit ample will mean more home building, plant expansion and consumer purchasing.

3. Because of idle industrial capacity and many jobless workers, increasing the supply of money now is more likely to raise production than prices.

4. Government warnings to business and labor-perhaps threats of controls later—can prevent any speedup in the price-wage spiral.

Blame Past Policies

President Kennedy's critics say the cost of living is at a record high today chiefly because of past monetary policies that inflated the supply of money and fostered the big jump in wages and prices.

But they add that President Kennedy's spending programs, especially at this particular time of business upswing, will set the stage for a revival of the old cheaper dollar drama, and can only end up unpleasantly for everyone.

The immediate sore point is the current fiscal year's prospective Treasury deficit of $5 billion to $6 billion—called necessary by the administration and inflationary by the criticis.

Critics of big government spending in the months ahead predict it will soak up idle industrial capacity faster than many now think. Then each extra government dollar will add to inflationary pressure.

Many call this thinking out of tune with modern needs. They deny that government spending plays as big a role as the conservatives charge.

Budget Director David E. Bell says that if federal spending does go above $100 billion a year by 1966 as some foresee, the total output of goods and services should grow at the same or faster rate. Hence the federal budget would still account for about 16 per cent of total spending, its average in recent years.

The really big spending would still be by consumers and business. A moderate increase in the money supply would be in line with the economy's steadily growing needs—and not an undue upward pressure on the cost of living.

First Sting Alarm for Bees Guarding Hive

ITHACA—One bee sting invites others.

According to a study by two Cornell University scientists, honeybees secrete an "alarm odor" on their stingers which literally tags an "intruder" that comes near the hive and is stung by one bee.

Located on the outside of the bee's stinger, the odor serves to alert a hive's "guard bees." The bees become very aggressive, stinging the "enemy" again and again. As the enemy attempts to escape, his motion also increases the bees' aggressiveness.

Conduct Test

For their project, Dr. Ralph L. Ghent and Dr. Norman E. Gary, research associates at the New York State College of Agriculture, pulled 5000 honeybee stingers by hand. Then they extracted the odor, which is liquid at room temperature, placing it in a vial lined with filter paper. The vial was placed in a honeybee hive, and the scientists measured the number of aggressive bees attracted to the odor.

"This area of chemical communication between insects has been neglected in the past," Dr. Ghent says. "However, in 1814 a scientist noted that bees are irritated by the odor of bee stings and that this response helps the bees defend their hive against their enemies."

The researchers noted that the "alarm odor" can be washed away with ordinary soap and water, and that it loses its strength if diluted with water.

Three-Year Project

The investigation is part of a three-year project supported by a grant from the U. S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare to study the importance of chemical communication between insects and possibly other animals.

Now in its third year, the project is under the direction of Dr. Roger A. Morse, assistant professor of agriculture.

Since they have isolated the "alarm odor" as a means of communication between the insects, Ghent and Gary say: "We hope to find a way to minimize the danger for the beekeeper of repeated stings."

Grants Are Given To Counties for Waterway Patrol

Conservation Commissioner Harold G. Wilm announced today the approval of $203,235 in state-aid grants to 35 counties including Greene and Columbia which conducted state-navigation-law patrols during 1960.

Ulster County has not allocated funds for a navigation patrol and therefore is not participating in the program.

The grants are the first under the provisions of a series of new laws relating to safe boating which were passed by the 1959 Legislature and approved by Governor Rockefeller. They are to be paid from the Motor Boat Regulation Fund, which is composed largely of fees received from boat owners for registration of their vessels.

The law requires that half the income from such fees be set aside for the grant-in-aid program. The grants are limited to a maximum of $50,000.

The 35 counties (including the five counties of New York City) are among 42 that conducted navigation patrols during 1960. Counties not receiving state grants are, for the most part, those which conducted patrols with volunteer officers or that began patrol activities after county budgets had been drawn.

The stepped-up navigation patrol program, along with increased boating education and safety activities of the Division of Motor Boats, appears to be a major factor in reducing boating accidents within the state, Director James J. O'Brien said.

During 1960, when county enforcement agencies reported a total of 1,134 arrests for navigation law violations, boating deaths were held to 70—only one above the ten-year low set in 1958. The drop in fatalities was despite increased boating activity, O'Brien noted.

So far this year, preliminary reports show a total of only 38 boating deaths, well under the 60 reported at this time last year. An estimated 44 counties are now taking part in the state navigation grant-in-aid program.

Shelter to Hold 3,700 in New State Tax Building

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A $10-million building to be constructed for the State Tax Department will have a fallout shelter for 3,700 persons, Gov. Rockefeller said today.

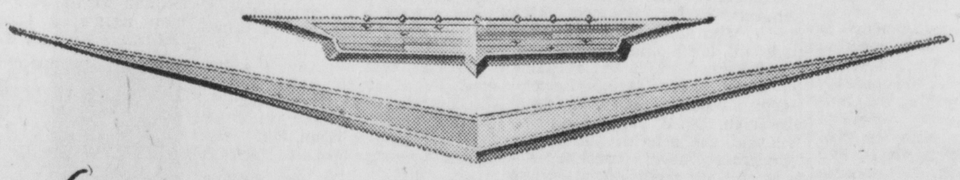

The governor, one of the nation's leading advocates of fallout-shelter construction, has ordered them constructed in all new state buildings.

The shelters, stocked with food and water, are designed for protection against radioactive fallout from a nuclear attack.

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Oct. 1-7 will be "Pharmacy Week" in New York State.

Pharmacists are "essential factors in the health of every family in the state," Gov. Rockefeller said in a proclamation Thursday.

Moses Says Bill On Wilderness Is by Fanatics

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The proposed bill that would set aside 16 tracts in the Forest Preserve as primitive wilderness is a "trick bill hashed up by fanatics," Chairman Robert Moses of the State Council of Parks says.

Instead, Moses said, the present section of the Constitution requiring that the preserve be kept "forever wild" should be repealed and more of the forest opened to family recreation.

The open spaces belong to the rank-and-file in the cities, "not to a few pseudo-wilderness experts," Moses declared.

Moses made the statements in a speech delivered at a meeting of the Adirondack Park Association. He did not attend but his speech was read by Thomas Cantwell, the association's secretary.

Moses took issue with the proposal of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources that would empower the state conservation commissioner to set aside 16 tracts, totaling almost 1 million of the preserve's 2.5 million acres, as primitive areas closed to motorized transport, including airplanes and motorboats.

A Real Lock-Out

The theory is that these areas thus would remain natural havens from the civilized world.

Moses, a long-time advocate of more public use of the preserve, described the bill as an attempt to lock up the preserve even tighter for "imitation Indians and amateur mountaineers."

He proposed a constitutional amendment under which 25 per cent of the preserve would be designated "forever wild." The balance would be opened to various types of outdoor recreational activities.

Harold G. Wilm, state conservation commissioner and a supporter of the wilderness bill, said Moses' plan would be more restrictive than the wilderness bill because it would close one-fourth of the preserve entirely.

The commissioner said he did not believe enough suitable sites would be available near main roads to be used for what Moses called "intensive" use by vacationing families.

For Expansion

In another development, the chairman of a joint legislative committee on winter tourist business indicated that his group favored expansion of existing facilities at Whiteface Mountain near Lake Placid in place of a planned development on Gore Mountain near North Creek, south of here.

Assemblyman Willis H. Stephens, R-Putnam, said his committee had reached no conclusions. Nevertheless, he listed in a speech what he considered assets of Whiteface expansion and liabilities of a ski establishment on Gore.

Voters have authorized 30 miles of ski trails on Gore.

Art Benson of North Hudson was elected president of the Adirondack Park Association.

Saigon Beefs Up Troops in Hills North of Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government reinforcements have been rushed to counter a Communist rebel drive in the mountains north of this capital.

Paratroop units left Thursday to strengthen Ban Methuot after large rebel forces were reported on all sides of that city of 50,000.

Informed sources said a company of civil guardsmen was reported overrun by Viet Cong attackers at an outpost 20 miles from Ban Methuot. Contact was lost with another unit sent out to relieve the guardsmen.

Military observers have expressed concern over the upswing in rebel activity with large troop units in the past week, particularly in the north.

The latest reported attack came Wednesday night about 20 miles south of the highland center of Ban Methuot, 200 miles north of Saigon.

Informed sources said about two battalions of Viet Cong—a number that could vary between 500 and 1,000—took part in the assault. No further details were given.

Earlier in the week another major rebel force overran the capital of Phuoc Thanh Province, about 60 miles north of here, killing the province chief and dozens of officials and defending guardsmen.

Episcopalians Recognize New Ceylon Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Another move by Episcopalians today forged closer links between Christians of various denominations on opposite sides of the world.

Representatives of the Episcopal Church tentatively offered the hand of fellowship to a newly emerging church in distant Ceylon, made up of their Anglican brethren, plus Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians.

It is one of several united churches emerging in the Far East, blazing a trail of reunion among groups that still remain divided in the West.

The Very Rev. John B. Coburn, dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, Cambridge, Mass. said recognizing the Ceylon church was "the most significant step toward reunion since the reformation."

He said it was in accord with Christ's prayer that all believers "may be one."

The action came Thursday in the Episcopal, general convention's House of Deputies. They voted overwhelmingly, after spirited debate, to extend tentative recognition to the newly forming

Negro Is Slain After Killing 6

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) —A crazed Negro accused of killing six persons and wounding three was slain Thursday night by a hail of bullets from a posse.

Sheriff E. R. Dogan said Wiley Crump, 67, was spotlighted on a house porch and cut down when he tried to raise his rifle.

The sheriff said about 125 men were in the posse, formed after Crump went on his shooting spree at Philipp, a delta community 20 miles from Greenwood in the northwest part of the state.

The six dead, all Negroes, included three women, one of them Crump's sister. Two of the wounded were white men, shot as they lifted the dead into an ambulance.

Dogan identified the dead as Mary Suttle, Mandy Griffin, John Trotter, Isaac Truell, Charles Johnson and Crump's sister, Effie Frankline.

No one had any idea what triggered the violence. Witnesses said Crump set fire to his house and then killed neighbors drawn by the flames.

The wounded white men were identified as Milton R. Severio, 20, of Livingston, La., hit in the chest; and Jim Bedinfield, 39, of Oil City, La., hit in the hip.

Tammany Picks Harrington for DeSapio's Post

NEW YORK (AP) —Insurgent Democrats have chosen John T. Harrington as their candidate to succeed Carmine G. DeSapio as leader of Tammany Hall, the New York County (Manhattan) party organization.

Harrington, Democratic district leader of the Teneth Assembly District, south, in the Yorkville Section, was picked Thursday at a meeting of 30 insurgent district leaders.

DeSapio was beaten in the Sept. 7 primary in his bid for re-election as a district leader in Greenwich Village and as a member of the 3,400-member county committee. He thus is ineligible to continue as county leader.

Aldermen Act

sanitation, and Deputy Defense Director Arnold, on water purification and sanitary facilities, it decided to ask permission to get bids on equipment and supplies.

Need Force Above Ground

"It is definitely recognized," said the report, "that during or after a nuclear attack, it becomes a great problem to get the population placed in fallout shelters, due to congestion of traffic etc." Therefore, it said, the police, auxiliary police "or other bodies will have to maintain some order in the vicinity of such shelters. Even though we prepare for the movement of traffic and population, it will be important, and certainly to our advantage, to maintain a protective force above ground."

It then proposed that it be given permission to get bids on anti-radiation suits.

The report said that while it was felt that mass shelters "were feasible due to their lower cost," this was not meant "to discourage family fallout shelters, but rather to point out the advantage of our terrain in this locality, and the advantages of utilizing old limestone mines for this purpose."

Move for Tax Exemption

It emphasized that full use of the caves could not be achieved immediately, because others are not "as ideally located or developed as the Delaware Avenue caves. It is with this consideration that family fallout shelters should be encouraged wherever possible." It asked that Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly prepare legislation that keep privately developed shelters off the assessment roll for both general and school taxes. The exemption would apply even if shelters were used for such purposes as recreation.

The caves off Delaware Avenue, rented from the city, have been used for several years by Knaust Brothers Inc., in the growing of mushrooms. The committee said it learned from Warren Knaust in a recent tour of the caves, that there were four or five additional acres of usable cave space. A second chamber, Knaust felt, is separted from the one now in use by some 100 feet of rock.

"If this space is usable and could be inexpensively opened," said the report, "it would provide approximately 50 per cent additional space to the shelter." It asked that the city engineer's office study this factor along with need for repair of a bridge in the area with the type of door construction at the cave entrance.

The committee said it felt the city's building code should "include a mandatory requirement for the installation of fallout shelters in all public buildings to be constructed in the future." It said it hoped the education board would consider this proposal in the authorization of new schools.

Architects have noted, said the report, that cost of such shelters "is comparatively low" if included in general construction plans.

Cite Rockefeller Plan

Attention was called to Thursday's news report from Albany that the Rockefeller administration plans drafting of a new fallout shelter program for the state. It was indicated it could include grants of $50 to $100 to help home owners build shelters. The program would be tied in with expected new federal action.

Alderman Schrowang, in urging no let down in getting the shelter project advanced, said he hoped the city would not "sit on" the proposal, because the job ahead was an important one.

Information obtained by The Freeman last year revealed that the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has a record of the downtown caves along with other caves, mines and underground systems which figured in a nationwide survey. A few communities, mainly in the west, have prepared or are preparing shelters in caves, mines, or other dug out areas.

U.S.-Red Program Hits Snag; Okie, Moscow Shows Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—An important segment of the U.S.-Soviet exchange program has collapsed at least temporarily amid an exchange of accusations.

Scratched from the list of coming attractions were a Soviet medical exhibit scheduled for Oklahoma City, Okla., and an American transportation show slated for Moscow. Both were to open Saturday.

In announcing their cancellation, the Russians protested about what they called State Department interference.

The State Department said cancellation of the Moscow show was in response to Russian foot dragging which for years has made it more difficult for American exchange projects in the Soviet Union.

The State Department had refused to allow the Soviets to go ahead with the Oklahoma City exhibit so long as the Russians failed to comply with a requirement for a U.S. government okay on contracts with American firms setting up the Russian exhibitions.

Also, the department said, the Reds were imposing exorbitant and unreasonable terms on the American exhibit in Moscow.

U.S. officials were particularly peeved about a $30,000 charge for five unwanted "liaison" men assigned to the U.S. exhibition, while the Russians refused to pay $5,000 for the one American liaison man assigned to the Soviet exhibit here.

Both exhibits originally were scheduled to last about three months, with the Soviet one moving on to Chicago and Minneapolis and American show to Kharkov.

State CD Official Lauds Council On Caves Action

General F. W. Farrell, director of New York State Civil Defense Commission, Albany, today commended Kingston Common Council on its action to investigate the possible use of underground limestone caves in the city for fallout shelters.

His statement follows:

"The decision made by the Kingston Common Council Thursday in deciding to investigate the feasibility of adapting a huge limestone cave for use as a community shelter is one of the most outstanding actions ever taken in New York State by a municipality to protect its citizens against a possible nuclear attack.

"I heartily congratulate the council members for their alertness to the threat of radio active fallout, and their initiative in taking positive steps to guard against it. I hope that this fine community spirit will inspire other communities to explore the possibilities of providing group shelters in their areas, or to encourage the construction of individual shelters in home basements."

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING...

Build Up Savings Before Investing

Q) "I have been working steadily for 15 years but don't have a penny in the bank. I could borrow to buy stocks—my credit is good anywhere. What stocks should I start with?" F.P.

A) I think it would be the height of folly to begin buying stocks at all in your present situation. For many years I have advised clients always to stow away a backlog of savings before making any common stock commitments.

The principal in a savings account doesn't fluctuate; it is always there if you need it in a hurry. My advice is that you open such an account right away and start putting a part of your pay check there regularly.

Later on, when you have built up a decent sized nest egg, you should be able to put your money to work in a good investment program without undue risk.

Q) "We both work, are in our mid-30's and have had no formal education. Our holdings are American Home Products, International Telephone, First Charter Financial, Minnesota Mining & Mfg., and Tractor Supply.

We have large profits in the first three issues, and the latter two are now selling just above their cost price. We also have $20,000 in E bonds, $1,300 in savings and a checking account. Should we continue to add to our stocks even though they have gone up in price?" W.I.

A) Yes. Your portfolio is an unusually strong one and I congratulate you on having developed it. Over the years I've known many investors—including some with excellent educations—who have approached investing with a good deal less common sense.

All of your stocks have appreciated, with three of them turning in impressive performances. Both Minnesota Mining and Tractor Suppply have been fairly quiet of late, but the growth of each of these issues remains far from exhausted. If I were you, I would not hesitate to add to each or all of my present holdings. In fact, I think you woud be wise to follow just such a possibility.

'37 Car Ruins $104 Robbery

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP)— It was a classic scene: Two gunmen fleeing the drug store they had just robbed, sprinting into an alley where their getaway car was parked. A turn of the ignition, a grinding of gears and—the differential fell out of the 1937 car.

Police found two men hiding in the alley minutes after the robbery Wednesday night. They arrested James M. Kennedy, 21, and Robert A. Webster, 20. Both were held without charge.

Officers said they recovered $104 taken in the robbery.

They went home at 4:30 p. m. and on return Thursday morning continued their sit-down protest. Casciaro said the trouble spread to another department and at 10 a. m. the company announced by loud speaker that the plant would be closed until further notice.

He said he immediately called a meeting of the union to inform membership of the situation, and the session with management followed.

Casciaro said E. Earl Milner Jr., president of Electrol told him he was certain the differences could be resolved and a meeting to discuss the situation has been set for next Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Sticks to Neutrality

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The U.N. Congo command today adopted a posture of military neutrality after its bold stroke to put down Katanga's secession by a show of strength ended in bloodshed and a cease-fire.

The cease-fire in the breakaway province caught Premier Cyrille Adoula in a squeeze that could create a cabinet crisis in the central government he set up with U.N. backing to unite the country.

todial responsibility is then carried by the employer and the government to the end of the road."

Reaches Critical Point

Shaw said the expansion of government "has almost reached the point of no return, where it will be impossible to restore proper balance between the various segments of our society."

The blame for government's growth, Shaw said, rests with industry itself.

"...It (industry) is still 30 or 40 years behind the times in the concept of its role in government affairs," he said.

Shaw's suggestions were similar to those of Trefethen—calling for a more active role by business leaders in governmental affairs and a closer communication with employes.

Calls For Changes

In another prepared address by a General Electric executive, A. W. Halverson, manager of state public affairs, called for a change in the State Labor Law and Civil Practices Act.

Halverson said that, because of weaknesses in the laws, violence was being allowed on picket lines. He said there was a "double-standard of law-enforcement" under the present system.

Associated Industries' board of directors yesterday also pledged "maximum support" to efforts of the New York Central Railroad to acquire control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

An application for such consolidation is before the Interstate Commerce Commission but is opposed by the Chesapeake & Ohio, which also seeks control of the B&O.

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told leaders of both parties today he would contact them promptly if the international situation requires after Congress adjourns.

Republican and Democratic leaders of House and Senate said they would be available in the event of an emergency.

Leaders are aiming for adjournment Saturday night.

Kennedy called the leaders to breakfast at the White House just before departing on a trip that will take him to the United Nations for a speech on Monday.

Socialites Become Movie Extras to Help Nursing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Socialites nursed aching feet playing $25 fancy dress movie extras on the floodlighted terrace of a magnificent Washington estate.

Bars served only soft drinks as Hollywood sought Thursday night to capture a Washington party for a big scene in the movie "Advise and Consent."

Producer Otto Preminger brought back to life untenanted "Tregaron," the famed estate of the late Joseph E. Davies, one-time U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union.

One guest wistfully looked at his watch after the party was under way a good two hours and signed "never have I been so sober so late at a typical Washington party."

"When are they going to serve dinner?" inquired a glamorous matron as 9:30 p.m. rolled around and the producer was still rolling the cameras.

The caterer, who serves many a Washington dinner, set up his operation in the garage. No one ate until 10 p.m. and the black tie and evening gowned guests stood aside for the movie crew, which took chow line priority.

"Cha, cha, cha" and "have fun" came the director's orders. And society band leader Meyer Davis provided the beat.

Preminger partially refurbished fabulous 24-room, 10-bath Tregaron and made a deal with Davies' daughters, Mrs. Millard Tydings and Mrs. E. Fontaine Broun, to provide the 400 socialite guests. The standard $25 movie fee paid each "extra" will be donated to the school of nursing of Washington Hospital Center. The guests were invited to come at 7 p.m. and contracted to remain at least six hours.

Moses Says Bill On Wilderness Is by Fanatics

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP) — The proposed bill that would set aside 16 tracts in the Forest Preserve as primitive wilderness is a "trick bill hashed up by fanatics," Chairman Robert Moses of the State Council of Parks says.

Instead, Moses said, the present section of the Constitution requiring that the preserve be kept "forever wild" should be repealed and more of the forest opened to family recreation.

The open spaces belong to the rank-and-file in the cities, "not to a few pseudo-wilderness experts," Moses declared.

Moses made the statements in a speech delivered at a meeting of the Adirondack Park Association. He did not attend but his speech was read by Thomas Cantwell, the association's secretary.

Moses took issue with the proposal of the Joint Legislative Committee on Natural Resources that would empower the state conservation commissioner to set aside 16 tracts, totaling almost 1 million of the preserve's 2.5 million acres, as primitive areas closed to motorized transport, including airplanes and motorboats.

A Real Lock-Out

The theory is that these areas thus would remain natural havens from the civilized world.

Moses, a long-time advocate of more public use of the preserve, described the bill as an attempt to lock up the preserve even tighter for "imitation Indians and amateur mountaineers."

He proposed a constitutional amendment under which 25 per cent of the preserve would be designated "forever wild." The balance would be opened to various types of outdoor recreational activities.

Harold G. Wilm, state conservation commissioner and a supporter of the wilderness bill, said Moses' plan would be more restrictive than the wilderness bill because it would close one-fourth of the preserve entirely.

The commissioner said he did not believe enough suitable sites would be available near main roads to be used for what Moses called "intensive" use by vacationing families.

For Expansion

In another development, the chairman of a joint legislative committee on winter tourist business indicated that his group favored expansion of existing facilities at Whiteface Mountain near Lake Placid in place of a planned development on Gore Mountain near North Creek, south of here.

Assemblyman Willis H. Stephens, R-Putnam, said his committee had reached no conclusions. Nevertheless, he listed in a speech what he considered assets of Whiteface expansion and liabilities of a ski establishment on Gore.

Saigon Beefs Up Troops in Hills North of Capital

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP) — Government reinforcements have been rushed to counter a Communist rebel drive in the mountains north of this capital.

Paratroop units left Thursday to strengthen Ban Methuot after large rebel forces were reported on all sides of that city of 50,000.

Informed sources said a company of civil guardsmen was reported overrun by Viet Cong attackers at an outpost 20 miles from Ban Methuot. Contact was lost with another unit sent out to relieve the guardsmen.

Military observers have expressed concern over the upswing in rebel activity with large troop units in the past week, particularly in the north.

The latest reported attack came Wednesday night about 20 miles south of the highland center of Ban Methuot, 200 miles north of Saigon.

Informed sources said about two battalions of Viet Cong—a number that could vary between 500 and 1,000—took part in the assault. No further details were given.

Earlier in the week another major rebel force overran the capital of Phuoc Thanh Province, about 60 miles north of here, killing the province chief and dozens of officials and defending guardsmen.

Episcopalians Recognize New Ceylon Church

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

DETROIT (AP)—Another move by Episcopalians today forged closer links between Christians of various denominations on opposite sides of the world.

Representatives of the Episcopal Church tentatively offered the hand of fellowship to a newly emerging church in distant Ceylon, made up of their Anglican brethren, plus Baptists, Methodists and Presbyterians.

It is one of several united churches emerging in the Far East, blazing a trail of reunion among groups that still remain divided in the West.

The Very Rev. John B. Coburn, dean of the Episcopal Theological Seminary, Cambridge, Mass. said recognizing the Ceylon church was "the most significant step toward reunion since the reformation."

He said it was in accord with Christ's prayer that all believers "may be one."

The action came Thursday in the Episcopal general convention's House of Deputies. They voted overwhelmingly, after spirited debate, to extend tentative recognition to the newly forming church.

The Rt. Rev. Lakdasa De Mel, bishop of Kurunagala, Ceylon, thanked the delegates for acting to "bind our churches together."

The United Ceylon Church will include about 100,000 Christians.

Negro Is Slain After Killing 6

GREENWOOD, Miss. (AP) —A crazed Negro accused of killing six persons and wounding three was slain Thursday night by a hail of bullets from a posse.

Sheriff E. R. Dogan said Wiley Crump, 67, was spotlighted on a house porch and cut down when he tried to raise his rifle.

The sheriff said about 125 men were in the posse, formed after Crump went on his shooting spree at Philipp, a delta community 20 miles from Greenwood in the northwest part of the state.

The six dead, all Negroes, included three women, one of them Crump's sister. Two of the wounded were white men, shot as they lifted the dead into an ambulance.

No one had any idea what triggered the violence. Witnesses said Crump set fire to his house and then killed neighbors drawn by the flames.

The wounded white men were identified as Milton R. Severio, 20, of Livingston, La., hit in the chest; and Jim Bedinfield, 39, of Oil City, La., hit in the hip.

DeSapio was beaten in the Sept. 7 primary in his bid for re-election as a district leader in Greenwich Village and as a member of the 3,400-member county committee. He thus is ineligible to continue as county leader.

Aldermen Act

sanitation, and Deputy Defense Director Arnold, on water purification and sanitary facilities, it decided to ask permission to get bids on equipment and supplies.

Need Force Above Ground

"It is definitely recognized," said the report, "that during or after a nuclear attack, it becomes a great problem to get the population placed in fallout shelters, due to congestion of traffic etc." Therefore, it said, the police, auxiliary police "or other bodies will have to maintain some order in the vicinity of such shelters. Even though we prepare for the movement of traffic and population, it will be important, and certainly to our advantage, to maintain a protective force above ground."

It then proposed that it be given permission to get bids on anti-radiation suits.

The report said that while it was felt that mass shelters "were feasible due to their lower cost," this was not meant "to discourage family fallout shelters, but rather to point out the advantage of our terrain in this locality, and the advantages of utilizing old limestone mines for this purpose."

Move for Tax Exemption

It emphasized that full use of the caves could not be achieved immediately, because others are not "as ideally located or developed as the Delaware Avenue caves. It is with this consideration that family fallout shelters should be encouraged wherever possible." It asked that Corporation Counsel William A. Kelly prepare legislation that keep privately developed shelters off the assessment roll for both general and school taxes. The exemption would apply even if shelters were used for such purposes as recreation.

The caves off Delaware Avenue, rented from the city, have been used for several years by Knaust Brothers Inc., in the growing of mushrooms. The committee said it learned from Warren Knaust in a recent tour of the caves, that there were four or five additional acres of usable cave space. A second chamber, Knaust felt, is separted from the one now in use by some 100 feet of rock.

"If this space is usable and could be inexpensively opened," said the report, "it would provide approximately 50 per cent additional space to the shelter." It asked that the city engineer's office study this factor along with need for repair of a bridge in the area with the type of door construction at the cave entrance.

The committee said it felt the city's building code should "include a mandatory requirement for the installation of fallout shelters in all public buildings to be constructed in the future." It said it hoped the education board would consider this proposal in the authorization of new schools.

Architects have noted, said the report, that cost of such shelters "is comparatively low" if included in general construction plans.

Cite Rockefeller Plan

Attention was called to Thursday's news report from Albany that the Rockefeller administration plans drafting of a new fallout shelter program for the state. It was indicated it could include grants of $50 to $100 to help home owners build shelters. The program would be tied in with expected new federal action.

Alderman Schrowang, in urging no let down in getting the shelter project advanced, said he hoped the city would not "sit on" the proposal, because the job ahead was an important one.

Information obtained by The Freeman last year revealed that the U. S. Army Corps of Engineers has a record of the downtown caves along with other caves, mines and underground systems which figured in a nationwide survey. A few communities, mainly in the west, have prepared or are preparing shelters in caves, mines, or other dug out areas.

U.S.-Red Program Hits Snag; Okie, Moscow Shows Off

WASHINGTON (AP)—An important segment of the U.S.-Soviet exchange program has collapsed at least temporarily amid an exchange of accusations.

Scratched from the list of coming attractions were a Soviet medical exhibit scheduled for Oklahoma City, Okla., and an American transportation show slated for Moscow. Both were to open Saturday.

In announcing their cancellation, the Russians protested about what they called State Department interference.

The State Department said cancellation of the Moscow show was in response to Russian foot dragging which for years has made it more difficult for American exchange projects in the Soviet Union.

The State Department had refused to allow the Soviets to go ahead with the Oklahoma City exhibit so long as the Russians failed to comply with a requirement for a U.S. government okay on contracts with American firms setting up the Russian exhibitions.

Also, the department said, the Reds were imposing exorbitant and unreasonable terms on the American exhibit in Moscow.

U.S. officials were particularly peeved about a $30,000 charge for five unwanted "liaison" men assigned to the U.S. exhibition, while the Russians refused to pay $5,000 for the one American liaison man assigned to the Soviet exhibit here.

Both exhibits originally were scheduled to last about three months, with the Soviet one moving on to Chicago and Minneapolis and American show to Kharkov.

State CD Official Lauds Council On Caves Action

General F. W. Farrell, director of New York State Civil Defense Commission, Albany, today commended Kingston Common Council on its action to investigate the possible use of underground limestone caves in the city for fallout shelters.

His statement follows:

"The decision made by the Kingston Common Council Thursday in deciding to investigate the feasibility of adapting a huge limestone cave for use as a community shelter is one of the most outstanding actions ever taken in New York State by a municipality to protect its citizens against a possible nuclear attack.

"I heartily congratulate the council members for their alertness to the threat of radio active fallout, and their initiative in taking positive steps to guard against it. I hope that this fine community spirit will inspire other communities to explore the possibilities of providing group shelters in their areas, or to encourage the construction of individual shelters in home basements."

Dag's Body Delayed

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP) — Transportation of Dag Hammarskjold's body from Rhodesia to Sweden has been postponed, the Swedish Foreign Ministry announced today, since a post-mortem will not be concluded until Sunday at the earliest. The body had been scheduled to arrive in Stockholm that day.

A national state funeral for the late U.N. secretary-general, killed in an African plane crash Monday, is planned at the ancient university city of Uppsala, 45 miles north of Stockholm, on next Friday.

Build Up Savings Before Investing

Q) "I have been working steadily for 15 years but don't have a penny in the bank. I could borrow to buy stocks—my credit is good anywhere. What stocks should I start with?" F.P.

A) I think it would be the height of folly to begin buying stocks at all in your present situation. For many years I have advised clients always to stow away a backlog of savings before making any common stock commitments.

The principal in a savings account doesn't fluctuate; it is always there if you need it in a hurry. My advice is that you open such an account right away and start putting a part of your pay check there regularly.

Later on, when you have built up a decent sized nest egg, you should be able to put your money to work in a good investment program without undue risk.

Q) "We both work, are in our mid-30's and have had no formal education. Our holdings are American Home Products, International Telephone, First Charter Financial, Minnesota Mining & Mfg., and Tractor Supply.

We have large profits in the first three issues, and the latter two are now selling just above their cost price. We also have $20,000 in E bonds, $1,300 in savings and a checking account. Should we continue to add to our stocks even though they have gone up in price?" W.I.

A) Yes. Your portfolio is an unusually strong one and I congratulate you on having developed it. Over the years I've known many investors—including some with excellent educations—who have approached investing with a good deal less common sense.

All of your stocks have appreciated, with three of them turning in impressive performances. Both Minnesota Mining and Tractor Supply have been fairly quiet of late, but the growth of each of these issues remains far from exhausted. If I were you, I would not hesitate to add to each or all of my present holdings. In fact, I think you woud be wise to follow just such a possibility.

'37 Car Ruins $104 Robbery

ENGLEWOOD, Colo. (AP)— It was a classic scene: Two gunmen fleeing the drug store they had just robbed, sprinting into an alley where their getaway car was parked. A turn of the ignition, a grinding of gears and—the differential fell out of the 1937 car.

Police found two men hiding in the alley minutes after the robbery Wednesday night. They arrested James M. Kennedy, 21, and Robert A. Webster, 20. Both were held without charge.

Officers said they recovered $104 taken in the robbery.

grievance meeting. Casciaro added that the union members protested Wednesday afternoon by declining to work. They went home at 4:30 p. m. and on return Thursday morning continued their sit-down protest. Casciaro said the trouble spread to another department and at 10 a. m. the company announced by loud speaker that the plant would be closed until further notice.

Milner Confident

He said he immediately called a meeting of the union to inform membership of the situation, and the session with management followed.

Casciaro said E. Earl Milner Jr., president of Electrol told him he was certain the differences could be resolved and a meeting to discuss the situation has been set for next Wednesday at 10 a. m.

Sticks to Neutrality

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo (AP)—The U.N. Congo command today adopted a posture of military neutrality after its bold stroke to put down Katanga's secession by a show of strength ended in bloodshed and a cease-fire.

The cease-fire in the breakaway province caught Premier Cyrille Adoula in a squeeze that could create a cabinet crisis in the central government he set up with U.N. backing to unite the country.

todial responsibility is then carried by the employer and the government to the end of the road."

Reaches Critical Point

Shaw said the expansion of government "has almost reached the point of no return, where it will be impossible to restore proper balance between the various segments of our society."

The blame for government's growth, Shaw said, rests with industry itself.

"...It (industry) is still 30 or 40 years behind the times in the concept of its role in government affairs," he said.

Shaw's suggestions were similar to those of Trefethen—calling for a more active role by business leaders in governmental affairs and a closer communication with employes.

Calls For Changes

In another prepared address by a General Electric executive, A. W. Halverson, manager of state public affairs, called for a change in the State Labor Law and Civil Practices Act.

Halverson said that, because of weaknesses in the laws, violence was being allowed on picket lines. He said there was a "double-standard of law-enforcement" under the present system.

Associated Industries' board of directors yesterday also pledged "maximum support" to efforts of the New York Central Railroad to acquire control of the Baltimore & Ohio.

An application for such consolidation is before the Interstate Commerce Commission but is opposed by the Chesapeake & Ohio, which also seeks control of the B&O.

Will Contact Leaders

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy told leaders of both parties today he would contact them promptly if the international situation requires after Congress adjourns.

Republican and Democratic leaders of House and Senate said they would be available in the event of an emergency.

Leaders are aiming for adjournment Saturday night.

Kennedy called the leaders to breakfast at the White House just before departing on a trip that will take him to the United Nations for a speech on Monday.

Socialites Become Movie Extras to Help Nursing

WASHINGTON (AP)—Socialites nursed aching feet playing $25 fancy dress movie extras on the floodlighted terrace of a magnificent Washington estate.

Bars served only soft drinks as Hollywood sought Thursday night to capture a Washington party for a big scene in the movie "Advise and Consent."

Producer Otto Preminger brought back to life untenanted "Tregaron," the famed estate of the late Joseph E. Davies, one-time U.S. ambassador to the Soviet Union.

One guest wistfully looked at his watch after the party was under way a good two hours and signed "never have I been so sober so late at a typical Washington party."

"When are they going to serve dinner?" inquired a glamorous matron as 9:30 p.m. rolled around and the producer was still rolling the cameras.

The caterer, who serves many a Washington dinner, set up his operation in the garage. No one ate until 10 p.m. and the black tie and evening gowned guests stood aside for the movie crew, which took chow line priority.

"Cha, cha, cha" and "have fun" came the director's orders. And society band leader Meyer Davis provided the beat.

Preminger partially refurbished fabulous 24-room, 10-bath Tregaron and made a deal with Davies' daughters, Mrs. Millard Tydings and Mrs. E. Fontaine Broun, to provide the 400 socialite guests. The standard $25 movie fee paid each "extra" will be donated to the school of nursing of Washington Hospital Center. The guests were invited to come at 7 p.m. and contracted to remain at least six hours.

Legion Resolution Supports Community College Proposal

A resolution recommending establishment of an Ulster County Community College was passed by Kingston Post 150, American Legion at a meeting Tuesday night, and a copy will be forwarded to the Board of Supervisors, according to Commander George C. Heppner.

Heppner strongly urges all citizens to vote in favor of the community college.

The resolution noted that there is an ever-increasing need for education beyond the high school level due to increased high school enrollment and the increased number of high school graduates.

Cites Need for College

It further points out that the student potential, including children of veterans as well as non-veterans, and the educational requirements of the area population would warrant the establishment of an educational institution beyond the high school level.

The resolution also notes that Ulster County has only one educational institution providing higher teacher education courses, and that the establishment of an Ulster County Community College has been approved and authorized in principle.

The Community College hometown education program would enable Ulster County students to live and study at home and tend to alleviate their matriculation at other distant higher education institutions, the resolution notes.

Would Assist Industry

The resolution further points out that the establishment of a Community College will bring material benefits to this area in creating technicians and graduates in specialized technical fields, improving the technical know-how of the area, assisting local industries and decreasing local unemployment problems.

Community College graduates, upon completion of their two year courses, will be given transfer credit to four-year courses in this state, the resolution notes, and there will be an economic saving for the local students who attend the community college and a minimum of expense to the county for establishment of the two-year institution after the initial expenses for buildings and facilities have been met.

States Deny Relief Wrongs

Charges Florida, Georgia Pay Some On Rolls to Move

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — Some Florida and Georgia welfare officials are paying welfare recipients to move to New York State and get on its relief rolls, Monroe County Welfare Commissioner William B. Woods has charged.

"We'll give you your checks for the first year you're in New York and then you apply to them for welfare."

This, Woods said, was like "a flag telling us what's coming."

Florida and Georgia welfare officials replied they knew of no such specific cases such as Woods described.

Woods said all three cases were denied relief and were referred to the State Department of Social Welfare for any further action.

The people involved, he continued, were not migrant farm workers, but were sent here specifically to get on local welfare rolls.

Erie County Welfare Commissioner Paul F. Burke said in Buffalo that his office had been dealing with similar problems for some time, and that not only Southern states were involved. But he declined to name any states specifically.

A spokesman for the New York State social welfare department said in Albany that the department knew only of one of the Florida cases which Woods described, but added that "there was no evidence that the persons who came into the state at the encouragement of any official agency in Florida."

It is a misdemeanor under state law to cause anyone to enter the state in order to collect welfare benefits. Violation is punishable by a fine of up to $100.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

NEW YORK (AP)—A few years ago in the halcyon days of television, one of the joys for the adult, semi - literate-and-better viewer was a nightly puppet show called "Kukla, Fran and Ollie," which specialized in a rather sophisticated brand of wry, droll whimsy.

The attractive little show subsequently suffered the slings and arrows of low ratings and finally disappeared from the networks. Now, in one of the pleasant but puzzling events of the season, NBC is bringing it back.

In the black and white world of television thinking, it is ordained that puppet shows are for children. Hence, the new "Kukla and Ollie" returns next Monday as a daily show—and at an hour reserved for the little ones.

NBC obligingly provided reviewers with a preview of the first week's batch of programs. They are only five minutes long, including the commercials, and really don't give Kukla, Oliver J. Dragon and Beulah Witch, to name a few of the delightful puppet regulars to do much more than hit-and-run comedy. But it is still long enough to them to provide a bright spot in an adult's day, a moment of sharp satire, bright wit and topical comedy. But the hour is impossible—5-5:05 p.m., Eastern Daylight Time, when most grownups are either just leaving the office or busy in the kitchen preparing dinner. This is a shame.

Recommended week-end viewing: "Eyewitness," season premiere, CBS, tonight, 10:30-11 (Eastern Daylight Time)—round-up of top news stories; "Saturday Night at the Movies," premiere, Saturday, NBC, 9-11—"How to Marry a Millionaire," with Marilyn Monroe and William Powell; "The Bullwinkle Show," premiere NBC, Sunday, 7-7:30—new animated cartoon series; "Walt Disney's Wonderful World of Color," NBC premiere, Sunday, 7:30-8:30 — weekly series debuts on new network with an animated cartoon show introducing a new Disney character.

750 Are Arrested For Summer Fish, Game Violations

There were 750 arrests for violations of New York's fish and game law during July and August according to William Goodman, chief of the Bureau of Law Enforcement in the State Conservation Department. Fines and penalties amounted to $20,451 compared with $15,020 for the same period last year, when 667 arrests were made.

More than half of the violations, 482, involved hunting and fishing without a license. The fines amounted to $8,456, whereas the approximate cost of buying the licenses would have been only $1,200, Goodman said.

Illegal taking of deer during closed season cost 31 persons a total of $570 during the two-month period.

A breakdown of other violations indicates 68 for illegal taking of fish, 41 fo rcarrying loaded guns in automobiles, 26 shellfish violations, 11 for illegal netting, and eight for illegal taking of game. There were also three waterfowl and four spearing violations, two water pollution cases and 74 miscellaneous.

BABSON on BUSINESS

By Roger W. Babson

BABSON PARK, MASS., Sept. 22—The treasurer of a large Massachusetts Savings Bank told me yesterday that his new deposits are running over $20,000 a day. I asked him how he invested that much and he replied: "I send it all to Mississippi." This means that the people of this New England city, instead of having their savings invested in New England, are sending them down South to be invested. Individuals in New England are sending their savings to New York City for investment for capital with which to start new factories and give employment to their own people. This largely explains the troubles of New England cities today. Furthermore, this same situation explains unemployment conditions in other cities of the North.

Six Fastest Growing States

In a previous column this summer I mentioned six Southern States which have special laws to encourage industry. I briefly explained that these laws permit city bonds to be issued to build factories, just as most states float bonds to build highways. So many inquiries have come to me asking details of these revenue bond laws, that I am devoting this week's column to the subject. I take as an illustration the city of Tupelo, Mississippi. This city is getting not only its capital largely from New England, but also some of our best young men. One of the ablest men in Tupelo is Frank Dodge, who came from the little town of New Boston, N. H.

The first step which a northern city must take, in this connection, is to have the state pass a law whereby a city may issue these revenue bonds to build factories as well as to build toll roads. Thus far, when a northern city has gone to its legislature for such an amendment, the bond dealers have killed the proposed amendment. They have been assisted by the conservative municipal bond holders of their community. These bond holders have selfishly thought only of themselves and have disregarded the welfare of their community.

How the Plan Works

Let us assume that an established company with good credit is willing to build a factory in your community costing $500,000, provided the city will issue industrial revenue bonds in this amount to pay for the cost. The company for which the factory is being built takes a 20-year lease for $35,000, which includes modernization and interest at very low annual rates. This is possible because the interest is federal tax exampt and because of other advantages. The cost of $500,000 includes land, concrete floors and walls, and all normal electrical wiring, plumbing, air conditioning, a sprinkler system, and heating for a building of approximately 125,000 square feet.

The building is owned by the city and gets a 99-year tax exemption from the city, county, and state. The credit of the firm leasing the factory is not encumbered because it is a lease contract. The $500,000 revenue bond issue provides the full faith and credit of the city voted by the citizens at a special election on the project. These bonds furnish federal tax exemption to the purchasers because they are issued by a city. The rate of interest will be determined more by the credit of the leasing company than by the credit of the particular municipal issuing the bonds.

How to Secure Details

Readers of this column may write to Mayor James O. Ballard of Tupelo, Mississippi for a copy of the "Bawi" Law. States amending their constitutions accordingly should find their unemployment problems largely solved, since the new industries will provide new jobs for people who are willing to do good work at a fair wage. The program thus assures rising employment and a good rate of interest on a federally non-taxable bond, and the municipality receives a fair rental from the property. The bonds are amortized and interest paid during the term of the 20-year lease. So far, I have not known of a default.

Why We Say--

Oddly enough, the practice of toucing wood on every occassion of good fortune was started by those who wanted to show their gratitude to Christ for dying on a wooden cross.

County Allotted $28,081 Share Of MV Receipts

Ulster County has been allotted $28,081.86 as its share of the distribution of $2,769,272.58 of motor vehicle tax receipts to the counties of the state and New York City, it was announced today by State Comptroller Arthur Levitt.

This amount for the quarter ending Sept. 30 is an increase of $2,209.60 for Ulster County over the same period last year.

This total is the share of state-collected motor vehicle fees for the three months ending June 30, 1961, which is being returned to the counties in accordance with the state highway law.

The law provides that 25 per cent of the fees collected under the vehicle and traffic law, exclusive of application fees and service charge for special plates, from residents of counties be returned to local government.

The money is deposited by counties in the county road funds, from which expenditures for construction and maintenance of county road systems are made. The money paid to the City of New York is to be credited to the city's general fund for construction and maintenance of city streets, highways and parkways. Checks are being mailed to the county fiscal officers and to the treasurer of the City of New York.

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — While whizzing along the Detroit-Toledo Expressway in his convertible, Howard Cone thought he'd have a little fun. He started swiping at small, compact cars with a fly swatter. Sam Mihailoff, driving a tiny, foreign-made model, took a dim view of Cone's humor. Mihailoff, an off-duty policeman, cited him for operating a vehicle without due regard for safety. Cone, 28, of Monroe, Mich. was fined $50 in Municipal Court. All but $10 of the fine was suspended when Cone agreed to attend traffic safety courses.

Do You Remember by Sophie Miller

Much has been written about Peter Stuyvesant (1592-1672) who was appointed director-general of the New Netherlands in 1646 and arrived in New Amsterdam, now New York, in 1647. A statue of Stuyvesant, by sculptor John Massey Rhind is in our Academy Green. Stuyvesant planned and arranged the uptown section of town and had a 14 foot stockade fence built all around it for the protection of the colonists.

Too much is not written about Stuyvesant as a man, politician and administrator. I have a 600 page book of old documents of the 1600's loaned to me by a reader. There through the letters and correspondence we are told of Stuyvesant.

This is taken in part from page 307, from "Hollard Documents: of the administration of Director Stuyvesant, in particular." The colonists wrote: "We sincerely wish we were already through this administration, for it hath been heavy upon us, and we are conscious of our feeble power...As regards the director, his manner in court has been, from his first arrival unto this time, to browbeat, dispute with and harass...not as bessemeth a judge, but like a zealous advocate. This has caused great discontent everywhere, and has gone so far and had such an effect on some, that many dare not bring any suits before the court, if they do not stand well, or passably so, with the director; for, whom he opposeth hath both sun and moon against him."

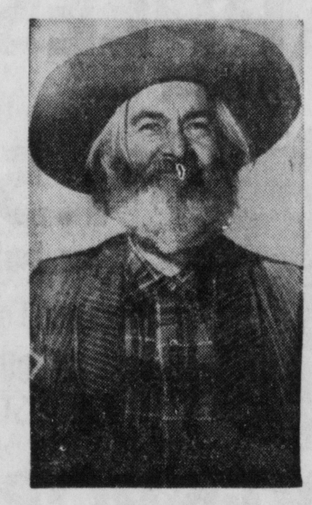

The document goes on in saying that Stuyvesant will express an opinion, and asks if anyone is against it. "If anyone, then, on the instant, offer objection, is not very easy unless he be well grounded, his honor burst forth, into a rage, and makes such a to-do that it is dreadful.. and he will not be satisfied until he has his way."

These are exact words from this 1600 document in which they speak of someone Stuyvesant did not like. "What shall we say of one whose head is a trouble to him and whose screw is loose, especially when it is surrounded by a little sap in the wood." Now 300 years later, we use a part of this expression.

They tell how Stuyvesant sold powder and lead to the Indians, although the honorable director condemned it severely for others. "His Honor said and openly maintained, that his contraband trade was lawful for him on the company account, to sell powder, lead and guns to the Indians, but for no one else; and he would have a resolution passed to that effect."

The colonists bitterly complained in this document thus: "The character of the action is notorious to every inhabitant, for through his employes, the director hath publicly carried on trade with the Indians; and he hath deprived freemen of one or two guns which they had brough with them for their own use and amusement; for some of which he paid what he thought was proper, for others nothing; and then turned around and sold them to the Indians."

They further wrote to their mother country: "The director (Stuyvesant) is in, and carries on, all sorts of business all over the country, for he hath various stores of his own; he is a brewer, hath bouweries, is part owner of ships, a merchant and a trader both in lawful and contraband articles... He forbids the trade to others on pain of death, carrys it on himself, both covertly and publicily...If others try it, he banishes them and confiscates their property, although they may be worthy citizens and importers...."

Battle for B&O Control Shifts To Mass. Monday

WASHINGTON (AP) — Interstate Commerce Commission hearings on the battle for control of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad end here today but open up again Monday in Boston.

Chesapeake & Ohio and New York Central railroads began their conflict before an ICC examiner last June. Today is the 26th day of hearings with almost two weeks more of field hearings already scheduled.

S. F. Witt, traffic official for C&O, testified Thursday that in his judgment a C&O-B&O combination would have practically no effect on New York Central traffic.

Another C&O witness, James F. Haley, vice president of Koppers Inc., Pittsburgh, said C&O control of the B&O would be beneficial to the transportation industry.

C&O seeks to take control of the B&O facilities. Central asks either that it be permitted to take control of B&O, or that a three-way merger be set up among C&O, B&O and Central.

Ballston Man Is Now Coordinator For Schools CD

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Dr. Willard T. Jones, retired superintendent of schools at Ballston Lake, will serve as acting coordinator of civil defense for the State Education Department for six months.

The regular coordinator, Raymond R. Hunter of Slingerlands, is on a leave of absence. Jones will be paid $4,750 for the six months.

The appointment was made Thursday by Education Commissioner James E. Allen Jr.

3 More Classes Are Added for Adult Education

Three courses in addition to those listed in the Adult Education brochure are being offered for the 1961-62 Adult Education program, Raphael Klein, director of Adult Education, announced today.

These added courses are psychology, human biology, and elementary school subjects. The psychology course was requested by a large number of persons and the added course in elementary school subjects is designed for persons who have not had the opportunity to complete elementary school work. This includes many persons from foreign lands who had been deprived of the opportunity to attend and complete elementary school work.

A considerable number of adults have registered for the Adult Education courses which were offered in the printed brochure but there is still room for a few more registrants in some subjects.

Copies of the Adult Education Program brochure are available at the Adult Education office in the Kingston Vocational School building at Kingston High School or will be made available by calling the Adult Education office in the Vocational School.

Additional registrations may still be made at the office in the Vocational Building on school days from 9 a. m. to 4 p. m. and on Thursday, September 28, from 7 to 9 p. m.

Registration is open to any person beyond compulsory school age and not enrolled in private or public secondary school.

The fall term opens Monday, Oct. 9 and runs until Dec. 14. The spring term, operating for 10 weeks, the same as the fall term, will open Monday, Jan. 15 and continue through March 22.

Slow Bidding Reveals Slam

The North-South bidding is worthy of study. After North's bids of two clubs and three spades South visualized slam possibilities. He only had 14 points, but he held three aces and three clubs.

Agreement Near For Truckers, Is Syracuse Report

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP) — Negotiations between the Teamsters Union and Upstate trucking firms were to be resumed today amid reports that agreement on a new contract was near.

Rocco DePerno of Utica, president of the New York State Joint Council of Teamsters, said after a meeting Thursday with leaders of 14 Teamster locals that he was optimistic a strike would be averted.

The joint council represents 18,000 trucking employes of approximately 250 truckers in all parts of the state except New York City area.

Teamsters locals have scheduled membership meetings for Sunday to ratify any agreement or vote on a strike.

The employers have offered an increase of 34 cents an hour plus fringe benefits in hourly wages over three years. But they propose to continue the present rate of 11.15 cents per mile paid to long-haul drivers. The employers contend that over-the-road drivers in 45 other states earn 9.6 cents a mile.

DePerno has said that hourly wages accounted for only about 1 per cent of the amount paid to Teamster members Upstate.

The union has not made public its demands.

To Hold Meeting On Congress Lines In N.Y. Monday

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A legislative committee that is drafting new congressional district lines for the state will hold a meeting Monday in New York City with a group of New York congressmen.

But Samuel S. Stratton of Schenectady, the Democratic congressman who contends the Republicans plan to gerrymander him out of a seat, will not be there. He was not invited.

Sen. Robert C. McEwen, R-Ogdensburg, chairman of the Joint Legislative Committee on Reapportionment, Reps. Emanuel Celler of New York City, a Democrat, and John Taber of Auburn, a Republican, will head the respective groups at the meeting.

McEwen's committee is drafting legislation—to be presented to a special session of the Legislature this fall—under which the total number of New York State representatives in Congress will be cut from 45 to 43.

New York is losing two seats because its population growth was not as large as that of California and other states that will gain seats.

The major decisions on reapportionment in New York will be made by Republican legislative and political leaders, and the views of the congressional delegation are not expected to be greatly influential.

McEwen announced Thursday that he had called the meeting.

To Keep Ahead of Russia . . .

Scientists Say U. S. Nuclear Tests Must Be Above Ground

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "If the Russians continue to test nuclear weapons aboveground and the U. S. continues to test only underground, then slowly but surely the Soviet Union will push ahead of the United States in nuclear weapons."

This is the consensus of military and civilian experts on atomic weapons and their testing interviewed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

These experts report it is practical to try out only small and medium nuclear blasts underground. These have the explosive power of several hundred thousand tons of TNT. This is a far cry from a megaton or million ton bomb.

The Soviet Union reportedly has exploded several weapons in the megaton class since it resumed tests. These are well over 50 times the size of the largest bombs the U. S. had tested underground before the recent three-year ban on testing. The new U. S. explosions at the Nevada test site also have been rather small.

The nuclear experts say it will be impossible to test underground the larger, improved versions of the warheads for the Polaris, Minuteman, Titan and Atlas missiles. It also will not be possible to do much in the way of testing important versions of the so-called "clean" bomb, the nuclear weapon with small fallout.

The weapons experts say, however, there may be a way out of the dilemma of wanting to test larger bombs but not wanting to contaminate the atmosphere.

The largest underground test before the ban was a 20-kiloton blast. Its force burst from underground through the surface and into the atmosphere. But the fallout did not spread beyond the borders of the testing area.

Scientists say they could solve many problems by this "half-in, half-out" method that they can't solve by completely underground blasts. They believe that even a metagon bomb, tunneled down 3,000 to 4,000 feet, would not spread fallout off the test site after its blast broke through the surface.

As yet permission has not been given for the "partial underground" method.

Generally, there is enough testing to do underground and in the laboratory to keep our atomic scientists busy for some time. Because of the three-year moratorium, many new theories and small weapons have not been tested. Much of this slack will be taken up.

For example, underground tests can handle warheads for most of the smaller weapons needed for tactical use by the Army. But with the possible exception of the Davy Crockett—a small, Jeep-mounted rocket launcher—it will be impossible to test fire the weapons themselves.

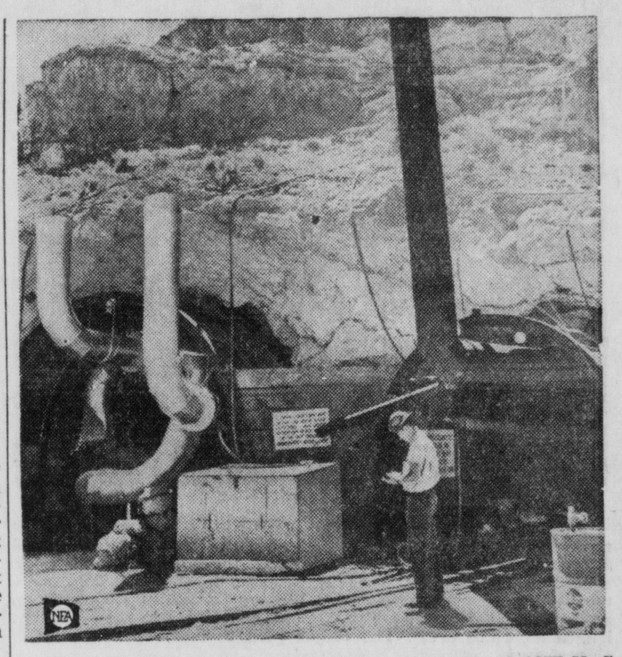

It will be possible to test underground some versions of the new, special purpose and special effects nuclear weapons the military would like to have in the event of a war. Among these is the so-called neutron bomb, which diverts the explosion's neutrons (sub-atomic particles) outward into the air with devastating effect on human life but little effect on property. Some versions of this can be tested underground.

Nonetheless, the military and civilian scientists hold that there are some critically important nuclear weapons and concepts that cannot be tested "completely" underground. For example, they say ways must be found to put a much larger atomic punch into megaton-size missiles without increasing by much the size of the missiles or the power needed to fire them.

The experts also say a series of high altitude tests, outside the atmosphere, are necessary if the U. S. is to develop efficient atomic weapons capable of knocking out armed Soviet Satellites or military space vehicles.

These scientists acknowledge that the U. S. does have enough bombs and nuclear materials for all the missiles the U. S. is likely to need in a war. But they hold that if U. S. military forces are to stay stronger than the Soviet forces — and thereby serve as deterrents to war — then the U. S. must have better nuclear weapons.

10 Shows Ready For Video Debut, Specials Listed

NEW YORK (AP) — Another busy week of television watching looms for viewers who don't want to miss the first possible glimpse of new shows.

In addition to 10 premieres of new series, there will be two special programs, plus many old favorites back in new time spots and with new formats.

No Debuts Tonight

Tonight, however, will be easy—no debuts, just three shows making their seasonal bows (which means using fresh material): CBS' "Route 66" (8:30-9:30 EDT), ABC's "77 Sunset Strip" (9-10) and CBS' "Eyewitness."

On Saturday, ABC will launch a new kiddy show, "On Your Mark," (11-11:30 a.m.) with Sonny Fox as master of ceremonies. But the big event is the premier of NBC's "Saturday Night at the Movies" (9-11), kicking off with "How to Marry a Millionaire" with Marilyn Monroe, Lauren Bacall and Betty Grable.

NBC's "The Bullwinkle Show," an animated cartoon series, starts Sunday (7-7:30 p.m.) and is followed by the new Walt Disney series, switching to NBC from ABC.

Puppets Return

"Kukla and Ollie," the lovable puppets come to day-time NBC on Monday (NBC, 5-5:30 p.m.) after a long absence, and the network rolls out one of its big new ones, "87th Precinct," a police-action show, that night (9-10).

Tuesday there is the debut of CBS' comedy, "Ichabod and Me" (9-9:30), which conflicts with the start of NBC's "Dick Powell Show," an anthology series opening with "Who Killed Julie Greer?" and a bunch of stars (9-10).

Borge, Benny Specials

Steve Allen premieres his variety show Wednesday on ABC (7:30-8:30 p.m.) and is followed on CBS by another animated cartoon series, "Top Cat." Then, also on CBS come two hour-long specials one after the other (9-11), "The Victor Borge 20th anniversary show," and "Carnegie Hall Salutes Jack Benny."

NBC's "Dr. Kildare" and "Hazel" series—the latter, Shirley Booth's new comedy program — move into the lineup Thursday night (8:30-10).

And besides all that "Sing Along with Mitch" moves to a weekly Thursday night spot on NBC; "I've Got a Secret" moves into a Monday night CBS time spot, and any number of shows, including "Hennesey," "Cheyenne," "Wagon Train," "G.E. Theater," and "Ozzie and Harriet" start their new seasons with new shows.

NEW YORK (AP) — Another busy week of television watching looms for viewers who don't want to miss the first possible glimpse of new shows.

In addition to 10 premieres of new series, there will be two special programs, plus many old favorites back in new time spots and with new formats.

No Debuts Tonight

Tonight, however, will be easy—no debuts, just three shows making their seasonal bows (which means using fresh material): CBS' "Route 66" (8:30-9:30 EDT), ABC's "77 Sunset Strip" (9-10) and CBS' "Eyewitness."

On Saturday, ABC will launch a new kiddy show, "On Your Mark," (11-11:30 a.m.) with Sonny Fox as master of ceremonies. But the big event is the premier of NBC's "Saturday Night at the Movies" (9-11), kicking off with "How to Marry a Millionaire" with Marilyn Monroe, Lauren Bacall and Betty Grable.

NBC's "The Bullwinkle Show," an animated cartoon series, starts Sunday (7-7:30 p.m.) and is followed by the new Walt Disney series, switching to NBC from ABC.

Puppets Return

"Kukla and Ollie," the lovable puppets come to day-time NBC on Monday (NBC, 5-5:30 p.m.) after a long absence, and the network rolls out one of its big new ones, "87th Precinct," a police-action show, that night (9-10).

Tuesday there is the debut of CBS' comedy, "Ichabod and Me" (9-9:30), which conflicts with the start of NBC's "Dick Powell Show," an anthology series opening with "Who Killed Julie Greer?" and a bunch of stars (9-10).

Borge, Benny Specials

Steve Allen premieres his variety show Wednesday on ABC (7:30-8:30 p.m.) and is followed on CBS by another animated cartoon series, "Top Cat." Then, also on CBS come two hour-long specials one after the other (9-11), "The Victor Borge 20th anniversary show," and "Carnegie Hall Salutes Jack Benny."

NBC's "Dr. Kildare" and "Hazel" series—the latter, Shirley Booth's new comedy program — move into the lineup Thursday night (8:30-10).

And besides all that "Sing Along with Mitch" moves to a weekly Thursday night spot on NBC; "I've Got a Secret" moves into a Monday night CBS time spot, and any number of shows, including "Hennesey," "Cheyenne," "Wagon Train," "G.E. Theater," and "Ozzie and Harriet" start their new seasons with new shows.

To Keep Ahead of Russia . . .

Scientists Say U. S. Nuclear Tests Must Be Above Ground

By RAY CROMLEY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "If the Russians continue to test nuclear weapons aboveground and the U. S. continues to test only underground, then slowly but surely the Soviet Union will push ahead of the United States in nuclear weapons."

This is the consensus of military and civilian experts on atomic weapons and their testing interviewed by Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

These experts report it is practical to try out only small and medium nuclear blasts underground. These have the explosive power of several hundred thousand tons of TNT. This is a far cry from a megaton or million ton bomb.

The Soviet Union reportedly has exploded several weapons in the megaton class since it resumed tests. These are well over 50 times the size of the largest bombs the U. S. had tested underground before the recent three-year ban on testing. The new U. S. explosions at the Nevada test site also have been rather small.

The nuclear experts say it will be impossible to test underground the larger, improved versions of the warheads for the Polaris, Minuteman, Titan and Atlas missiles. It also will not be possible to do much in the way of testing important versions of the so-called "clean" bomb, the nuclear weapon with small fallout.

The weapons experts say, however, there may be a way out of the dilemma of wanting to test larger bombs but not wanting to contaminate the atmosphere.

The largest underground test before the ban was a 20-kiloton blast. Its force burst from underground through the surface and into the atmosphere. But the fallout did not spread beyond the borders of the testing area.

Scientists say they could solve many problems by this "half-in, half-out" method that they can't solve by completely underground blasts. They believe that even a metagon bomb, tunneled down 3,000 to 4,000 feet, would not spread fallout off the test site after its blast broke through the surface.

As yet permission has not been given for the "partial underground" method.

Generally, there is enough testing to do underground and in the laboratory to keep our atomic scientists busy for some time. Because of the three-year moratorium, many new theories and small weapons have not been tested. Much of this slack will be taken up.

For example, underground tests can handle warheads for most of the smaller weapons needed for tactical use by the Army. But with the possible exception of the Davy Crockett—a small, Jeep-mounted rocket launcher—it will be impossible to test fire the weapons themselves.

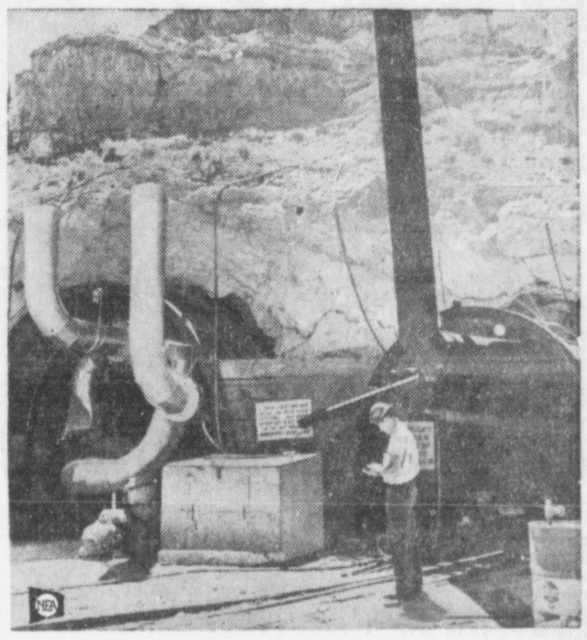

It will be possible to test underground some versions of the new, special purpose and special effects nuclear weapons the military would like to have in the event of a war. Among these is the so-called neutron bomb, which diverts the explosion's neutrons (sub-atomic particles) outward into the air with devastating effect on human life but little effect on property. Some versions of this can be tested underground.

Nonetheless, the military and civilian scientists hold that there are some critically important nuclear weapons and concepts that cannot be tested "completely" underground. For example, they say ways must be found to put a much larger atomic punch into megaton-size missiles without increasing by much the size of the missiles or the power needed to fire them.

The experts also say a series of high altitude tests, outside the atmosphere, are necessary if the U. S. is to develop efficient atomic weapons capable of knocking out armed Soviet Satellites or military space vehicles.

These scientists acknowledge that the U. S. does have enough bombs and nuclear materials for all the missiles the U. S. is likely to need in a war. But they hold that if U. S. military forces are to stay stronger than the Soviet forces — and thereby serve as deterrents to war — then the U. S. must have better nuclear weapons.

A FAMILY RECIPE

Q: I have a recipe for a dessert that my mother gave me when I married. This dessert never fails to draw forth "ohs" and "ahs" from my guest whenever I serve it. The other evening one of the members of my bridge club asked me for the recipe. I refused to give it to her. I felt that if I gave it to her, I would have to give it to others who asked for it and it would then no longer be a specialty of my house. She was plainly miffed at my refusal and passed a remark about my being very picayunish about my recipe. Is it not improper for one to ask a hostess for a special recipe, and also is it not proper for her to refuse to give it?

A: Your friend was not wrong in asking if you would let her have your recipe, but she should have been prepared to have you answer "Oh, I'm sorry I can't give it to you. It's been a family secret for years."

Never Having Met His Mother

I have been going with a boy for the past six months. I have just learned that his mother is in the hospital for surgery. I have never met her. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to send her a few flowers or a get-well card while she is in the hospital.

A: To send flowers to anyone you don't know would be questionable, and when that person is the mother of a boy you have been going out with, it would be not only incorrect, but actually pushing.

Very Susceptible to Colds

Q: I am very susceptible to colds and therefore have to be very careful. When a friend comes to see me who has a cold and sits next to me, would I be considered rude to ask her not to sit next to me, or must I say nothing and catch her cold?

A: This is a difficult situation because it is very rude to show you do not want a friend to sit near you and yet, if you catch cold easily, you know that complacancy will surely mean a cold for you. I think you just have to put your handkerchief over your nose and say "I'm sorry, but I catch cold so easily that I can't be polite about it."

The clothes of the bride and groom as well as those of their attendants are described in the new Emily Post Institute booklet "Clothes of The Bridal Party." To obtain a copy, send ten cents in coin and a self-addressed, stamped envelope to The Emily Post Institute, care of The Kingston Daily Freeman.

Legion Oratorical Contest Date Set For March; Highland

John C. Miller, Ulster County Oratorical and Americanism chairman, announced that the finalists in the New York State Oratorical Contest sponsored by the American Legion will be held in Highland High School on March 17, 1962.

It was explained by Mr. Miller that this contest originates in the high schools across the country. Local winners compete in county contests, county winners meet in district contests and district winners compete in zone contests. In New York State, Mr. Miller stated, there are six zones, and the finalists in the six New York Zones meet in the New York State Contest. These six are the cream of several thousand peoples who started in the local contest.

Each speaker must deliver a 10-12 minute learned oration on some phase, application or structure of our National Constitution and an extemporaneous talk four to six minutes on a section or paragraph, or clause of the Constitution. The extemporaneous topic is picked at random from several areas designated by the National Oratorical Chairman of the American Legion.

The contest in Highland will be between the top six of the several thousand high school students who competed in New York State.

These oratims and extemporaneous talks are the result of a tremendous amount of research on the part of the contestants. They deal with our fundamental law—the Constitution.

Mr. Miller urges as many individuals as possible in Ulster County make an earnest effort to attend this contest in Highland on March 17.

Urge All States To Cease Tests

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The Interparliamentary Union, grouping 530 members of parliaments representing more than 1.5 billion persons in 51 countries throughout the world, today urged all states to refrain from conducting nuclear weapons tests.

Delegates from the U.S.S.R., Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia voted against the resolution, submitted jointly by the Japanese and Argentine groups. Libya abstained.

In a dramatic appeal in favor of the resolution, Shunichi Matsumoto, a native of Hiroshima, Wednesday had urged delegates to support it, saying "Japan was the first, and we hope the last, nation to experience the horrors of the atomic bomb."

The United States and South Viet Nam lost a fight to delete from a resolution a sentence urging a quick solution to the Red Chinese representation question in the United Nations.

The Interparliamentary Union, organized in 1889 by two pacifist-minded legislators from Britain and France, is composed of members of parliaments. It discusses political, economic social, cultural and international questions but has no legislative power.

Q: I have a recipe for a dessert that my mother gave me when I married. This dessert never fails to draw forth "ohs" and "ahs" from my guest whenever I serve it. The other evening one of the members of my bridge club asked me for the recipe. I refused to give it to her. I felt that if I gave it to her, I would have to give it to others who asked for it and it would then no longer be a specialty of my house. She was plainly miffed at my refusal and passed a remark about my being very picayunish about my recipe. Is it not improper for one to ask a hostess for a special recipe, and also is it not proper for her to refuse to give it?

A: Your friend was not wrong in asking if you would let her have your recipe, but she should have been prepared to have you answer "Oh, I'm sorry I can't give it to you. It's Leen a family secret for years."

Never Having Met His Mother

I have been going with a boy for the past six months. I have just learned that his mother is in the hospital for surgery. I have never met her. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to send her a few flowers or a get-well card while she is in the hospital.

A: To send flowers to anyone you don't know would be questionable, and when that person is the mother of a boy you have been going out with, it would be not only incorrect, but actually pushing.

Very Susceptible to Colds

Q: I am very susceptible to colds and therefore have to be very careful. When a friend comes to see me who has a cold and sits next to me, would I be considered rude to ask her not to sit next to me, or must I say nothing and catch her cold?

A: This is a difficult situation because it is very rude to show you do not want a friend to sit near you and yet, if you catch cold easily, you know that complacency will surely mean a cold for you. I think you just have to put your handkerchief over your nose and say "I'm sorry, but I catch cold so easily that I can't be polite about it."

Legion Oratorical Contest Date Set For March; Highland

John C. Miller, Ulster County Oratorical and Americanism chairman, announced that the finalists in the New York State Oratorical Contest sponsored by the American Legion will be held in Highland High School on March 17, 1962.

It was explained by Mr. Miller that this contest originates in the high schools across the country. Local winners compete in county contests, county winners meet in district contests and district winners compete in zone contests. In New York State, Mr. Miller stated, there are six zones, and the finalists in the six New York Zones meet in the New York State Contest. These six are the cream of several thousand peoples who started in the local contest.

Each speaker must deliver a 10-12 minute learned oration on some phase, application or structure of our National Constitution and an extemporaneous talk four to six minutes on a section or paragraph, or clause of the Constitution. The extemporaneous topic is picked at random from several areas designated by the National Oratorical Chairman of the American Legion.

The contest in Highland will be between the top six of the several thousand high school students who competed in New York State.

These oratims and extemporaneous talks are the result of a tremendous amount of research on the part of the contestants. They deal with our fundamental law—the Constitution.

Mr. Miller urges as many individuals as possible in Ulster County make an earnest effort to attend this contest in Highland on March 17.

Urge All States To Cease Tests

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP)—The Interparliamentary Union, grouping 530 members of parliaments representing more than 1.5 billion persons in 51 countries throughout the world, today urged all states to refrain from conducting nuclear weapons tests.

Delegates from the U.S.S.R., Bulgaria, Hungary, Poland, Romania and Czechoslovakia voted against the resolution, submitted jointly by the Japanese and Argentine groups. Libya abstained.

In a dramatic appeal in favor of the resolution, Shunichi Matsumoto, a native of Hiroshima, Wednesday had urged delegates to support it, saying "Japan was the first, and we hope the last, nation to experience the horrors of the atomic bomb."

The United States and South Viet Nam lost a fight to delete from a resolution a sentence urging a quick solution to the Red Chinese representation question in the United Nations.

The Interparliamentary Union, organized in 1889 by two pacifist-minded legislators from Britain and France, is composed of members of parliaments. It discusses political, economic social, cultural and international questions but has no legislative power.

Onteora Hosts Pawling in Grid Opener at Stadium Tonight

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ... by MURRAY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dan Reeves of Los Angeles is one of those enlightened owners who admits freely that the failure of the football Rams on the field in recent seasons can be traced to management . . . 'the ownership squabble which will be resolved this fall. . . . "There's been no one," he says, "empowered to make the decision when a quick one is needed, like on a trade . . . the general manager is caught between divided forces . . . it affects the players, who like to know they've got an effective management behind them."

Frank Lane, basking at Acapulco, has a Venezuela trip on to wrap up a business deal. . . .

The main trouble Sam Etcheverry, the Bouncing Basque, had in his National Football League debut quarterbacking the Cardinals was getting his signals heard . . . Sam is such a soft-spoken guy that even center Don Gillis had trouble catching the 31-year-old rookie's commands. . . . And for the pro coaches so hopped up about checking off (changing signals) at the line of scrimmage, Sam claimed he didn't bother to do it once against the New York Giants . . . Just anticipated their defense. . . .

Victories by horses at the Ocala Stud Farm are announced with a big clang on a Kentucky bell. . . .John Schapiro's father thought it would be a neat gimmick to salute Florida-breds and so wrangled the gong off the old battleship Kentucky. . . .

Bert Bell, Jr., in the front office of the Baltimore Colts, was musing how today's gridders gripe about practice fields being too hard or too soft, etc. . . . "I shut 'em up," he added. "I tell 'em how my dad took the Eagles to a game in Green Bay all the way by bus from Philadelphia . . . any time they passed a field and there was no cow in it, they'd stop and practice." . . .

Sam Snead, slated to play an exhibition benefit for cancer-stricken Ed (Porky) Oliver in Wilmington, Del., confessed, "Porky is the only guy I'd do this for." . . .

In Oxford Pa., they don't care if they never see one of baseball's big heroes . . . who was motoring through with a friend at the wheel en route to Washington and the car was stopped for . . . er-r-r . . . irregular driving. . . . the gendarmes politely suggested they put up at a local inn for the night, which they did . . . but when the lobby was full of gandering kids the next morning, our hero pushed through with stiff elbows, a torrent of profanity and threw the papers back at the autograph seekers incensed because the cops hadn't kept their visit a secret. . . .

Listen to this: eastern harness tracks are giving sulky drivers drunkometer tests . . .and one in New Jersey scratched 10 tipsy pilots on one card. . . .

In setting up the long pass that enabled the Dallas Cowboys to win their first game, little Eddie LeBaron, who has trouble seeing over the heads of big linemen, said to Bill Howton, "You go down the sideline. I'm going to throw it as far as I can." . . . When Howton trotted back to the huddle, Eddie said, "You must have made a helluva catch." . . . LeBaron never saw the play once the ball left his hands. . . .

Since Eddie Erdelatz was summarily let loose by the Oakland Raiders, we wonder now if he has any second thoughts about having turned down a job with the New York Giants a couple of years ago . . . to be the chief of personnel for the NFL club, same spot now held by Jim Lee Howell. . . .

The American Football League has bruised its brand with near-sighted rules that 1) prevent a club from reclaiming an injured player out on waivers (talent-starved Oakland blackballed it from the necessary unanimous vote) . . . so that Boston lost its grip on Jim Crawford, potentially its best runner but injured . . . and 2) keep the player limit at 33 (well-heeled Dallas ironically was the lone vote that kept this from being repealed). . . .

Between you'n'me, reports are spreading that the trade of one of those Los Angeles offensive stars was preceded by a fist-fight on the field with another hot shot . . . one of 'em had to go.

KHS, Sawyers Schedule Home Tilts Saturday

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Onteora Central will pry open the lid for the area schools tonight as the grid season comes into focus. The Indians will meet Pawling of Dutchess County in an 8 p. m. game at Dietz Stadium to set off a solid weekend of activity on the area's gridirons.

Kingston High School will be at home Saturday afternoon against Suffern, the Rockland County champion. Saugerties will put a seven game winning streak on the line against Red Hook at the Sawyers' field. Rondout Valley and New Paltz are on the road against Dover Plains and Millbrook respectively.

Wallkill will open at home against Minisink Valley while Highland starts the DCSL season with an engagement in East Park against Roosevelt Central.

The complete schedule:

TONIGHT

Pawling at Onteora.

SATURDAY

Suffern at Kingston.
Red Hook at Saugerties.
Rondout at Dover Plains.
Minisink at Wallkill.
Highland at Roosevelt.
Liberty at Pine Bush.
New Paltz at Millbrook.'

A brief picture of the key contests:

PAWLING AT ONTEORA—Coach Bob Ryan is rebuilding at the Boiceville school and this is a good opener. Pawling lost all eight of its games last year and doesn't figure to be that much improved. Onteora finished in a triple tie for first in the UCAL but most of that club has been graduated. The Indians will be playing all their home games at Dietz Stadium.

SUFFERN AT KINGSTON—No soft opener for the Maroon players, who will be hoping to bounce back after the first losing season under the coaching of Bill Burke. Kingston starts with a good defensive line but a lack of experienced hands in the backfield. Little is known about Suffern except for the fact it will be defending the Rockland County championship it won last year.

RED HOOK AT SAUGERTIES — Last year these clubs played to a 27-27 tie and that's the closest anyone came to beating the Sawyers. The game will mark the head coaching debut of Fred Seither and he has a handful of veterans and many newcomers ready to play. The Hookers have met SHS twice and both games have ended in ties.

Rondout is pinning its hopes on a few veterans and a good defensive line. Of course, any club coached by Chick Meehan has to be rated a good one. Dover Plains plays in the Harlem Valley section of the Dutchess County league and should give the Ganders a good scrap.

New Paltz figures to enjoy itself at Millbrook. Coach Bill Russell has an explosive backfield and the Huguenots stack up as solid UCAL contenders. Liberty and Pine Bush are newcomers to the UCAL but the Bushmen are not counted in the standings until next season. Wallkill had a championship basketball club but little is known about the gridiron eleven.

Highland had its DCSL streak snapped last year by Saugerties and Bob Relyea's boys hope to snap back against Roosevelt. The Presidents are still rebuilding and figure to be a couple of seasons away from serious pennant contention.

For those who like to pick the winners, Major Hoople supplies the answers in his column each week.

BOWLING SCORES

John Ferraro led the town with a 636 blast on games of 215, 208, 213. Larry Petersen was runnerup in the same wheel with 236-223-170 for 631.

Bob McCaffery, IBM Otsego	...	253	...	611
Harry Olson, IBM Nat	202	239	163	604
Buster Ferraro, Classic	156	231	215	602
Ralph Longendyke, Classic	182	211	208	601
Ed Smedes, Hercules	190	199	211	600

BOB SHELIGHTNER led the 500 division in the Invitational Classic with 212-597. Peace Restored In AFL Fracas

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo Bills Coach Buster Ramsey said Thursday he had "received a very nice letter" from American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss concerning last Sunday's fracas with the New York Titans.

But the Buffalo coach, who was accused by Titan owner Harry Wismer of "slugging" quarterback Al Dorow during the third-quarter sideline brawl, declined to say what Foss letter said.

Down to 4 For Reds

The Cincinnati Reds, their first National League pennant in 21 years almost within grasp, take on the San Francisco Giants tonight at Crosley Field while their fading rivals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, journey to St. Louis to do battle with the Cardinals.

The key number is four. Any combination of Cincinnati victories or Los Angeles defeats making four assures the pennant to the Redlegs for the first time since 1940.

Cincinnati has Bob Purkey (16-11) ready to send against San Francisco's Billy O'Dell (5-5). The honor of being chosen to oppose the New York Yankees in the World Series might be finalized this weekend.

Certainly the schedule favors the Reds. They play San Francisco again Saturday and then go on the road for their four last games—at Chicago Sept. 26, and at Pittsburgh Sept. 29 and 30, and Oct. 1.

The Dodgers will be on the road from now to the end of the season and have a much busier time of it. Two more games after tonight will be played at St. Louis and then the Pirates will be met at Pittsburgh Sept. 25 and 26, the Phillies at Philadelphia Sept. 27 and 28, and the Cubs at Chicago Sept. 30, and Oct. 1.

The Yankees, out scouting the Redlegs in force, are now reconciled to playing Cincinnati. They would have preferred the Dodgers. The reason, of course, is that the Coliseum in Los Angeles holds 92,000 for a baseball game and Crosley Field a bare 30,000. This makes a big difference in the players' share of the series receipts.

There were no games scheduled in the National League Thursday.

In the American League, Roger Maris was unable to add to his 59-homer total, going hitless in four trips as the champion New York Yankees were beaten 5-3 by Baltimore. Minnesota defeated Washington 6-3 in the only other game scheduled.

More Passes in Syracuse Plans

The Orange, ranked No. 10 in the Associated Press pre-season poll, opens its 1961 football season tomorrow against Oregon State at Portland. Syracuse is favored to win.

The feather in Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's cap is Ernie Davis, 210 pounds of speed, who was the third leading groundgainer in the country last year. Syracuse racked up a 7-2 record.

But Davis' talent might put the ball game in the air. "We expect to see the opposition load up defenses to try and stop Ernie," Schwartzwalder said. "We feel we have to throw more than we did last year."

Dave Sarette, returning after a so-so season last year, will be handling the passing chores at quarterback for Syracuse.

Oregon State likes the air too. Beaver quarterback Terry Baker is an accurate southpaw who set a team offensive record of 1,473 yards as a sophomore last year, 863 on passes and 610 on the ground.

Buffalo Just One Game Away

The Herd smashed the Rochester Red Wings here Thursday night, 17-6, and now are a victory shy of winning the best-of-seven league playoff finals. The win was Buffalo's third in a row over Rochester. The Wings won the opener of the series. The two teams meet here again tonight.

Tony Curry, with a homer, four other hits and six runs batted in, led the surging Bisons, who got rid of Red Wing starter and loser Herb Moford after only an inning and two thirds. The Herd collected 23 hits in all.

Buffalo scored 11 runs in the first three innings, with one in the first, four in the second and six in the third. The Herd added single runs in the fifth and sixth innings, and two runs in each of the seventh and eighth.

If the Bisons win here tonight, they will host the start of the Junior World Series Sunday, against Louisville, American Association playoff winner. Lefty Paul Brown will pitch for Buffalo tonight against Rochester's right hander John Anderson.

Yesterday's Stars

Pitching—Jack Fisher, Orioles, limited Yankees to three hits in 5-3 victory over American League champions.

Hitting—Russ Snyder, Orioles, went 4-for-4, including two-run homer that snapped 1-1 tie in seventh inning, also scored twice in victory over Yankees.

Henry T. Adios Wins Little Jug

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — A pacer with a bigger than usual heart and a smaller than usual driver reigned today as winner of the 16th annual $70,000 Little Brown Jug for 3-year-old sidewheelers.

Henry T. Adios, a bay colt, snatched the four-heat feature Thursday from a field of 19, biggest in its history, and boosted his two-year payroll to $125,583.44 with a $21,721 payoff.

With the cash carved into five pieces in each of three heats, and a single slice for the fourth, the victor's share was the fourth smallest ever paid in the classic event over Delaware County Fairground's half-mile oval.

BETWEEN YOU 'N' ME ... by MURRAY

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Dan Reeves of Los Angeles is one of those enlightened owners who admits freely that the failure of the football Rams on the field in recent seasons can be traced to management . . . 'the ownership squabble which will be resolved this fall. . . . "There's been no one," he says, "empowered to make the decision when a quick one is needed, like on a trade . . . the general manager is caught between divided forces . . . it affects the players, who like to know they've got an effective management behind them."

Frank Lane, basking at Acapulco, has a Venezuela trip on to wrap up a business deal. . . .

The main trouble Sam Etcheverry, the Bouncing Basque, had in his National Football League debut quarterbacking the Cardinals was getting his signals heard . . . Sam is such a soft-spoken guy that even center Don Gillis had trouble catching the 31-year-old rookie's commands. . . . And for the pro coaches so hopped up about checking off (changing signals) at the line of scrimmage, Sam claimed he didn't bother to do it once against the New York Giants . . . Just anticipated their defense. . . .

Victories by horses at the Ocala Stud Farm are announced with a big clang on a Kentucky bell. . . . John Schapiro's father thought it would be a neat gimmick to salute Florida-breds and so wrangled the gong off the old battleship Kentucky. . . .

Bert Bell, Jr., in the front office of the Baltimore Colts, was musing how today's gridders gripe about practice fields being too hard or too soft, etc. . . . "I shut 'em up," he added. "I tell 'em how my dad took the Eagles to a game in Green Bay all the way by bus from Philadelphia . . . any time they passed a field and there was no cow in it, they'd stop and practice." . . .

Sam Snead, slated to play an exhibition benefit for cancer-stricken Ed (Porky) Oliver in Wilmington, Del., confessed, "Porky is the only guy I'd do this for." . . .

In Oxford Pa., they don't care if they never see one of baseball's big heroes . . . who was motoring through with a friend at the wheel en route to Washington and the car was stopped for . . . er-r-r . . . irregular driving. . . . the gendarmes politely suggested they put up at a local inn for the night, which they did . . . but when the lobby was full of gandering kids the next morning, our hero pushed through with stiff elbows, a torrent of profanity and threw the papers back at the autograph seekers incensed because the cops hadn't kept their visit a secret. . . .

Listen to this: eastern harness tracks are giving sulky drivers drunkometer tests . . .and one in New Jersey scratched 10 tipsy pilots on one card. . . .

In setting up the long pass that enabled the Dallas Cowboys to win their first game, little Eddie LeBaron, who has trouble seeing over the heads of big linemen, said to Bill Howton, "You go down the sideline. I'm going to throw it as far as I can." . . . When Howton trotted back to the huddle, Eddie said, "You must have made a helluva catch." . . . LeBaron never saw the play once the ball left his hands. . . .

Since Eddie Erdelatz was summarily let loose by the Oakland Raiders, we wonder now if he has any second thoughts about having turned down a job with the New York Giants a couple of years ago . . . to be the chief of personnel for the NFL club, same spot now held by Jim Lee Howell. . . .

The American Football League has bruised its brand with near-sighted rules that 1) prevent a club from reclaiming an injured player out on waivers (talent-starved Oakland blackballed it from the necessary unanimous vote) . . . so that Boston lost its grip on Jim Crawford, potentially its best runner but injured . . . and 2) keep the player limit at 33 (well-heeled Dallas ironically was the lone vote that kept this from being repealed). . . .

Between you'n'me, reports are spreading that the trade of one of those Los Angeles offensive stars was preceded by a fist-fight on the field with another hot shot . . . one of 'em had to go.

KHS, Sawyers Schedule Home Tilts Saturday

By ED PALLADINO
Freeman Sports Staff

Onteora Central will pry open the lid for the area schools tonight as the grid season comes into focus. The Indians will meet Pawling of Dutchess County in an 8 p. m. game at Dietz Stadium to set off a solid weekend of activity on the area's gridirons.

Kingston High School will be at home Saturday afternoon against Suffern, the Rockland County champion. Saugerties will put a seven game winning streak on the line against Red Hook at the Sawyers' field. Rondout Valley and New Paltz are on the road against Dover Plains and Millbrook respectively.

Wallkill will open at home against Minisink Valley while Highland starts the DCSL season with an engagement in East Park against Roosevelt Central.

The complete schedule:

TONIGHT

Pawling at Onteora.

SATURDAY

Suffern at Kingston.
Red Hook at Saugerties.
Rondout at Dover Plains.
Minisink at Wallkill.
Highland at Roosevelt.
Liberty at Pine Bush.
New Paltz at Millbrook.'

A brief picture of the key contests:

PAWLING AT ONTEORA—Coach Bob Ryan is rebuilding at the Boiceville school and this is a good opener. Pawling lost all eight of its games last year and doesn't figure to be that much improved. Onteora finished in a triple tie for first in the UCAL but most of that club has been graduated. The Indians will be playing all their home games at Dietz Stadium.

SUFFERN AT KINGSTON—No soft opener for the Maroon players, who will be hoping to bounce back after the first losing season under the coaching of Bill Burke. Kingston starts with a good defensive line but a lack of experienced hands in the backfield. Little is known about Suffern except for the fact it will be defending the Rockland County championship it won last year.

RED HOOK AT SAUGERTIES — Last year these clubs played to a 27-27 tie and that's the closest anyone came to beating the Sawyers. The game will mark the head coaching debut of Fred Seither and he has a handful of veterans and many newcomers ready to play. The Hookers have met SHS twice and both games have ended in ties.

Rondout is pinning its hopes on a few veterans and a good defensive line. Of course, any club coached by Chick Meehan has to be rated a good one. Dover Plains plays in the Harlem Valley section of the Dutchess County league and should give the Ganders a good scrap.

New Paltz figures to enjoy itself at Millbrook. Coach Bill Russell has an explosive backfield and the Huguenots stack up as solid UCAL contenders. Liberty and Pine Bush are newcomers to the UCAL but the Bushmen are not counted in the standings until next season. Wallkill had a championship basketball club but little is known about the gridiron eleven.

Highland had its DCSL streak snapped last year by Saugerties and Bob Relyea's boys hope to snap back against Roosevelt. The Presidents are still rebuilding and figure to be a couple of seasons away from serious pennant contention.

For those who like to pick the winners, Major Hoople supplies the answers in his column each week.

Buffalo Just One Game Away

The Herd smashed the Rochester Red Wings here Thursday night, 17-6, and now are a victory shy of winning the best-of-seven league playoff finals. The win was Buffalo's third in a row over Rochester. The Wings won the opener of the series. The two teams meet here again tonight.

Tony Curry, with a homer, four other hits and six runs batted in, led the surging Bisons, who got rid of Red Wing starter and loser Herb Moford after only an inning and two thirds. The Herd collected 23 hits in all.

Buffalo scored 11 runs in the first three innings, with one in the first, four in the second and six in the third. The Herd added single runs in the fifth and sixth innings, and two runs in each of the seventh and eighth.

If the Bisons win here tonight, they will host the start of the Junior World Series Sunday, against Louisville, American Association playoff winner. Lefty Paul Brown will pitch for Buffalo tonight against Rochester's right hander John Anderson.

Pitching—Jack Fisher, Orioles, limited Yankees to three hits in 5-3 victory over American League champions.

Hitting—Russ Snyder, Orioles, went 4-for-4, including two-run homer that snapped 1-1 tie in seventh inning, also scored twice in victory over Yankees.

Henry T. Adios Wins Little Jug

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP) — A pacer with a bigger than usual heart and a smaller than usual driver reigned today as winner of the 16th annual $70,000 Little Brown Jug for 3-year-old side-wheelers.

Henry T. Adios, a bay colt, snatched the four-heat feature Thursday from a field of 19, biggest in its history, and boosted his two-year payroll to $125,583.44 with a $21,721 payoff.

With the cash carved into five pieces in each of three heats, and a single slice for the fourth, the victor's share was the fourth smallest ever paid in the classic event over Delaware County Fairground's half-mile oval.

The first five came from each of the first two heats for a run-off and Henry T. romped home in 1:58 4-5.

Peace Restored In AFL Fracas

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP)—Buffalo Bills Coach Buster Ramsey said Thursday he had "received a very nice letter" from American Football League Commissioner Joe Foss concerning last Sunday's fracas with the New York Titans.

But the Buffalo coach, who was accused by Titan owner Harry Wismer of "slugging" quarterback Al Dorow during the third-quarter sideline brawl, declined to say what Foss letter said.

"Let Wismer wonder what was in it," a smiling Ramsey said. Wismer had demanded that Ramsey be banned from the league; Ramsey denied hitting anybody.

Down to 4 For Reds

The Cincinnati Reds, their first National League pennant in 21 years almost within grasp, take on the San Francisco Giants tonight at Crosley Field while their fading rivals, the Los Angeles Dodgers, journey to St. Louis to do battle with the Cardinals.

The key number is four. Any combination of Cincinnati victories or Los Angeles defeats making four assures the pennant to the Redlegs for the first time since 1940.

Cincinnati has Bob Purkey (16-11) ready to send against San Francisco's Billy O'Dell (5-5). The honor of being chosen to oppose the New York Yankees in the World Series might be finalized this weekend.

Certainly the schedule favors the Reds. They play San Francisco again Saturday and then go on the road for their four last games—at Chicago Sept. 26, and at Pittsburgh Sept. 29 and 30, and Oct. 1.

The Dodgers will be on the road from now to the end of the season and have a much busier time of it. Two more games after tonight will be played at St. Louis and then the Pirates will be met at Pittsburgh Sept. 25 and 26, the Phillies at Philadelphia Sept. 27 and 28, and the Cubs at Chicago Sept. 30, and Oct. 1.

The Yankees, out scouting the Redlegs in force, are now reconciled to playing Cincinnati. They would have preferred the Dodgers. The reason, of course, is that the Coliseum in Los Angeles holds 92,000 for a baseball game and Crosley Field a bare 30,000. This makes a big difference in the players' share of the series receipts.

There were no games scheduled in the National League Thursday.

In the American League, Roger Maris was unable to add to his 59-homer total, going hitless in four trips as the champion New York Yankees were beaten 5-3 by Baltimore. Minnesota defeated Washington 6-3 in the only other game scheduled.

More Passes in Syracuse Plans

The Orange, ranked No. 10 in the Associated Press pre-season poll, opens its 1961 football season tomorrow against Oregon State at Portland. Syracuse is favored to win.

The feather in Coach Ben Schwartzwalder's cap is Ernie Davis, 210 pounds of speed, who was the third leading ground-gainer in the country last year. Syracuse racked up a 7-2 record.

But Davis' talent might put the ball game in the air. "We expect to see the opposition load up defenses to try and stop Ernie," Schwartzwalder said. "We feel we have to throw more than we did last year."

Dave Sarette, returning after a so-so season last year, will be handling the passing chores at quarterback for Syracuse.

Oregon State likes the air too. Beaver quarterback Terry Baker is an accurate southpaw who set a team offensive record of 1,473 yards as a sophomore last year, 863 on passes and 610 on the ground.

The Beavers had a 6-3-1 season last year.

Unbeaten Sport Club Booters Oppose Schenectady Sunday

The word is spreading throughout the Central New York State Soccer Association that Kingston Sport Club is the team to beat in the 1961 pennant scramble.

The feeling may be further bolstered Sunday, when the locals take on the Schenectady Sons of Italy at 2:30 p. m. at Hasbrouck Park.

Kingston finished strongly in the league a year ago and the momentum has carried over into the 1962 campaign which already shows two straight wins. One of these came against the powerful defending champions, Troy Sports Club.

Although Schenectady is among the teams with two losses, they have always been rough on Kingston. It will be a major effort for the locals to notch their third straight and a rousing battle is expected at the old downtown baseball orchard.

In Good Shape

The Sport Club booters are in excellent spirits and physical condition. The pennant fever is developing and the all round strength of the team will be increased considerably when Reiner Schwebel, the star of the team, completes some immigration technicalities in Canada before returning to the lineup.

Manager Bob Graves, who has done an expert job of deploying the Sport Club personnel, plans to start the same lineup that has reeled off two straight wins.

Egad! It's that time again! Harumph!

Yes, dear readers, it's once again time for your favorite correspondent to extend his greetings and to assure you he is back at the old stand to forecast the results of the top scholastic and collegiate games. This gives promise of being a banner year for the Hoople System and I am just itching to plunge into the wars.

Due to the great demands upon my time I have augmented my staff this year with the addition of Hannibal Wottaburp. He will work with my long-time assistant, Dr. I. M. Inorbit, who is on leave from Cape Canaveral. It will take several weeks for Hannibal to assimilate the finer points of the Hoople system, but we will hear plenty from him.

After an exhaustive study of notes compiled by Dr. Inorbit during his sojourn in Florida, I have some good news for the faithful followers of Kingston, Saugerties, Onteora, Rondout Valley and New Paltz. Your teams will win their opening games even though some of them may have to call for hidden reserves to come out on top.

Here's another grade A prediction. Onteora will play the first high school game of the season in Ulster County. Why? Because the team is slated for Friday night at Dietz Stadium. How about that?

Anyway, enough of this chitter-chatter. Go on with the forecast, given only as the Hoople himself can do it. Harumph!!

Rog Fails In 4 Tries

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris, one homer shy of matching Babe Ruth's record 60-homer total of 1927, failed to get No. 60 Thursday night in four tries as the American League champion New York Yankees lost to the Baltimore Orioles 5-3.

That left Maris, who no longer can officially tie the Bambino's mark under the 154-decision limit set by Commissioner Ford Frick, with seven games in which to match or surpass the Babe on the AL's expanded 162-game program.

The Yankees, idle today, move into Boston next for a two-game set Saturday and Sunday, then return home for a pair with the Orioles and a windup three-game series with the Red Sox.

"I intend to play every game the rest of the season," insists Maris, who hit No. 59 at Baltimore Wednesday night and became the first player in major league history to come that close to Ruth's record.

He didn't get anywhere with Jack Fisher who brought his record to 10-12 with a three-hitter.

Fisher kept the Yanks—using mostly reserves—away from the plate except in the sixth when they came up with two unearned tallies as Bob Hale reached base on an error and Tony Kubek hit a two-out, pinch-hit homer.

The Orioles had snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh with a four-run uprising against Bill Stafford (13-8).

In the only other AL game scheduled, Minnesota beat Washington 6-3 with an 11-hit attack featuring a triple by Harmon Killebrew and doubles by Bob Allison and Joe Altobelli. Jack Kralick (13-10) won it with Bennie Daniels (10-11) getting the loss.

There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Glenerie Club Bridge Results

Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft and Dr. John Comstock of Kingston posted an excellent 68 per cent game to take first place in the Fractional point bridge tournament sponsored by the Glenerie Bridge Club.

Al Tirsch and I. H. Wheatcroft of Kingston placed second with 51 per cent: There was a three-way tie for third place at 48 per cent among the teams of: Harry Thayer, Kingston and Dr. Paul Perlman, Woodstock; Charles Hobbs-Earl Hohnell, Poughkeepsie; Roy Wulff-Carl Kunz, Kingston.

Shortstop Lee Elia Is Signed by Bisons

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons of the International League have acquired shortstop Lee Elia, who played for Chattanooga of the Southern Association this year.

Sports TV Bill Is Before JFK

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to permit professional sports leagues to sign exclusive contracts with networks for telecasting of games between member teams awaits President Kennedy's signature.

Specifically, the measure passed by a voice vote in the Senate Thursday night is aimed at providing relief for the National Football League. It also applies to the American Football League and professional baseball, basketball and hockey. The House had passed the bill Monday.

Effects of the new measure, won't be felt until the 1962 season, since all TV arrangements have been completed for this year.

Fish Feeders

SANTA FE, N. M. (NEA) — With vending machines being used to dispense chewing gum, cosmetics, hot dogs, books and practically everything else, it is hard to see how a new use could be figured out for them. Yet the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish has done it. Nickel and penny machines have been installed at the Red River and Lisboa Springs fish hatcheries. They dispense pellet-type fish food, which the customers toss to trout in the ponds. Just like feeding peanuts to the elephants in the zoo.

Harris, Rohan, Don Every In Onteora Field on Sunday

With Arlington and Rhinebeck speedways closed for the season, a horde of new cars are expected to converge on Onteora Speedway Park in Olive Bridge Sunday. But the old pros will still be the ones to beat.

D. D. (Rebel) Harris of Poughkeepsie, an 11-time winner this season, returns to action after missing last Sunday's card because of a mishap incurred the night before at Lebanon Valley. Rohan, last Sunday's winner, and Avery, a potential htreat every time he starts, are ready for the test. First race is scheduled at 2:30 p. m.

Rosi-Donnelly Bout at Boston

Boston Garden is the site of the scheduled 10-rounder.

Donnelly, 22, edged Italian-born Rosi, the veteran 26-year-old video campaigner, in a split decision July 8 in Buffalo.

Promoter Sam Silverman has offered lightweight king Joe Brown $50,000 to defend his crown against the winner of this fight in Boston at the end of the year. Brown stopped Rosi on cuts two years ago.

Ohio ranks fifth among states of the Union in production of oats.

At Hasbrouck Park

Unbeaten Sport Club Booters Oppose Schenectady Sunday

The word is spreading throughout the Central New York State Soccer Association that Kingston Sport Club is the team to beat in the 1961 pennant scramble.

The feeling may be further bolstered Sunday, when the locals take on the Schenectady Sons of Italy at 2:30 p. m. at Hasbrouck Park.

Kingston finished strongly in the league a year ago and the momentum has carried over into the 1962 campaign which already shows two straight wins. One of these came against the powerful defending champions, Troy Sports Club.

Although Schenectady is among the teams with two losses, they have always been rough on Kingston. It will be a major effort for the locals to notch their third straight and a rousing battle is expected at the old downtown baseball orchard.

In Good Shape

The Sport Club booters are in excellent spirits and physical condition. The pennant fever is developing and the all round strength of the team will be increased considerably when Reiner Schwebel, the star of the team, completes some immigration technicalities in Canada before returning to the lineup.

Manager Bob Graves, who has done an expert job of deploying the Sport Club personnel, plans to start the same lineup that has reeled off two straight wins.

Hoople's Back

Pigskin Prophet Tabs Local Schools to Win

By MAJOR AMOS B. HOOPLE
Peerless Pigskin Prophet

Egad! It's that time again! Harumph!

Yes, dear readers, it's once again time for your favorite correspondent to extend his greetings and to assure you he is back at the old stand to forecast the results of the top scholastic and collegiate games. This gives promise of being a banner year for the Hoople System and I am just itching to plunge into the wars.

Due to the great demands upon my time I have augmented my staff this year with the addition of Hannibal Wottaburp. He will work with my long-time assistant, Dr. I. M. Inorbit, who is on leave from Cape Canaveral. It will take several weeks for Hannibal to assimilate the finer points of the Hoople system, but we will hear plenty from him.

After an exhaustive study of notes compiled by Dr. Inorbit during his sojourn in Florida, I have some good news for the faithful followers of Kingston, Saugerties, Onteora, Rondout Valley and New Paltz. Your teams will win their opening games even though some of them may have to call for hidden reserves to come out on top.

Here's another grade A prediction. Onteora will play the first high school game of the season in Ulster County. Why? Because the team is slated for Friday night at Dietz Stadium. How about that?

Anyway, enough of this chitter-chatter. Go on with the forecast, given only as the Hoople himself can do it. Harumph!!

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer

Roger Maris, one homer shy of matching Babe Ruth's record 60-homer total of 1927, failed to get No. 60 Thursday night in four tries as the American League champion New York Yankees lost to the Baltimore Orioles 5-3.

That left Maris, who no longer can officially tie the Bambino's mark under the 154-decision limit set by Commissioner Ford Frick, with seven games in which to match or surpass the Babe on the AL's expanded 162-game program.

The Yankees, idle today, move into Boston next for a two-game set Saturday and Sunday, then return home for a pair with the Orioles and a windup three-game series with the Red Sox.

"I intend to play every game the rest of the season," insists Maris, who hit No. 59 at Baltimore Wednesday night and became the first player in major league history to come that close to Ruth's record.

He didn't get anywhere with Jack Fisher who brought his record to 10-12 with a three-hitter.

Fisher kept the Yanks—using mostly reserves—away from the plate except in the sixth when they came up with two unearned tallies as Bob Hale reached base on an error and Tony Kubek hit a two-out, pinch-hit homer.

The Orioles had snapped a 1-1 tie in the seventh with a four-run uprising against Bill Stafford (13-8).

In the only other AL game scheduled, Minnesota beat Washington 6-3 with an 11-hit attack featuring a triple by Harmon Killebrew and doubles by Bob Allison and Joe Altobelli. Jack Kralick (13-10) won it with Bennie Daniels (10-11) getting the loss.

There were no games scheduled in the National League.

Glenerie Club Bridge Results

Mrs. I. H. Wheatcroft and Dr. John Comstock of Kingston posted an excellent 68 per cent game to take first place in the Fractional point bridge tournament sponsored by the Glenerie Bridge Club.

Al Tirsch and I. H. Wheatcroft of Kingston placed second with 51 per cent: There was a three-way tie for third place at 48 per cent among the teams of: Harry Thayer, Kingston and Dr. Paul Perlman, Woodstock; Charles Hobbs-Earl Hohnell, Poughkeepsie; Roy Wulff-Carl Kunz, Kingston.

Shortstop Lee Elia Is Signed by Bisons

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP)—The Buffalo Bisons of the International League have acquired shortstop Lee Elia, who played for Chattanooga of the Southern Association this year.

Strain Caused Roger Maris To Lose Some of His Hair

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)— The strain on Roger Maris in his nearly successful assault on Babe Ruth's home run record in 154 decisions was so gruelling, it caused hair to fall out of his head, the New York slugger revealed today.

Finally breaking down after having minimized all along the mounting pressure as he gallantly strove to equal or beat baseball's most celebrated record, he disclosed his visit to a Baltimore doctor Thursday when he became alarmed by the loss of tufts of hair in back and on the sides of his head.

"I was afraid it was some kind of disease," he said, "but the doctor assured me it was nothing of the sort. He said it was just a case of nerves, caused by strain and tension. He told me it must have been building up for some time and said I'd probably have some bald spots but the hair would eventually grow back again."

Started in July

Pressure began back in July when it became evident that the 27-year-old outfielder had a real shot at Ruth's record. It mounted steadily with each home run and reached agonizing proportions in the final days.

Despite the pressure, Maris hit his 59th home run Wednesday night against Baltimore, in his last game in which to comply with Commissioner Ford Frick's 154-game edict.

The strain undoubtedly eased considerably Thursday night but Roger was unable to add to his home run total as Baltimore's Jack Fisher held him without a hit in four times at bat. The Orioles won 5-3 in the Yankees' final appearance of the season at Baltimore.

Maris now has seven games left, two here and five in New York, in which to hit the two home runs he needs to top Ruth's 60 in 1927.

"I'm still out there trying," he said, "but somehow the feeling is different, knowing you don't have to push for anything."

Poor Fishing In Catskills

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Weekend fishing conditions in New York State as reported by the State Conservation Department yesterday.

Adirondacks — Stream levels very good; excellent fishing conditions. No flies or mosquitoes. Very few fishermen, however, are taking advantage of the ideal conditions.

Mohawk-Hudson Area — Stream levels very low, especially in Albany, Columbia, Greene and Rensselaer counties. However, bass, pickerel and walleye fishing is beginning to improve.

Catskills — Poor fishing, with low stream levels. Heavy rains resulting from Hurricane Esther should improve fishing prospects by the weekend. Trout fishing good in some of the larger streams, such as the East Branch of the Delaware.

Central and Western New York — Trout fishing good in Keuka, Seneca and Canandaigua lakes. Stream fishing poor because of low levels and warm water. Bass fishing good in ponds, lakes and larger bass streams; fair along Lake Ontario. In Chautauqua Lake, fishing still good for bass and muskies. Live bait getting best results.

Argentinian Is First to Swim Channel 2 Ways

DOVER, England (AP) — Antonio Abertondo slumped into an easy chair today after becoming the first man to swim the English Channel both ways nonstop and said:

"I think the total swim must have been nearer 100 miles."

The 42-year-old Argentinian made channel history by swimming from England to France and back again in 43 hours, 5 minutes.

The 5-4 210-pound swimmer battled the cold waters and changing tides of the 22-mile stretch of the channel without complaint.

Soon after stepping ashore at Hope Point—between St. Margaret's Bay and Kingsdown on the English south coast — Abertondo broke into tears as a handful of holidaymakers and reporters sent up a cheer.

"I felt certain I could swim the channel both ways without a stop after I completed 80 hours in the water in the Rosario-Buenos Aires swim," Abertondo said as he relaxed in his hotel.

"I have been swimming long distances for many years and I felt sure that this was what I could do."

The Argentinian started the swim early Wednesday morning from Shakespeare Cliff near Dover. It was raining hard and the seas were choppy. The channel stayed choppy for four or five hours and then calmed down.

Abertondo was swept several miles up and down the channel by the flood and ebb tides. I took him 18 hours, 50 minutes to reach France.

He had a brief stop on the French coast—about two or three minutes—and then set off back, once again bucking the tides.

Altogether, 107 swimmers have swum the channel since Capt. Matthew Webb of England first did it in 1875 in 21 hours 43 minutes.

But only Abertondo has made it both ways nonstop.

Georgia Tech Southern Cal Set on Coast

By JACK CLARY
Associated Press Sports Writer

Georgia Tech and Southern California, accorded at most the accolade "could surprise", start the weekend's college football activity tonight in that old baseball park, the Los Angeles Coliseum.

Whether Georgia Tech will feel that 60 minutes is too long depends on how far junior quarterback Stan Gann has come after a so-so sophomore season that torpedoed his big buildup.

The Trojans, uncertain in the line after losing the McKeever brothers, Mike and Marlin, and gigantic tackle Dan Ficca, have a bevy of halfbacks that present an improved running game. But their passing offense is still untested.

Elsewhere tonight, Detroit opens its season against Western Michigan, University of the Pacific plays speedy San Jose State, a winner last week against Brigham Young, Louisville meets Eastern Kentucky and Chattanooga plays Tennessee Teh.

There is a strong intersectional flavor on Saturday's card as the season begins to pick up steam. However, Iowa and Ohio State, ranked 1-2 in The Associated Press' pre-season poll won't begin until next weekend, nor will Michigan State (No. 6), another Big Ten power.

Third-ranked Alabama will see how strong its souped-up offense is against Georgia, Texas, ranked fourth and a co-favorite with Rice's Owls for the Southwest crown, are on the West Coast against weak California.

The Owls have their work cut out for them against defensive giant Louisiana State (No. 5), in a night game.

The East's top game pits seventh-ranked Penn State against Navy, which is minus its All-America Joe Bellino, and has only two starters back from its Orange Bowl team. Syracuse, (No. 10) another eastern power pits All-America back Ernie Davis against Oregon State and its great performer, Terry Baker, on the West Coast.

The day's television game is the opener of a day-night "doubleheader" in Jackson, Miss. There, Mississippi, last year's SEC titlist, plays the 1960 SWC winner, Arkansas (ABC-TV, 3:15 p. m. Eastern Standard Time) while at night Texas Tech meets Mississippi State.

McNeeley Gets Shot at Floyd But Just Where?

By BOB HOOBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Floyd Patterson has agreed to give young Tom McNeeley a shot at his world heavyweight crown before the end of 1961—but where?

The once-certain Boston setting suddenly became remote Thursday when the Massachusetts Boxing Commission refused approval of the contracts which specify the referee be a nonstate resident.

After the three-hour deadlock on the issue of officials, Patterson officially signed for his sixth title defense against the unbeaten and relatively unknown Arlington, Mass., campaigner.

The 15-round bout had been tentatively set for Nov. 13 at Boston Garden until the apparent impasse developed. Cus D'Amato, Patterson's manager, insisted on a non-Massachusetts referee. Commission Chairman Herman Greenberg replied that his group has sole legal jurisdiction over who the officials will be.

"Floyd Patterson will fight McNeeley before the end of the year," announced Tom Bolan, head of the promoting Championship Sports Inc. "If it's not in Boston, it will have to be somewhere else."

The contracts will be resubmitted with some revisions. The commission will pass judgment within a few days upon these revisions. No one would say what they might entail.

Greenberg said: "The way the contract reads the Massachusetts commission has nothing to say about the officials."

McNeeley, 10th-ranked challenger according to Ring magazine, has a 23-0 record and a rematch committment should he win the fight.

UAW Seeks Quick End of Disputes

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union today called in officers and shop committeemen from 24 local unions in an effort to bring quick settlement of at-the-plant, strike-provoking differences and get the world's No. 1 automaker back into high-gear production.

Fuel was added to the fire which UAW international officers are building under reluctant local union leaders when GM and the International Union of Electrical Workers reached final agreement, local and national, on a new three year contract early today.

The IUE-GM agreement killed off the one local-level strike at the six IUE-represented factories. It was at Packard Electric in Warren, Ohio. In all, the IUE represents some 25,000 GM production workers, about 4,500 of them employed in Warren.

The UAW, which represents approximately 325,000 hourly-rated GM workers, has reached national agreement on both economic and noneconomic issues in a new three-year contract. Local unions in all but 24 of 123 factories represented by the UAW also have reached accord on new at-the-plant working agreements, which supplement the national contract.

Strain Caused Roger Maris To Lose Some of His Hair

By JOE REICHLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP)— The strain on Roger Maris in his nearly successful assault on Babe Ruth's home run record in 154 decisions was so gruelling, it caused hair to fall out of his head, the New York slugger revealed today.

Finally breaking down after having minimized all along the mounting pressure as he gallantly strove to equal or beat baseball's most celebrated record, he disclosed his visit to a Baltimore doctor Thursday when he became alarmed by the loss of tufts of hair in back and on the sides of his head.

"I was afraid it was some kind of disease," he said, "but the doctor assured me it was nothing of the sort. He said it was just a case of nerves, caused by strain and tension. He told me it must have been building up for some time and said I'd probably have some bald spots but the hair would eventually grow back again."

Started in July

Pressure began back in July when it became evident that the 27-year-old outfielder had a real shot at Ruth's record. It mounted steadily with each home run and reached agonizing proportions in the final days.

Despite the pressure, Maris hit his 59th home run Wednesday night against Baltimore, in his last game in which to comply with Commissioner Ford Frick's 154-game edict.

The strain undoubtedly eased considerably Thursday night but Roger was unable to add to his home run total as Baltimore's Jack Fisher held him without a hit in four times at bat. The Orioles won 5-3 in the Yankees' final appearance of the season at Baltimore.

Maris now has seven games left, two here and five in New York, in which to hit the two home runs he needs to top Ruth's 60 in 1927.

"I'm still out there trying," he said, "but somehow the feeling is different, knowing you don't have to push for anything."

UAW Seeks Quick End of Disputes

DETROIT (AP) — The United Auto Workers Union today called in officers and shop committeemen from 24 local unions in an effort to bring quick settlement of at-the-plant, strike-provoking differences and get the world's No. 1 automaker back into high-gear production.

Fuel was added to the fire which UAW international officers are building under reluctant local union leaders when GM and the International Union of Electrical Workers reached final agreement, local and national, on a new three year contract early today.

The IUE-GM agreement killed off the one local-level strike at the six IUE-represented factories. It was at Packard Electric in Warren, Ohio. In all, the IUE represents some 25,000 GM production workers, about 4,500 of them employed in Warren.

The UAW, which represents approximately 325,000 hourly-rated GM workers, has reached national agreement on both economic and noneconomic issues in a new three-year contract. Local unions in all but 24 of 123 factories represented by the UAW also have reached accord on new at-the-plant working agreements, which supplement the national contract.

Awarded Medal

Army Specialist Five Richard O. Hale, son of George C. Hale, Rye, N. H., recently was awarded the Good Conduct Medal while serving with the 517th Artillery at Fort Clayton, Canal Zone.

He was awarded the medal in recognition of his exemplary conduct, efficiency and fidelity as a soldier in the active Federal military service.

Specialist Hale entered the Army in May 1955 and arrived overseas on this tour of duty in September 1960.

Hale, whose mother, Mrs. Dorothy B. Howe, lives in Lake Katrine, is a 1950 graduate of Wisconsin High School, in Madison.

The material of some stars is so dense that a cubic inch of it may weigh as much as 650 tons.

Boss Man

DETROIT (NEA)—A photographer was putting the Detroit Lions through their paces for the camera. There was a great deal of coercing, cajoling, teasing and downright direct orders. Roger Brown, 300-pound sophomore tackle, commented, "What in the world is he, a photographer or a line coach?"

Male trout are more aggressive than females when feeding and are more likely to take dry flies.

Baptist Men Are To Hear Angler At Dinner, 27th

Guest speaker for the opening fall dinner meeting of the Men's Club of First Baptist Church next Wednesday, Sept. 27, will be Chet Joy, regarded by many as Ulster County's most renown fisherman.

Joy will speak on Conservation —Its Meaning, following the dinner scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

Installation of newly elected officers also will highlight the program.

Winchell New President

The new slate includes Abram D. Winchell, president; George Kenneda, vice-president; John Rogaski, treasurer and Alfred E. Shultis, secretary. Retiring officers are George W. Chase, president; President-elect Winchell, vice-president; Elston North Jr., treasurer and Irwin J. Thomas, secretary.

Arthur T. Pedersen, ticket chairman, reports that all of his committee members have tickets. Reservations for the dinner are requested by Sunday night, Sept. 24.

Joy, an ardent outdoorsman, angler and writer, is a past president and charter member of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club. He also is a former chairman of the fish committee of the Federated Sportsmen's Club of Ulster County.

Honored by Club

The local angler was honored last year by the Katrine sport club with the annual Best Sportsman award for his efforts to national levels and conservation.

He has authored many articles, some of which have appeared in The Freeman and in other leading national outdoor publications.

His writings include Forest Waters and Conservation Foresight, Our Hudson, Its Meaning; The Catskill Mountains Erosion Center and Water Resources, Key to a Fluid Balanced Economy.

Joy also has made several public appearances in the area, speaking before such groups as the Boy Scouts, Kiwanis, Lions, church and political organizations.

During his talk next Wednesday Joy plans to give his interpretation on some of the profound quotes of the world renowned naturalist, John Burroughs, whose deep studies of the ways of nature and God led to many works of enlightment on his beloved Catskill Mountain region.

Joy's appearance for the Baptist Men's Club meeting was obtained through the program committee, Albert O. Sonnenberg, chairman.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How does it feel to spend $18 million?

Not bad, says Aaron Rosenberg. He is clear of eye, light of foot and free of ulcers.

In fact, you would hardly know that he is spending a record sum for any movie and inheriting a record number of headaches with it. He is producing the second "Mutiny On The Bounty."

"Spending umpteen million on a movie is no different than spending oom millions," said Rosenberg, a man who uses his own style of calculation. "The only difference is the bills come larger."

Nearing End

So do the rumors. There have been all kinds about the massive production, which started last Nov. 28 and will finish in three weeks. The most recurrent one is that star Marlon Brando has been the cause of delays for various reasons.

Brando, who seldom reacts to what is printed about him, is hopping mad about the reports. Rosenberg added his endorsement for the star.

"The reports are nonsense," the producer said.

Then what has caused the delays?

Rosenberg rattled them off by the dozen:

The Bounty replica was four months late in delivery. "It was a bad year for lumber.") The writers' strike stalled production. The film had to start with half a script because of actor commitments. The ship delay put the company in Tahiti at the rainy season.

Carol Reed was replaced as director by Louis Milestone ("The dispute was between Reed and me over how the film was to be shot; Marlon was not involved.") An alcoholic actor kicked up a fuss and was sent home. Another actor died.

Even with all the problems, the mind fails to comprehend how $18 million can be spent on one motion picture.

All Mounts Up

"It's easy," the producer explained. "You've got 2 million tied up in a cast. Another 2 million goes to build, outfit and man the Bounty. You spend half a million for the story rights from MGM. Four and a half million go to the studio for overhead—30 per cent of the total bill.

"Then you have director cost—two of them, and script charges; we've had five writers, none of them cheap. You spend a couple of million on the Tahiti location. Take a few items like 1,000 canoes and you see how it mounts up."

Radio Cars

Baptist Men Are To Hear Angler At Dinner, 27th

Guest speaker for the opening fall dinner meeting of the Men's Club of First Baptist Church next Wednesday, Sept. 27, will be Chet Joy, regarded by many as Ulster County's most renown fisherman.

Joy will speak on Conservation —Its Meaning, following the dinner scheduled for 6:30 p. m.

Installation of newly elected officers also will highlight the program.

Winchell New President

The new slate includes Abram D. Winchell, president; George Kenneda, vice-president; John Rogaski, treasurer and Alfred E. Shultis, secretary. Retiring officers are George W. Chase, president; President-elect Winchell, vice-president; Elston North Jr., treasurer and Irwin J. Thomas, secretary.

Arthur T. Pedersen, ticket chairman, reports that all of his committee members have tickets. Reservations for the dinner are requested by Sunday night, Sept. 24.

Joy, an ardent outdoorsman, angler and writer, is a past president and charter member of the Lake Katrine Rod and Gun Club. He also is a former chairman of the fish committee of the Federated Sportsmen's Club of Ulster County.

Honored by Club

The local angler was honored last year by the Katrine sport club with the annual Best Sportsman award for his efforts to national levels and conservation.

He has authored many articles, some of which have appeared in The Freeman and in other leading national outdoor publications.

His writings include Forest Waters and Conservation Foresight, Our Hudson, Its Meaning; The Catskill Mountains Erosion Center and Water Resources, Key to a Fluid Balanced Economy.

Joy also has made several public appearances in the area, speaking before such groups as the Boy Scouts, Kiwanis, Lions, church and political organizations.

During his talk next Wednesday Joy plans to give his interpretation on some of the profound quotes of the world renowned naturalist, John Burroughs, whose deep studies of the ways of nature and God led to many works of enlightment on his beloved Catskill Mountain region.

Joy's appearance for the Baptist Men's Club meeting was obtained through the program committee, Albert O. Sonnenberg, chairman.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — How does it feel to spend $18 million?

Not bad, says Aaron Rosenberg. He is clear of eye, light of foot and free of ulcers.

In fact, you would hardly know that he is spending a record sum for any movie and inheriting a record number of headaches with it. He is producing the second "Mutiny On The Bounty."

"Spending umpteen million on a movie is no different than spending oom millions," said Rosenberg, a man who uses his own style of calculation. "The only difference is the bills come larger."

Nearing End

So do the rumors. There have been all kinds about the massive production, which started last Nov. 28 and will finish in three weeks. The most recurrent one is that star Marlon Brando has been the cause of delays for various reasons.

Brando, who seldom reacts to what is printed about him, is hopping mad about the reports. Rosenberg added his endorsement for the star.

"The reports are nonsense," the producer said.

Then what has caused the delays?

Rosenberg rattled them off by the dozen:

The Bounty replica was four months late in delivery. "It was a bad year for lumber.") The writers' strike stalled production. The film had to start with half a script because of actor commitments. The ship delay put the company in Tahiti at the rainy season.

Carol Reed was replaced as director by Louis Milestone ("The dispute was between Reed and me over how the film was to be shot; Marlon was not involved.") An alcoholic actor kicked up a fuss and was sent home. Another actor died.

Even with all the problems, the mind fails to comprehend how $18 million can be spent on one motion picture.

All Mounts Up

"It's easy," the producer explained. "You've got 2 million tied up in a cast. Another 2 million goes to build, outfit and man the Bounty. You spend half a million for the story rights from MGM. Four and a half million go to the studio for overhead—30 per cent of the total bill.

"Then you have director cost—two of them, and script charges; we've had five writers, none of them cheap. You spend a couple of million on the Tahiti location. Take a few items like 1,000 canoes and you see how it mounts up."

Radio Cars

W. Berliners Cool To U.N. Site Idea

BERLIN (AP) — The idea of transferring U. N. headquarters to this troubled city leaves most West Berliners cool.

Most people asked about it had no confidence that bringing the world body here from New York would bring peace. Some went so far as to point to the Congo and suggest the U. N. presence in Berlin might lead to more trouble.

Both East and West have floated informal suggestions that the transfer here of the U. N. might be a way out of the impasse over Berlin.

Izvestia, the official Soviet government newspaper, endorsed the idea this week as worth considering. Premier Khrushchev has indicated he would support the idea if the Western allies quit the city.

On the Western side Konrad Adenauer, the chancellor of West Germany, has called it "a bold proposal" that might ease tension over Berlin.

His political rival, Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin, however, thought the project "not very realistic." He insisted any U. N. plan would have to include both West Berlin and the Communist East sector, now sealed off behind a wall.

What does the Berliner-in-the-street think?

Some businessmen thought the stimulus to tourism and the arrival of highly paid diplomats would give the economy a shot in the arm. But most people feared that in the long run the Communists would be able to twist the situation to their advantage.

There were 97,910 forest fires in the United States in 1959—one every five and a half minutes.

Clooney, Ferrer Divorce Planning Stirs Film Colony

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—In a development that caught most of the film colony by surprise, legal representatives of Rosemary Clooney confirmed today that the singer plans to seek a divorce from her academy award-winning husband, Jose Ferrer.

Ferrer, the versatile actor-director best known for his movie portrayal of Cyrano de Bergerac in 1950, married Miss Clooney eight years ago. They have five children.

Miss Clooney, 33, was not available for comment.

The marriage was the first for the singer and the third for Ferrer. He formerly was the husband of Uta Hagen and Phyllis Hill.

The Ferrers' children are Miguel, 6; Maria, 5; Gabrielle, 4; Monsita, 3; and Rafael, 1.

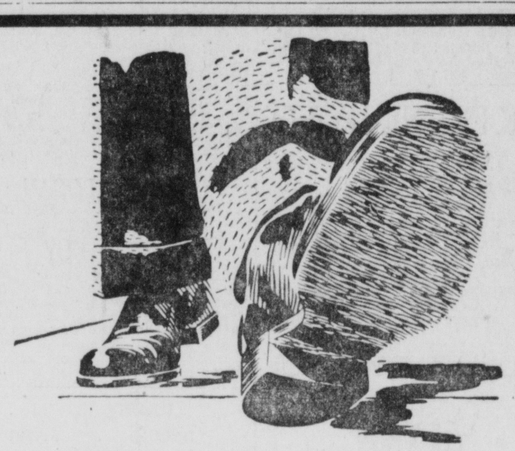

It is estimated that 40 per cent of all U. S. wives have jobs outside the home.
